DEATH ROLL

SOL SEWARD WORKMAN

Sol S. Workman, 60, of near Hillsboro, died at the Pocahontas Memorial hospital early last Saturday morning after he had contracted pneumonia following an emergency operation.

Mr. Workman was born at Queen Ridge, in Wayne county, November 10, 1882, the son of Andrew Jackson and Sarah Ann Pack Workman.

At two different times, the deceased had served as town policeman for Marlinton, a position he held at the time of his death, and had been constable in other sections of the county. He had a wide circle of friends, and had gained the respect of all who knew him. Mr. Workman was a member of the Methodist church and of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He was a staunch supporter of the Republican party and was a candidate for deputy sheriff of Pocahontas county a few years ago on that ticket.

Mr. Workman married Miss Bessie Ellen Johnson of Seebert, who survives him, along with the following children: Mrs. Hansford (Zella) Halbrook of Rainelle, Mrs. Francis (Bertha) Bowyer of the state of Delaware, Mrs. Roy (Delphia) Teter of Baltimore, Imogene Workman, Audrey Workman, Mary Workman, Andrew Workman, George Workman, Darley Workman, Donald Workman, Homer Workman (who is in foreign service with the U. S. Army), William Workman and Richard Workman. Another son died in infancy.

Also surviving are the following brothers and sisters: James Workman of Hillsboro, George Workman of Peell, Wash., Silas Workman of Hillsboro, Forrest Workman of Millpoint, Mrs. Flora Birchwood of Huntington and Mrs. Hannah Sizemore of Ashland, Ky. Three sisters and two brothers preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Hillsboro Methodist Church. Town and county officials and business people were among those who attended, and members of the Odd Fellows lodge attended in a body. Services were conducted by Rev. L. S. Shires, assisted by Rev. R. D. Marshall, and the church choir sang "Rock of Ages," "On Jordan's Stormy Banks," and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Interment was made in the cemetery at Hillsboro.

Palbearers were Guy Faulkner, J. M. Johnson, Walter Mason, T. J. Mason, Carl Sheets and James Bear.

MRS. NANNIE COFFMAN

Mrs. Nannie Elizabeth Lyons Coffman died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Coffman of near Marlinton, on Thursday morning, April 1, 1943. She was born May 11, 1864, in Mineral county, and was a daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth Lyons.

Surviving are her husband, John Wesley Coffman, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Workman of New Creek, and the following children: John Coffman of Marlinton, Mrs. Carl Nottingham of Marlinton, Sgt. B. K. Coffman of Port Leavenworth, Kara, Mrs. J. E. Gregory of Elkins, F. D. Coffman of Millpoint, and Mrs. A. H. Knapp of Williamsport.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Marlinton Presbyterian church in charge of Rev. James C. Wool, assisted by Rev. Blaine Nutter. Interment was made in the Mountain View cemetery here.

JANE LAYTON HUBARD

Death occurred last night Jane Layton Hubard, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Douglas Hubard of Marlinton, on Sunday, April 5, 1943. The child suffered an attack of meningitis on Saturday.

She was the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin W. Price of Marlinton, and just last week had visited at the home of the grandparents here. Mr. and Mrs. Price and their daughter, Miss Jane Hubard, and Mrs. Hubard, who have been in Marlinton since the death of their son, were at the home of the grandparents at the time of the child's death.

MISS FATE SHARP

Miss Fate Sharp, 36, of Clarksville, on Monday of the government of West Virginia, in C. and there was a meeting in the government of West Virginia.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sharp, who have been in Clarksville since the death of their son, who was killed in the war.

MISS LARA E. SLADE

Miss Lara E. Slade, 16, of Clarksville, on Monday of the government of West Virginia, in C. and there was a meeting in the government of West Virginia.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Slade, who have been in Clarksville since the death of their son, who was killed in the war.

County Man Pleads Guilty To Setting Two Forest Fires

Two incendiary blazes wrought destruction on approximately 100 acres of Pocahontas county forest lands last week-end. One of the fires raged on Beaver Lick Mountain, near Watauga State Park, and the other on Middle Mountain, about 5 1/2 miles southwest of Rimel. Crews gathered by the Forest Service leaders fought the fires for about 7 hours before they were brought under control.

John L. Combs, of Anthony's Creek, this county, was arrested by local Forest officers on a federal warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Brackman, and pleaded guilty to a charge of willfully and maliciously setting the forest on fire on Sunday, April 4. Combs is charged with starting both of the fires, one of which was set in 7 different places. He was ordered held in jail in default of $1,000 bail, to await action of the federal grand jury on July 14.

87 Purebred Bulls And Heifers In 9th Annual W. Va. Sale

Event on April 21-22 Includes Animals From 41 Top Beef Herds in State.

Eighty-seven of West Virginia's finest purebred Hereford and Aberdeen Angus bulls and heifers will be exhibited and will go on the auction block at the State 4-H camp at Jackson's Mill on April 21-22 when the ninth annual West Virginia Purebred Bull and Heifer Show and Sale will be staged under the auspices of the West Virginia Livestock Association, with the cooperation of the State Department of Agriculture, the Agricultural Extension Service, and the Hereford and Aberdeen-Angus breeders' associations.

Thirty-five Hereford bulls and 35 Hereford heifers, as well as 8 Angus bulls and 9 heifers, have been selected for the show and sale from the scores of animals originally consigned to the event. Thirty-three Hereford and 8 Angus breeders will have animals in the show and sale. The 87 animals in the 1943 show and sale will be the largest number ever to be shown in the annual event.

The show will open on Wednesday afternoon, April 21, at 1 o'clock when the Hereford heifers and some classes of Hereford bulls will be shown. The remainder of the Hereford bulls and the Angus bulls and heifers will be shown on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Judges of the show will be Dr. C. D. Lowe, of the United States Department of Agriculture, and E. A. Livesey, head of the department of animal husbandry, West Virginia University.

Gartin Is Auctioneer

The auction will take place at 1 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Col. Earl Gartin, of Greensburg, Ind., who has cried all previous state bull and heifer sales, will be the auctioneer.

The sale offers an excellent opportunity for farmers and livestock men of the state to buy good herd sires and foundation female stock for general improvement of their beef herds, according to Benjamin F. Creech, Extension animal husbandman of West Virginia University. Mr. Creech cites the sale as an excellent medium for getting a wider distribution of purebred breeding stock in West Virginia, and urges West Virginia livestock men to take advantage of the offering. All animals in the show and sale are from accredited herds or herds in the process of being accredited.

Negro Man Called to Army

Lanty W. Howard of Beard was accepted for service in the Army at the induction station at Clarksville, March 25, and reported to the Local Board at Marlinton for transportation to the Reception Center at Fort Hayes, O., Friday, April 2, 1943.

Carr Enlists in Navy

C. C. Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carr of Marlinton, left Monday for Washington for induction into the United States Navy. It is reported by Rectorius Rectorius.

THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES

American People Face Acid Test in Treasury's 2nd War Loan To Raise 13 Billion Dollars in Three Weeks

The Nation Dare Not Fail in This Greatest Financing Task in History—They Give Their Lives—You Lend Your Money.

Washington, D. C.—Coming as it does upon the heels of income tax payments, the people of America will face an acid test this month when the Treasury's Second War Loan drive opens April 12 with an objective of thirteen billion dollars to be raised through sale of Government securities.

A substantial part of this huge financing, the most stupendous ever undertaken by any government in the world's history, must be loaned by people in ordinary walks of life.

High Government officials have pointed out that the nation must not fail in this duty to our men on the battle fronts who are now carrying the offensive to the enemy at every stage. It is obvious to every thinking man and woman that as the United Nations take this offensive against the dictators, the cost of war operations increases in proportion.

The American people must no longer think of war costs in terms of equipping a soldier, building a tank or plane or a ship. We must now think in terms of the cost of battles, invasions and new offensives. Attacking armies cost more money than equipping that army and we must meet that increased cost by buying more War Bonds and Second War Loan Securities.

They Give Their Lives.

It is not only necessary that the American people left here at home assume this additional participation in the war effort—it is an honor to do so... for we here at home can do no less than attempt to approach the sacrifices of our brave men out on the fighting fronts to whom the act of great measure of sacrifice is a daily offering. They give their lives... we are asked only to lend our money.

And that is the theme of the Second War Loan, "They Give Their Lives—You Lend Your Money."

Financial experts who know monetary conditions in the nation point out that at the present time there is in liquid funds, cash and commercial bank deposits over and above Government Bonds, and over and above what can be bought this year because of restrictions and rationing... approximately 40 billions of dollars which should go into Government Bonds.

It should be the objective of every American to invest these loose dollars, idle dollars, in Government securities, not only from a patriotic standpoint, but from the standpoint of their own financial security. There is available during the Second War Loan a type of Security to fit every pocketbook.

Are Wild Dollars

Every dollar of these forty billions of dollars available, which is not invested in Government securities during this War Loan Drive is a "wild" dollar which, together with its mates, will tend to increase inflation. Uncontrolled inflation might raise the cost of living to a point where the dollar is worthless. It can happen. It happened in Germany after the last war when the price of a loaf of bread cost more than an annual wage.

Invested in Government securities, your dollar will work for you. It will hold down inflation because it is harnessed in war work; it will help buy food, transportation, munitions for our boys on the front lines and it will be earning interest that, together with your original loan, will come back to you later to help you buy the things you cannot buy today... to insure your peace of the future.

Remember those boys out there in Tunisia... in the South Pacific... They give their lives—You lend your money.

Navy Recruiting Cruiser Will Visit Marlinton Apr. 13

A U. S. Navy Recruiting Cruiser, under the command of Ensign W. B. Moseley, will tour the state of West Virginia during the period of April 1 to 21 for the purpose of stimulating interest in the WAVES and Sea Corps in charge of the West Virginia Navy Recruiting District, announces.

Dr. Franklin Widney Honored by Dental Society

At a meeting of the Monongahela Valley Dental Society last week at Fairmont, Dr. F. J. Widney, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Widney of Frank, was elected to the office of secretary.

Other officers are: Dr. C. J. G. F. E. Karchival of Kingswood, vice president.

Local Woman, Riveter At Baltimore, Given Award

Mrs. Ann Tallman, a former Marlinton resident, has been awarded a Merit Award by the Glenn L. Martin Company at Baltimore, where she is now employed, according to an announcement from the plant.

The award was made to Mrs. Tallman when officials making a tour of inspection noted unusual dexterity in riveting being displayed by the former local woman, and learned that with a minimum amount of training she was doing far more work than many of the more experienced employees. After only 8 days of instruction, the report says, Mrs. Tallman was put to work riveting on the top skin of a P. B. M.-3.

WAR FUND DRIVE ONLY $800 SHORT OF 1943 QUOTA

Pocahontas Tanning Company Gives Sum of $300.

That interest among county citizens in regard to putting the Red Cross War Fund drive for $3,500 "over the top," in response to an appeal for increased giving, is being proved by the size and number of donations which have poured into the local headquarters during the past week. The "Greatest Mother On Earth," it appears, will have reason to be proud of the generosity of her children.

A gift of $300 from the Pocahontas Tanning Company at Frank, the amount being from the company itself and not the employees, whose list of donations has not yet been turned in, gave impetus to the drive, and is the largest single donation so far received in the campaign.

But reports from the office of Mack H. Brooks, county chairman, after conferring with Mrs. H. M. Widney, drive chairman, and other county leaders, indicates that the total amount of the drive has now reached approximately $2,700.

County leaders met Tuesday for the purpose of effecting final plans to bring in the other $800 needed to achieve the goal.

While space this week will probably not allow complete publication of the long list of donors which is now in our hands, we shall publish names as space will permit each week until the list has been covered.

The partial list is as follows:
Frost and Mt. Zion—Donations, $1.35; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hively $2, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buzzard $2, Mr. Ernest Sharp $1, Mrs. Minnie Townsend $1, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Townsend $2, Jack Townsend 25c, Mrs. Lester Tennant 75c, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Chestnut $1, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Gibson $6, Miss Edna Lee Gibson $2, Richard Gibson $1, Sam Gibson $1, A. Uncle "Pud" Tucker — Says —

By HOY McCUSKEY

SELFISHNESS

Selfishness is the illegitimate offspring of ambition and progression. It's the old devil himself heapin' on the fagots that keep alive in the human breast the flames of greed. It's the evil worm which is now feedin' on the good motives of our people who are trying to have our boys well fed and physically fit to win this war in the shortest time possible. Any of us who listen to selfishness and highball down to the nearest grocery to get extra steak and essential are just plain every day hoarders.

IT Impresses

THAT there must be dozens of you who will remember that when you were a Senior in high school, and it came time to raise the inevitable funds for year-end activities, and the going got kind of tough, you made a mental resolution that when you grew up and had money of your own you'd see to it that the Senior Class got a helping hand from you every year... Now, didn't you? Well, it's here again... And the local Seniors are going to give your year chance to come through, because next Monday and Tuesday they are sponsoring a movie at the Alpine, called "Springtime In The Rockies"... And aside from helping the deserving upper-class students, it will give you another chance to see Betty Grable's beautiful hands... and that's worth the price of the admission... If "Ham" Hamilton were here, I could assure the Seniors that he'd want a ticket for each night, just like I bought... because we are both admirers of the lovely hands of Betty Grable and Carmen Miranda, and we never missed an opportunity to exchange views concerning our observations... It's only incidental, of course, but for the women and jitterbugs, we might mention that the show also brings John Payne and Harry James and His Music Makers...

THAT while we're speaking of our friend "Ham," we ought to tell you that he is now well on his way to becoming a general... have been given the rating of Private First Class last week... But Uncle Sam is way behind for once, because we knew a long while ago that he was First Class...

THAT this should be a lesson to you gals who get too anxious... An exchange paper tells of a man of that community who became ill and was confined to his bed. The second day he was home his wife asked him where he kept his life insurance papers. It made him so mad that he got up, put on his clothes, and went to town...

THAT a great many women live out more Scriptural injunctions that they are probably aware of... One, for instance, is that of Acts 18:9, which reads: "Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace"...

THAT if you think it's hard to get into trouble, just read this... A man, none too prepossessing in appearance, appeared in court charged with bigamy... He had a whole string of wives... The judge, noting his appearance, became curious and wanted to know how one man could get all those women to marry him. "How did you do it?" the judge asked. The man replied, "Gosh, Judge, I just asked 'em, that's all'..."

THAT that is funny to me—because it's the same way I got mine... —The Editor.

Two-Minute Sermon

IT WORKS BEST WHEN WE LIVE IT

I recall that as a boy in school the rule for the extraction of the cube root and the rules governing problems in percentage and fractions puzzled me greatly. I tried to commit them to memory before working the problems. I found that it was much easier to sit down and work the problems along with the rule. When I had worked a problem and secured the correct answer I was happily surprised to learn that I also knew the rule. There was something about working it out, interpreting the instructions into action that made both the rule and the working of the problem seem simpler. They just naturally seemed to fit together. I think the same thing is true in the matter of religion. If we approach it with the idea of first learning a lot about the rules of things to do and things not to do it is going to appear difficult and leave us confused. If, however, we live it as we go along by living good lives, by being kind, considerate, sincere, honest and temperate, we will find that it fits together in a perfect scheme of living. Religion is not so much a collection of rules as it is a scheme of living. Like the mathematical example it works best when we live it and work it.

Ladies' Aid Will Hold Rummage and Bake Sale

The Ladies' Aid of the Marlinton Methodist Church will sponsor a rummage sale, Friday and Saturday, April 9 and 10, in the Golden show building on Main street. The affair also will include a Bake Sale on Saturday.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Forces Gain Ground in Tunisia; New Food Czar Seeks Speedy Solution Of Acute Farm Production Problems; Russ Offensives Endanger Smolensk

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For conspicuous heroism as leader of a marine fighting squadron in aerial combat with Jap forces in the Solomon Islands, Maj. Robert E. Galer is presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt. The air hero's mother is shown helping to adjust the pendant on which the decoration hangs.

FOOD:

3-Way Attack

No stranger to farm problems, food production or the delicate job of dealing with recalcitrant congressmen was Chester C. Davis, recently appointed chief of the new Administration of Food Production and Distribution. Former head of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Davis knew the ropes in Washington and how to keep from getting tangled in them.

For weeks the capital had expected some action in the increasingly critical food production situation. By relieving hard-pressed Secretary of Agriculture Wickard of his food administration tasks and appointing Mr. Davis as sole food czar, President Roosevelt had created a new three-way agency, combining the Food Production Administration, the Food Distribution Administration and the Farm Labor Administration.

Closer working agreements between congress and the food administration and a minimum of official friction in dealing with war-created farm problems were expected to result under Davis' administration. Observers agreed that Davis had one of the toughest jobs in history, but they were betting he would win.

AIR RAIDS:

Woe to Axis

Axis-held Europe will soon be subjected to "round-the-clock air raids in which newer, bigger and faster American bombers will carry three or four times the bomb weight of present Flying Fortresses.

This prediction was made in London by Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. army air forces in Britain. American forces, he said, are now ready to build up a striking power on a par with that of the Royal Air Force. Soon, he added, will begin the sustained offensive in which the Americans will strike at Europe by day and the British will bomb by night.

General Eaker disclosed that in a series of 51 raids, the U. S. army air force has lost fewer than 90 bombers.

NORTH AFRICA:

Rough Road Ahead

The battle to clear the Axis out of Tunisia was going to take time. Rommel's army still had an offensive "kick." The struggle was likely to get tougher before it got better.

These facts emerged more clearly as the insupportable pressure of the Allied forces ringed the enemy was met by counter attacks which had regained the Rommel's army much of the ground lost when the British Eighth Army sliced into the Mareth line.

The communiques did not indicate any lessening of the Allied effort. They merely served to show that the battle was by no means won at the present time. The conviction of an ultimate Axis defeat continued.

While the British steadily continued the West African drive, the Americans under Gen. George S. Patton not only held their previous gains at El Guettar in the "meat" of Tunisia but pushed on the east toward the coast in the coastal road.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

MANAGUA: Primitive idols, grinding stones and ceramic objects that are supposed to shed light on the Aztec civilization were unearthed by workers excavating for the highway to the Colima region in the lower American highlands near Mexico. The articles were found in the central highland region of Mexico.

DOCTORS:

Rural U. S. Praised

Praising the rural areas of the United States for having in many instances exceeded their quotas in contributing doctors to the nation's armed forces, the American Medical Association declared that enrollments of medical officers in the army and navy are lagging because of the failure of young available physicians in large cities to volunteer for duty. This situation is particularly prevalent along the Eastern seaboard, the association's official magazine charged.

The fact that the armed services are not getting all the doctors they need was disclosed at a recent meeting with military authorities in Washington, the Journal of the American Medical Association said. The conference revealed that 6,000 doctors must be drawn from the civilian population this year.

FLOUR:

16 Millers Indicted

In Chicago a federal grand jury indicted 16 flour milling companies and the industry's trade association on charges of conspiracy to fix prices of packaged family flour—the kind ordinarily sold for use in homes throughout the United States.

The indictment charged that the defendants who mill 81 per cent of the 45,000,000 barrels of family flour sold annually met from time to time and agreed upon a uniform schedule of price differentials to be applied to the various sizes of packages in which the flour is sold. Addition of packaging charges had the effect of increasing bulk prices charged by millers by more than 100 per cent in some sizes, the indictment alleged.

The Miller's federation in a statement declared "there are no price agreements in the milling industry and there is no price fixing of family flour."

RUSSIA:

Action Slackens

Although the tempo of battle on the Russian front had slowed down and action appeared to be drifting into a deadlock in several sectors, the Red army had continued its dogged drive through the spring slush and mud toward Smolensk.

Meanwhile German onslaughts designed to gain control of the upper Donets river valley had slackened following the furious resistance of the Russian defenders.

The Russian move toward Smolensk took the form of a north-south drive. The heaviest assault, a Soviet war bulletin reported sharp thrusts by the Red forces north of Duhovschino, 32 miles northeast of Smolensk. At the same time a Russian column was reported moving toward Dorogobuzh, below the Moscow-Vyasma-Smolensk railway and 55 miles east of Smolensk. Pierce counter-attacks with heavy concentrations of artillery backing up infantry were being undertaken by the Germans, a Russ communique reported.

To the south, the Germans were paying a heavy price in men and material for their effort to gain control of the upper Donets river basin. Nazi attempts to establish bases on the east bank of the river had been severely repulsed.

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Prelude to Storm?

A lull in activity on both the Allied and Jap sides of the Pacific war had been taken by some observers to be merely the prelude to a storm ahead.

Action for some days was confined to local air and sea attacks in various sectors of the South Pacific. In the Solomon Islands, air raids were traded. American bombers strafed Rekata bay, while the Japs inflicted some damage on Guadalcanal. Further to the east, an American submarine torpedoed and sank a Japanese submarine. In Burma, American fighters attacked the long railway viaduct between Mandalay and Lashio, a bridge north of Rangoon and the Thai railway junction. The RAF bombed Donbaik, north of Akyb.

ABSENTEES:

Women Worst Offenders

Women war workers were charged with being guilty of almost twice as much absenteeism as men, in a report compiled by the National Industrial Conference board.

Covering a "sample" group of 29 plants employing 105,620 persons, the report showed that in a single month 82,618 worker-days had been lost and that female employees averaged 1.16 days out of the month while male workers lost 0.65 day each.

Women showed a greater tendency to be absent for personal reasons, the survey disclosed. The board found that 50.4 per cent of their absences were in this compared with 47.8 per cent for men.

RAW MATERIALS:

Allies Now 'Solvent'

William L. Batt, vice chairman of the War Production board, announced that the United Nations have now achieved "solvent" in raw materials and "are assured of sufficient amounts of all kinds to meet any military needs regardless of the length of the war."

"No material is being used faster by the United Nations today than is being produced," he said. "It can be stated with complete safety that whatever the length of the war, ample raw materials are available to meet our military needs."

Batt credited the accomplishment to the combined raw materials board of the United Nations, established by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their White House conferences in December, 1941.

UNIONS:

War to Cease?

Many a priceless hour of war production time had been lost in jurisdictional disputes between rival unions. Although some wrangles still appeared inevitable, the heads of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations agreed to take definite steps to end the difficulties.

Appearing before the senate's Truman investigating committee William Green, president of the AFL, and Philip Murray, president of the CIO, promised to reopen negotiations to end "union raiding," the maneuver by which one union seeks to oust another from representation of workers.

WAR BONDS:

'They Give Their Lives'

"They give their lives—You lend your money."

That is the slogan of the treasury department's second War Loan drive opening April 12, which has as its objective raising 13 billion dollars through the sale of government securities. A substantial part of this vast financing—the most stupendous in world history—will be loaned by people in ordinary walks of life.

Financial experts point out that there are in liquid funds in the U. S. at present, more than 40 billion dollars which should go into the purchase of government bonds. It is from this huge reservoir that the treasury expects to meet its new goal.

SPENDING SPREE:

81 Billions in '42

Americans dipped into their war-swollen pocketbooks to the tune of $81,800,000,000 in 1942 in a spending spree that exceeded all previous records, according to a compilation by the U. S. department of commerce.

Officials of the commerce department warned that this spending spree would continue unabated in 1943 unless more effective steps were taken in price control, rationing and fiscal policies.

Little Evidence Seen of Farm Land Speculation

Rural America Seen as Bulwark Against Post-War Depression; 'Nervous Gentlemen' Admit Possibilities of Speculative Wave.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

If you see a cheerful glow along the horizon of rural America these evenings, you'll know what it is—not a prairie fire or the neighbor's barn, but the happy light of burning mortgages.

The farmers of America have had their lesson. They aren't throwing their money around this time. They are paying their debts. They are becoming the solid citizens of the nation. They are building a bulwark against a post-war depression that can save the nation financially, unless . . .

Right now, the financial health of rural America is better than it has been in many a long decade. But certain nervous gentlemen are beginning to worry. Will the farmer keep to the straight and narrow or will he be tempted to put down an option on distant hills which are beginning to turn an alluring green?

Listen to what one of those cautious gentlemen in Washington, Frank Wilson of the department of commerce, has to say. Why, you may ask, does the department of commerce, whose job it is to look after the welfare of the city man, worry about the farmer? Well, when the farmer goes broke, the city man closes up shop. But, a word from Mr. Wilson:

"While the level of farm values throughout most parts of the Middle West has increased 10 to 15 per cent in the last year, and the transfer of farm properties has been greatly accelerated, there is, as yet, no evidence of the recurrence of the destructive speculation in farm lands which followed the First World war."

So far so good. But here is Mr. Wilson's postscript:

"Farm lending authorities throughout that area, however, admit that conditions are in the making from which a speculative wave might result unless price control measures can be effective in holding farm prices at or only moderately above present levels."

Mortgage Survey

The department of commerce made a survey of the farm mortgage situation in 19 states where the bulk of the food production for war is being made.

The federal land banks and the Farm Credit Administration which has been watching this situation like a hawk has plenty of data. One out of every ten—or more than 100,000—farmer-borrowers from the 12 federal land banks and land bank commissioner repaid his loan in full in 1942.

In the 19 states the department of commerce studied, according to the 1940 census, there were more than three million farms, more than half of all the farms in the country. Their total value is well over half the total value of farm lands in the country.

The survey of this territory, just made public, shows that in 1940, '41 and '42, indebtedness of farmers to the Farm Credit Administration dropped a quarter of a billion dollars. This includes the drouth area in Kansas, one of the states hit hardest by the drouth, 10,000 farmers kept right on paying until they had deposited a million dollars in the "future payment fund" to anticipate labor installments. Similar statistics could be reeled off for other areas.

One thing that has helped the debt payment is the inability to get into further debt—for automobiles and other commodities which just aren't for sale.

Will that memory fade? Will the farmer's money begin to burn a hole in his pocket? Will those green pastures just over the hill begin to lure him beyond his means?

As I said, the cautious folk in Washington are a little worried. These are some of the danger signals they see:

A possible rise in values which cannot be exactly predicted or explained. But which is always a possibility, if not now, after the war. Then there will be an accumulation of cash; there will be a lot of war bonds in the safe deposit box or in the old sock. There will be a lot of husky young sons returning from the war for whom fathers will want to buy farms, there will be perhaps an increased demand for farm products as new foreign markets are opened or the United States begins to help feed a starving world.

In some places, there is evidence of the tendency toward speculation money against Iowa farm land as low as 2 1/2 per cent. Speculation in livestock is going on in some places. But there is no trend now toward the wild buying of World War I.

"And," says Mr. Wilson, "if the tremendous gains in the farm indebtedness situation can be held, the capacity of the great agricultural areas of the nation to absorb the flood of products that will come to all markets after the war will be tremendous."

The financial fate of post-war America is pretty much in the hands of the farmers. Let's hope he won't let it (and his spare cash) slip through his fingers.

Two-Way Attack

On 'Beveridge Plan'

When the administration's "Beveridge plan" for increased social security and post-war adjustment was made public, congress proceeded to make it plain that they intended to pigeon-hole it. The general impression was that it was laid away because it was too "socialistic" to suit the right wingers or even some of the middle-of-the-roads.

But do not think that all the opposition came from one direction. The first adventure of the new social security program was, in reality, very much like the "Charge of the Light Brigade" for there were "cannons to right of them" and also "cannons to left of them" which volleyed and thundered. As I said, the offensive from the right was taken for granted. But the attack of the left wing, while not as vocal, seems to be just as vehement. There is proof in a press release which probably was released by very few papers. It comes from the "People's Lobby" in Washington, an institution which believes in "public ownership of natural resources, basic industries and essential processing and distributive agencies."

But the "People's Lobby" thinks the President's plan is nowhere near socialistic enough. In fact, it is just "another trick . . . to try to lull the people into a sense of false security while economic royalists continue, through ownership, to dictate the standards of living of the American people."

Washington—

Geometric City

The other day, I heard on a radio broadcast the statement that Washington was a geometric city. We have so many squares and circles and other geometric figures—Dupont circle that I pass every day, Lafayette square with its historic memories (not to mention its squirrels) where I spend my extra seconds; the Octagon house, built by a wealthy friend of George Washington, where society was lavishly entertained in the early 1800s, now preserved by the American Institute of Architects which bought it to preserve its state-ly beauty as well as to house their offices; the sprawling Pentagon building of the army, "a city with a roof over it."

With this in mind, I was suddenly impressed with the new patterns imposed on Washington since the war, the human figures, two of which I watched over my lunch in a restaurant the other day. At the next table were, not circles nor squares but human loops and bulges.

One was a slim man in eyeglasses. His nose was a loop, his smooth hair was looped back over his forehead. His gestures were looped, the back of the wrist bent and higher than his fingertips as he dangled his cigarette—I could only think of the paws of a lachadalsal pup begging for a sweet.

His partner was Mr. Bulge. The bulge began below the wrinkle in his vest and it was the only thing that kept him far enough away from the table to save his bulging nose from reaching the soup I could hear him inhaling. His hands bulged like the padded arms of an overstuffed chair in a hotel lobby. His cheeks were pink and bulging hams.

Washington is learning new lessons in human geometry.

MENTAL AILMENTS

There are ailments in which the patient recovers more rapidly in a hospital than in the home and more recovery, this means that the best suited for hospital life is the one who gets contentment from other causes than the home life of the patient. The feeling of fear, anxiety, or nervousness about the outcome of the treatment.

What about slight mental ailments? At first thought it would seem that a patient suffering with mental depression, obsessions, anxiety, or nervousness would recover more rapidly in a hospital than in the home. On second thought, however, the very nature of the home life with its deadly daily routine, quiet or noisy, the overbearing of the family about the patient and the other hand the feeling that there is nothing wrong with him (or her) and that kindness would be a take, interferes with recovery.

Trying to prevent neighbors from guessing that the patient is "mental" case also puts a strain on family and patient.

Doctors D. M. Hamilton and H. Wall in the American Journal of Psychiatry report the results in treatment of 20 patients in hospital instead of the home. Treatment was given at the Westchester Hospital of the New York hospital.

As with the majority of these mental ailments most of these patients were above the average intelligence, the majority had graduated from college and some were standing in professions. The ones which they occurred were depression, anxiety, obsessions, compulsions, hypochondria (the insistence in believing he has ailments despite evidence that he has not), weakness and fear of insanity.

The hospital treatment consisted mainly of interviews with the patient and supervision of his daily activities to fit his needs and wishes. The average length of hospital stay was 8 1/2 months. A follow-up study, four to 14 years after this hospital treatment, showed 40 completely recovered, five much improved, 17 improved, making a total of 62 of the 100 who had been fitted by the treatment. These were not insane patients, but patients who were not properly balanced.

Symptoms of Angina Pectoris

When a pain occurs in the chest of the heart, it is only nature's way of telling the individual to fear heart disease, because heart disease causes pain in and near the heart, especially under the left bone.

What is called angina pectoris is a gripping pain in the chest may or may not be a symptom of real or organic heart disease, the patient should know what angina pectoris is and learn not to be of "sudden death."

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Prof. John A. Toronto, points out some of the standing characteristics of angina.

For instance, angina lasts about one to 30 minutes, average about three minutes. The pain is continuous and is not a little lasting only a second, which goes on and goes on about 15 minutes lasting for hours or days or long for angina.

Pains that have been coming for months or years are common often for coronary thrombosis (narrow occlusion) and are likely to arthritis in joints of spine.

"Angina is a 'wave' of pain is never a shoot, a stab or a stab. Angina is always the same pain in the same patient; but is never a sharp stab followed by dull ache."

In heart disease, such as coronary thrombosis, the pain may come on while at rest or during sleep, whereas in angina most frequent cause is exertion. "One must find out exactly what the patient is doing the instant the pain occurs. Frequently patients will state they get a pain under the breast only after eating, when the pain comes on only 15 minutes after eating. Angina comes on exertion, not afterwards."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Forces Gain Ground in Tunisia; New Food Czar Seeks Speedy Solution Of Acute Farm Production Problems; Russ Offensives Endanger Smolensk

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For conspicuous heroism as leader of a marine fighting squadron in aerial combat with Jap forces in the Solomon Islands, Maj. Robert E. Galer is presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt. The air hero's mother is shown helping to adjust the pendant on which the decoration hangs.

FOOD:

3-Way Attack

No stranger to farm problems, food production or the delicate job of dealing with recalcitrant congressmen was Chester C. Davis, recently appointed chief of the new Administration of Food Production and Distribution. Former head of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Davis knew the ropes in Washington and how to keep from getting tangled in them.

For weeks the capital had expected some action in the increasingly critical food production situation. By relieving hard-pressed Secretary of Agriculture Wickard of his food administration tasks and appointing Mr. Davis as sole food czar, President Roosevelt had created a new three-way agency, combining the Food Production Administration, the Food Distribution Administration and the Farm Labor Administration.

Closer working agreements between congress and the food administration and a minimum of official friction in dealing with war-created farm problems were expected to result under Davis' administration. Observers agreed that Davis had one of the toughest jobs in history, but they were betting he would win.

AIR RAIDS:

Woe to Axis

Axis-held Europe will soon be subjected to "round-the-clock air raids in which newer, bigger and faster American bombers will carry three or four times the bomb weight of present Flying Fortresses.

This prediction was made in London by Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. army air forces in Britain. American forces, he said, are now ready to build up a striking power on a par with that of the Royal Air Force. Soon, he added, will begin the sustained offensive in which the Americans will strike at Europe by day and the British will bomb by night.

General Eaker disclosed that in a series of 51 raids, the U. S. army air force has lost fewer than 90 bombers.

NORTH AFRICA:

Rough Road Ahead

The battle to clear the Axis out of Tunisia was going to take time. Rommel's army still had an offensive "kick." The struggle was likely to get tougher before it got better.

These facts emerged more clearly as the insupportable pressure of the Allied forces ringed the enemy was met by counter attacks which had regained the Rommel's army much of the ground lost when the British Eighth Army sliced into the Mareth line.

The communiques did not indicate any lessening of the Allied effort. They merely served to show that the battle was by no means won at the present time. The conviction of an ultimate Axis defeat continued.

While the British steadily contacted the Axis forces in the south, the Americans under Gen. George S. Patton not only held their previous gains at El Guettar in the "meat" of Tunisia but pushed on the coast of Wadi Marja in a drive on the coastal road.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

MANAGUA: Primitive stone grinding stones and ceramic objects that are supposed to shed light on the ancient civilizations were unearthed by workers excavating the ruins of the ancient Mayan city of Tikal in Guatemala. The artifacts will be housed in the national history museum in Managua.

DOCTORS:

Rural U. S. Praised

Praising the rural areas of the United States for having in many instances exceeded their quotas in contributing doctors to the nation's armed forces, the American Medical Association declared that enrollments of medical officers in the army and navy are lagging because of the failure of young available physicians in large cities to volunteer for duty. This situation is particularly prevalent along the Eastern seaboard, the association's official magazine charged.

The fact that the armed services are not getting all the doctors they need was disclosed at a recent meeting with military authorities in Washington, the Journal of the American Medical Association said. The conference revealed that 6,000 doctors must be drawn from the civilian population this year.

FLOUR:

16 Millers Indicted

In Chicago a federal grand jury indicted 16 flour milling companies and the industry's trade association on charges of conspiracy to fix prices of packaged family flour—the kind ordinarily sold for use in homes throughout the United States.

The indictment charged that the defendants who mill 81 per cent of the 45,000,000 barrels of family flour sold annually met from time to time and agreed upon a uniform schedule of price differentials to be applied to the various sizes of packages in which the flour is sold. Addition of packaging charges had the effect of increasing bulk prices charged by millers by more than 100 per cent in some sizes, the indictment alleged.

The Miller's federation in a statement declared "there are no price agreements in the milling industry and there is no price fixing of family flour."

RUSSIA:

Action Slackens

Although the tempo of battle on the Russian front had slowed down and action appeared to be drifting into a deadlock in several sectors, the Red army had continued its dogged drive through the spring slush and mud toward Smolensk.

Meanwhile German onslaughts designed to gain control of the upper Donets river valley had slackened following the furious resistance of the Russian defenders.

The Russian move toward Smolensk took the form of a north-south drive. The heaviest assault, a Soviet war bulletin reported sharp thrusts by the Red forces north of Dukhovschino, 32 miles northeast of Smolensk. At the same time a Russian column was reported moving toward Dorogobuzh, below the Moscow-Vyasma-Smolensk railway and 55 miles east of Smolensk. Pierce counter-attacks with heavy concentrations of artillery backing up infantry were being undertaken by the Germans, a Russ communique reported.

To the south, the Germans were paying a heavy price in men and material for their effort to gain control of the upper Donets river basin. Nazi attempts to establish bases on the east bank of the river had been severely repulsed.

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Prelude to Storm?

A lull in activity on both the Allied and Jap sides of the Pacific war had been taken by some observers to be merely the prelude to a storm ahead.

Action for some days was confined to local air and sea attacks in various sectors of the South Pacific. In the Solomon Islands, air raids were traded. American bombers strafed Rekata bay, while the Japs inflicted some damage on Guadalcanal. Further to the east, an American submarine torpedoed and sank a Japanese submarine. In Burma, American fighters attacked the long railway viaduct between Mandalay and Lashio, a bridge north of Rangoon and the Thai railway junction. The RAF bombed Donbaik, north of Akyb.

Women Worst Offenders

Women war workers were charged with being guilty of almost twice as much absenteeism as men, in a report compiled by the National Industrial Conference board.

Covering a "sample" group of 29 plants employing 105,620 persons, the report showed that in a single month 82,618 worker-days had been lost and that female employees averaged 1.16 days out of the month while male workers lost 0.65 day each.

Women showed a greater tendency to be absent for personal reasons, the survey disclosed. The board found that 50.4 per cent of their absences were in this compared with 47.8 per cent for men.

RAW MATERIALS:

Allies Now 'Solvent'

William L. Batt, vice chairman of the War Production board, announced that the United Nations have now achieved "solvent" in raw materials and "are assured of sufficient amounts of all kinds to meet any military needs regardless of the length of the war."

"No material is being used faster by the United Nations today than is being produced," he said. "It can be stated with complete safety that whatever the length of the war, ample raw materials are available to meet our military needs."

Batt credited the accomplishment to the combined raw materials board of the United Nations, established by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their White House conferences in December, 1941.

ganizations agreed to take definite steps to end the difficulties.

Appearing before the senate's Truman investigating committee William Green, president of the AFL, and Philip Murray, president of the CIO, promised to reopen negotiations to end "union raiding," the maneuver by which one union seeks to oust another from representation of workers.

WAR BONDS:

'They Give Their Lives'

"They give their lives—You lend your money."

That is the slogan of the treasury department's second War Loan drive opening April 12, which has as its objective raising 13 billion dollars through the sale of government securities. A substantial part of this vast financing—the most stupendous in world history—will be loaned by people in ordinary walks of life.

Financial experts point out that there are in liquid funds in the U. S. at present, more than 40 billion dollars which should go into the purchase of government bonds. It is from this huge reservoir that the treasury expects to meet its new goal.

SPENDING SPREE:

81 Billions in '42

Americans dipped into their war-swollen pocketbooks to the tune of $81,000,000,000 in 1942 in a spending spree that exceeded all previous records, according to a compilation by the U. S. department of commerce.

Officials of the commerce department warned that this spending spree would continue unabated in 1943 unless more effective steps were taken in price control, rationing and fiscal policies.

Little Evidence Seen of Farm Land Speculation

Rural America Seen as Bulwark Against Post-War Depression; 'Nervous Gentlemen' Admit Possibilities of Speculative Wave.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

If you see a cheerful glow along the horizon of rural America these evenings, you'll know what it is—not a prairie fire or the neighbor's barn, but the happy light of burning mortgages.

The farmers of America have had their lesson. They aren't throwing their money around this time. They are paying their debts. They are becoming the solid citizens of the nation. They are building a bulwark against a post-war depression that can save the nation financially, unless . . .

Right now, the financial health of rural America is better than it has been in many a long decade. But certain nervous gentlemen are beginning to worry. Will the farmer keep to the straight and narrow or will he be tempted to put down an option on distant hills which are beginning to turn an alluring green?

Listen to what one of those cautious gentlemen in Washington, Frank Wilson of the department of commerce, has to say. Why, you may ask, does the department of commerce, whose job it is to look after the welfare of the city man, worry about the farmer? Well, when the farmer goes broke, the city man closes up shop. But, a word from Mr. Wilson:

"While the level of farm values throughout most parts of the Middle West has increased 10 to 15 per cent in the last year, and the transfer of farm properties has been greatly accelerated, there is, as yet, no evidence of the recurrence of the destructive speculation in farm lands which followed the First World war."

So far so good. But here is Mr. Wilson's postscript:

"Farm lending authorities throughout that area, however, admit that conditions are in the making from which a speculative wave might result unless price control measures can be effective in holding farm prices at or only moderately above present levels."

Mortgage Survey

The department of commerce made a survey of the farm mortgage situation in 19 states where the bulk of the food production for war is being made.

The federal land banks and the Farm Credit Administration which has been watching this situation like a hawk has plenty of data. One out of every ten—or more than 100,000—farmer-borrowers from the 12 federal land banks and land bank commissioner repaid his loan in full in 1942.

In the 19 states the department of commerce studied, according to the 1940 census, there were more than three million farms, more than half of all the farms in the country. Their total value is well over half the total value of farm lands in the country.

The survey of this territory, just made public, shows that in 1940, '41 and '42, indebtedness of farmers to the Farm Credit Administration dropped a quarter of a billion dollars. This includes the drought area in Kansas, one of the states hit hardest by the drought, 10,000 farmers got out of debt and Kansas borrowers kept right on paying until they had deposited a million dollars in the "future payment fund" to anticipate labor installments. Similar statistics could be reeled off for other areas.

One thing that has helped the debt payment is the inability to get into further debt—for automobiles and other commodities which just aren't for sale.

Will that memory fade? Will the farmer's money begin to burn a hole in his pocket? Will those green pastures just over the hill begin to lure him beyond his means?

As I said, the cautious folk in Washington are a little worried. These are some of the danger signals they see:

A possible rise in values which cannot be exactly predicted or explained. But which is always a possibility, if not now, after the war. Then there will be an accumulation of cash; there will be a lot of war bonds in the safe deposit box or in the old sock. There will be a lot of husky young sons returning from the war for whom fathers will want to buy farms, there will be perhaps an increased demand for farm products

as new foreign markets are opened or the United States begins to help feed a starving world.

In some places, there is evidence of the tendency toward speculation money against Iowa farm land as low as 2 1/2 per cent. Speculation in livestock is going on in some places. But there is no trend now toward the wild buying of World War I.

"And," says Mr. Wilson, "if the tremendous gains in the farm indebtedness situation can be held, the capacity of the great agricultural areas of the nation to absorb the flood of products that will come to all markets after the war will be tremendous."

The financial fate of post-war America is pretty much in the hands of the farmers. Let's hope he won't let it (and his spare cash) slip through his fingers.

MENTAL AILMENTS

There are ailments in which the patient recovers more rapidly in a hospital than in the home and some in which the home surroundings are best suited for recovery. This is not a new discovery. In some cases there is something about the change of home life that gets the patient out of his "shell" and into the "real world." Other cases the "home life" is a hindrance to recovery. In some cases the "home life" is a hindrance to recovery. In some cases the "home life" is a hindrance to recovery.

Never leave egg white after it has been beaten stiff. If let stand it will flatten and will not beat up again.

If a can of paint is placed upside down for several hours before it is opened, it will not be necessary to mix it before using.

To remove whitewash from ceiling, dissolve one pound of alum in one gallon of strong vinegar. Apply with a brush and let it soak in well. Then scrape and wash as usual.

Turn gas burners down when foods have begun to boil. Nothing is gained by too-rapid boiling.

Never empty the water in which spinach and other sandy vegetables are washed into an enameled sink if you wish to keep it looking well.

To soften shoe polish that has hardened pour a little turpentine over it.

Do not sprinkle all your linen napkins when preparing for ironing. Dip every third napkin into clear warm water, place one between two dry napkins, fold and roll together. Napkins dampened in this way are ironed easily.

ON THE HOME FRONT with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT ALL started with a bright idea for making a simple, painted coffee table from odds and ends. The sketch at the lower left gives the dimensions and shows the simple construction. Two end sections were made first; the top and sides of these being fastened together with metal angles, as illustrated. A shelf was then nailed in and a ½ by 3-inch board nailed across the back of it. Two boards for the top of the table were then screwed to the end sections.

So far the table was substantial but crude and that is where the lady with the needle came in. The table was to be painted putty color and then waxed. She bought a yard of slightly darker tan sateen and applied a design of bright blue and red morning glories and green leaves on it with stems and tendrils in green outline stitch. This was placed over the table top and tacked around the edge. A piece of glass was then cut to fit and ½ by 3-inch pieces were screwed to the sides flush with the top of glass.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared a sheet—17 by 22 inches—giving complete dimensions and directions for making this table. Even the gal who is just learning to do small chores with hammer, saw and screw driver can follow these simple, clear directions. To get a copy ask for Design 254, address:

From an old French word "mes" derived from the Latin word "missus" meaning a course at a meal, comes the Army's name "mess" for its breakfast, dinner, and supper. Favorite meal with the soldier is chicken dinner—his favorite cigarette, Camel. (Based on actual sales records from Post Exchanges.) A carton of Camels, by the way, is the gift he prefers first of all from the folks back home. He's said so. Going Along
A well-known author met an old Negro called Uncle Joe, who was always cheerful in spite of having had more than his share of life's troubles.
"How have you managed to retain your calmness and cheerfulness in spite of them all?" asked the author.
"Well, son, Ah'll tell you," replied Uncle Joe, "Ah've just learned to co-operate with de inevitable."

WHAT the well-dressed young lady of 1 to 5 years will wear this spring is right here—a gaily printed ensemble consisting of playsuit, overall and dress. Everyone's going to be the happier for these clothes—the youngster because they are so pretty and sensible and her mother because they are practically no bother at all.

Pattern No. 8363 is in sizes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 2 dress takes 1½ yards 35-inch material, overall 1½ yards, playsuit ¾ yard; 8½ yards binding.

Sol Workman

With the passing of Sol Workman, Pocahontas county has suffered the loss of one of its friendliest and best-liked citizens.

"Sol," as he was favorably called by young and old alike, was one of those kindly men who was never too preoccupied to have a pleasant word for children, and never too reserved to stop for a friendly chat with anyone who approached him.

With a strict integrity concerning what constituted his duty as town policeman, he was fearless in the application of measures he deemed necessary to preserve law and order, and to protect the weak.

When this editor and his wife came to Marlinton almost two years ago, Sol Workman was one of the first persons with whom we talked, and he was profuse in his recommendation of the town and county, and all of this section's people. On the many nights when we have worked late, and the streets have been otherwise deserted, we have enjoyed stopping for a little talk with Sol and his immediate superior, Guy Faulkner, before making our way home for the night. We shall greatly miss him.

Upon many occasions he was responsible for our meeting up with interesting persons, whom he would bring to our office for an introduction.

He had intense interest in the welfare of youth, and would make the rounds of business places to secure funds for a Halloween celebration or in behalf of the Young People's Club. That these young people appreciated him was attested by the beautiful floral tributes which they placed with the others that adorned the casket and room where his body was lying in state.

We extend to the family our sincere sympathy, and feel sure that in the midst of their sorrow they will find comfort in knowing that their husband, father, and brother was a man who, while he lived, made friends who will remain with them at his departure.

Some Facts and Figures

The 1943 Legislature appropriated $2 per cent more money a year for the care and treatment of those afflicted with tuberculosis than was spent for that purpose by the state administration in the fiscal year 1941-42.

It appropriated $4.5 per cent more money for each of the next two years than was appropriated by the 1941 Legislature for the current year for the care and treatment of tuberculosis patients.

The 1942 Legislature appropriated as the basis of $1,142.54 for each patient, whereas the Legislature of 1941 appropriated on the basis of only $1,046.46 for each patient. These figures are based on the average daily expenditures for the best twelve months of the state's tuberculosis hospitals.

The Legislature, in effect, made available enough money for each year and for 1944-45 to take care of 500 more patients than have been in the institutions during the last year. That appropriation amounts to take care of 50 per cent more patients in the state hospitals than have been there in the past year.

For the administration charges that the 1943 Legislature allocated the state's tuberculosis hospitals $100,000 more than the 1941 Legislature. It also gave to the state a total of $1,000,000 for the care of tuberculosis patients in the state hospitals.

PARTY LINE BRINGS HELP

JASPER, MO. — The party line, off-styled rural newspaper, proved a boon to Mrs. Charles Thomas, shown above, a farm woman near here, when her husband suffered a serious accident which left her facing the huge task of doing all their farm work, including a big dairy herd to milk. A one-unit Surge milker was in the barn but Mrs. Thomas didn't know how to use it. She remembered a neighbor down the road who had a milker of the same type, so using her party-line telephone she called for help. Within 30 minutes, to her amazement, a half dozen neighbors with eleven milkers arrived to handle this phase of her work, proving again the "Good Neighbor" policy works at home as well as abroad and that the party-line is really more than just a telephone service.

Is This "Reduction"?

A recent release from the University complains that funds for the Agricultural Experiment Station were "substantially" reduced by the Legislature just at a time when the farmer needs help more than ever before.

In 1941-42, the state spent $200,528 for the experiment station and extension service. It has $203,458 available this year, which closes June 30. And the Legislature of 1943 appropriated $245,150 for the same work next year and the year after. If that spells "reduction," the University ought to start teaching spelling!

Neely To Try Law Validity

Governor Neely evidently intends to bring into the limelight again the struggle between his own will, and that of the people as reflected by the votes of their representatives in the Legislature.

The 1943 Legislature passed a law over the Governor's veto prohibiting him from appointing to any office requiring Senate confirmation any person whose appointment to some other position had been rejected by the Senate.

The Senate rejected W. W. Dowdy, Democrat, of Martinsburg, as a member of the whiskey commission.

Now Neely has appointed him as a member of the board of control. Only the supreme court can now decide whether the legislative act has any meaning.

Need For Correction Here

Delegate H. L. Potts (R., Taylor) charges that the Industrial School for Boys at Pruntytown, whose superintendent, Robert H. Molohan, was appointed (according to Governor Neely) at the behest of CIO leaders, has about "200 acres of the finest land in Taylor county and it is not producing enough food and meat to feed the boys properly."

He added that "crops are planted but poorly tended, if at all. Last fall several acres of corn were left standing in the field to feed the crows; about 30 acres of navy beans were not harvested."

Private vs. Public Effort

Private employers have been patriotic enough to set up war bond-buying payroll-deduction systems at their own expense, many of them even employing extra clerks to handle the business: but the state can't be bothered with such patriotic work.

Although the Legislature authorized the State Auditor to set up such a system for state employees, Auditor Sims says he can't and won't install one because the lawmakers didn't give him extra money for extra clerks.

Scrap Collection Meeting April 15 At Lewisburg

A meeting will be held Thursday, April 15, beginning with a dinner at 6:30 p. m., in the Masonic Temple at Lewisburg to make plans for the 1943 scrap collection campaign which will be held from May 15 to June 15. Representatives of civic and church organizations of Monroe, Nicholas, Greenbrier, Summers and Pocahontas counties will attend, and reservations here are to be made with Mrs. Frank McLaughlin.

A state or national organizer is expected to be present at the meeting. Z. S. Smith, Jr., is chairman of the salvage committee for this county.

Seventeen boys of the graduation class took the tests given by the Army and Navy last Friday, and from all reports it was a hard one.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sotton of Arbovale are proud of the arrival of their first daughter, Dorothy Ellen, who was born April 2, 1943.

THE 2nd WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON

Start punching from your pocket!

America's war machine is growing—growing!

It's •itting ready to deliver a tremendous, irresistible wallop that will smash the Axis flat—once and for all.

But brother—that punch has got to start from your pocket! And now's the time to let it go!

Uncle Sam is asking us to lend him 13 billion dollars this month. 13 billions of extra dollars—over and above any War Bond buying that you'd be doing anyway! Money to buy ships and planes, money to feed and clothe and arm and train the millions of your fellow Americans who will deliver this punch—whib are ready to work and sweat and die to keep the place you live in safe.

Uncle Sam is asking you to back them up. He's asking you to lend the money they need by investing in War Bonds.

In the next few weeks, you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are giving their time and effort to this Drive.

But don't wait for him. Today—now—go to your nearest bank or Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds. And for your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities—choose the ones best suited for you!

ACID locked in your engine

You can't "pull the cork" to clear out every cylinder after pocketing that key. A chemical mixture always lingers inside. The corner druggist would tell you that the cylinders hold the acid products of combustion . . . the makings of corrosion.

You didn't have all that worry heretofore, when the worst acid was chased out again and again, by repeated driving—and by continued speed that thoroughly heated the engine. Now however, when you're counting every coupon, how long will it be till you next use your car and drive it far enough to make the engine stay real warm? Meanwhile, with acid in your one and only engine, as it stands for long stretches, you'd better take the precaution of having it internally OIL-PLATED by changing to Conoco Nth motor oil this Spring.

ing it internally OIL-PLATED by changing to Conoco Nth motor oil this Spring.

OIL-PLATING is really a close cousin of platings you see every day retarding corrosion. Conoco Nth oil—at a popular price—includes the costly synthetic that makes OIL-PLATING come between acids and inner engine surfaces. Unlike mere liquid lubricant, ready to drain down to the crankcase promptly, OIL-PLATING tends to stay at its topmost point in your inactive engine, strongly opposing acid attack on inner parts that can't always be replaced these days. The simple key to OIL-PLATING is Conoco Nth oil for your needed Spring change—at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today. Continental Oil Co.

He had intense interest in the welfare of youth, and would make the rounds of business places to secure funds for a Halloween celebration or in behalf of the Young People's Club. That these young people appreciated him was attested by the beautiful floral tributes which they placed with the others that adorned the casket and room where his body was lying in state.

We extend to the family our sincere sympathy, and feel sure that in the midst of their sorrow they will find comfort in knowing that their husband, father, and brother was a man who, while he lived, made friends who will never with them at his departure.

Some Facts and Figures

The 1943 Legislature appropriated $2 per cent more money a year for the care and treatment of those afflicted with tuberculosis than was spent for that purpose by the state administration in the fiscal year 1941-42.

It appropriated $4.2 per cent more money for each of the next two years than was appropriated by the 1941 Legislature for the current year for the care and treatment of tuberculosis patients.

The 1942 Legislature appropriated as the basis of $1,142.54 for each patient, whereas the Legislature of 1941 appropriated on the basis of only $1,046.46 for each patient. These figures are based on the average daily expenditures for the best twelve months of the state's tuberculosis hospitals.

The Legislature, in effect, made available enough money for each year and for 1944-45 to take care of 500 more patients than have been in the institutions during the last year. That appropriation amounts to take care of 50 per cent more patients in the state hospitals than have been there since the present administration began, or to take care of the same number of a standard 50 per cent increase.

In the administration charges that the 1942 Legislature directed the state administration of tuberculosis hospitals, it was given to the state a 10 per cent increase in the amount of money that it has been given in the past. At the end of February there were enough patients in the state hospitals to fill all the beds in the state.

JASPER, MO. — The party line, off-styled rural newspaper, proved a boon to Mrs. Charles Thomas, shown above, a farm woman near here, when her husband suffered a serious accident which left her facing the huge task of doing all their farm work, including a big dairy herd to milk. A one-unit surge milker was in the barn but Mrs. Thomas didn't know how to use it. She remembered a neighbor down the road who had a milker of the same type, so using her party-line telephone she called for help. Within 30 minutes, to her amazement, a half dozen neighbors with eleven milkers arrived to handle this phase of her work, proving again the "Good Neighbor" policy works at home as well as abroad and that the party-line is really more than just a telephone service.

Is This "Reduction"?

A recent release from the University complains that funds for the Agricultural Experiment Station were "substantially" reduced by the Legislature just at a time when the farmer needs help more than ever before.

In 1941-42, the state spent $200,528 for the experiment station and extension service. It has $203,458 available this year, which closes June 30. And the Legislature of 1943 appropriated $245,150 for the same work next year and the year after. If that spells "reduction," the University ought to start teaching spelling!

Neely To Try Law Validity

Governor Neely evidently intends to bring into the limelight again the struggle between his own will, and that of the people as reflected by the votes of their representatives in the Legislature.

The 1943 Legislature passed a law over the Governor's veto prohibiting him from appointing to any office requiring Senate confirmation any person whose appointment to some other position had been rejected by the Senate.

The Senate rejected W. W. Dowdy, Democrat, of Martinsburg, as a member of the whiskey commission,

Now Neely has appointed him as a member of the board of control. Only the supreme court can now decide whether the legislative act has any meaning.

Need For Correction Here

Delegate H. L. Potts (R., Taylor) charges that the Industrial School for Boys at Pruntytown, whose superintendent, Robert H. Mollohan, was appointed (according to Governor Neely) at the behest of CIO leaders, has about "200 acres of the finest land in Taylor county and it is not producing enough food and meat to feed the boys properly."

He added that "crops are planted but poorly tended, if at all. Last fall several acres of corn were left standing in the field to feed the crows; about 30 acres of navy beans were not harvested."

Private vs. Public Effort

Private employers have been patriotic enough to set up war bond-buying payroll-deduction systems at their own expense, many of them even employing extra clerks to handle the business: but the state can't be bothered with such patriotic work.

Although the Legislature authorized the State Auditor to set up such a system for state employees, Auditor Sims says he can't and won't install one because the lawmakers didn't give him extra money for extra clerks.

Scrap Collection Meeting April 15 At Lewisburg

A meeting will be held Thursday, April 15, beginning with a dinner at 6:30 p. m., in the Masonic Temple at Lewisburg to make plans for the 1943 scrap collection campaign which will be held from May 15 to June 15. Representatives of civic and church organizations of Monroe, Nicholas, Greenbrier, Summers and Pocahontas counties will attend, and reservations here are to be made with Mrs. Frank McLaughlin.

A state or national organizer is expected to be present at the meeting. Z. S. Smith, Jr., is chairman of the salvage committee for this county.

THE 2nd WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON

Start punching from your pocket!

America's war machine is growing—growing!

It's •itting ready to deliver a tremendous, irresistible wallop that will smash the Axis flat—once and for all.

But brother—that punch has got to start from your pocket! And now's the time to let it go!

Uncle Sam is asking us to lend him 13 billion dollars this month. 13 billions of extra dollars—over and above any War Bond buying that you'd be doing anyway! Money to buy ships and planes, money to feed and clothe and arm and train the millions of your fellow Americans who will deliver this punch—whib are ready to work and sweat and die to keep the place you live in safe.

Uncle Sam is asking you to back them up. He's asking you to lend the money they need by investing in War Bonds.

In the next few weeks, you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are giving their time and effort to this Drive.

But don't wait for him. Today—now—go to your nearest bank or Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds. And for your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities—choose the ones best suited for you!

THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES . . . YOU LEND YOUR MONEY!

Ignition key in your pocket—ACID locked in your engine

You can't "pull the cork" to clear out every cylinder after pocketing that key. A chemical mixture always lingers inside. The corner druggist would tell you that the cylinders hold the acid products of combustion . . . the makings of corrosion.

You didn't have all that worry heretofore, when the worst acid was chased out again and again, by repeated driving—and by continued speed that thoroughly heated the engine. Now however, when you're counting every coupon, how long will it be till you next use your car and drive it far enough to make the engine stay real warm? Meanwhile, with acid in your one and only engine, as it stands for long stretches, you'd better take the precaution of having it internally OIL-PLATED by changing to Conoco Nth motor oil this Spring.

OIL-PLATING is really a close cousin of platings you see every day retarding corrosion. Conoco Nth oil—at a popular price—includes the costly synthetic that makes OIL-PLATING come between acids and inner engine surfaces. Unlike mere liquid lubricant, ready to drain down to the crankcase promptly, OIL-PLATING tends to stay at its topmost point in your inactive engine, strongly opposing acid attack on inner parts that can't always be replaced these days. The simple key to OIL-PLATING is Conoco Nth oil for your needed Spring change—at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today. Continental Oil Co.

To the users of Nestlé's Every Day Brand Evaporated Milk

For many years you have been able to enjoy not only the fine quality of this superior product, but in addition you have been able to exchange Every Day Brand Coupons for a wide assortment of attractive premiums.

As you know, the War Program has made many changes necessary. Such items as aluminum, silverware, electrical goods and many others made from critical materials are no longer available, and in our case we are faced with the fact that many of the manufacturers of our premiums are now making war materials.

We regret that this situation makes it impossible to continue offering our customers a choice of desirable, worthwhile premiums, and rather than limit them to a small selection of relatively undesirable premiums, we have decided, for the duration at least, to suspend the Every Day Brand Premium Plan.

Redemption service at our premium agencies will be discontinued on May 15, 1943.

Please go to your nearest premium exchange agency and redeem all your Every Day Brand coupons as soon as possible.

We are confident you will understand the reasons for this decision. We hope we may continue to serve you with Nestlé's Every Day Brand Evaporated Milk in the future.

Virginia Conley, Talmadge Hendrickson, Married In Washington, D. C.

The Methodist Church at Eighth and North Carolina avenue, Washington, D. C., was the scene of the marriage on March 27, 1943, of Virginia Arbogast Conley, daughter of Mrs. Albie Arbogast and the late N. W. Arbogast, to Mr. Talmadge O. Hendrickson, son of Mat Hendrickson and the late Mrs. Mary Hendrickson, of Laura, Miss.

Rev. E. T. Wilcher performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue dress trimmed in white, navy hat, shoes and bag, white gloves, pink tea roses with white sweetpea corsage.

Mrs. Phredice H. Nagle, cousin of the bridegroom, who was matron of honor, wore a two-piece printed suit with navy blue accessories and corsage of yellow tea roses. Pvt. Joe Nagle, husband of the matron of honor, was best man.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Frazier M. Holifield. Out-of-town guests were the two Mrs. Butchers of Weston, W. V., Mrs. E. W. Latt of Laura, Miss, Miss Inez Yeager of Wellsburg, W. Va., Mrs. Hilda Burgess of Mississippi, Miss Molly Jane McLeland of Baltimore, Miss Frances Hutchinson of Washington, D. C., Lee Foster of Baltimore, Robert Anderson of Baltimore, Frazier Holifield of the U. S. Navy and L. H. Williamson of Hampton, Va.

Following the reception the bridal couple left for their honeymoon to Niagara Falls and New York. On their return to Washington they will make their home at 4000 Ely Place, S. E.

O. E. S. Worthy Matron Will Visit Here; School Of Instruction To Be Held

Wednesday, May 12, the local chapter of the Order of Eastern Star will hold a banquet at the Marlinton Methodist church in honor of the Worthy Grand Matron of the order, who will be visiting the four chapters in Pocahontas county.

Next Tuesday the Marlinton lodge will hold a school of instruction at the lodge hall here, with Mrs. Harriett Willhide of Cass as the instructor. Mrs. Willhide will be the guest of Mrs. E. H. Williams, worthy matron.

Presbyterian Youth Rally

Young people of the Greenbrier Presbytery will hold their spring rally Friday and Saturday, April 9 and 10, at Ronceverte. The rally theme is,

"Facing Today With the Living Christ." Two outstanding speakers for the meeting will be Rev. Henry Mobley, assistant pastor of the Lewisburg church, and Rev. Frank Lewis of Elkins. The rally will be attended by five representatives from each church.

Miss Schuchat Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schuchat of Lewisburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Schuchat, to Rabbi Nathan Witkins, of Balboa, Canal Zone, and New York. Miss Schuchat, who is employed as a teacher at Balboa High School, in the Canal Zone, was formerly on the staff of White Sulphur High School. Rabbi Witkins is field representative of the Army and Navy Department of the Jewish Welfare Board and is director of a U. S. O. club on the Isthmus. Both Miss Schuchat and Rabbi Witkins plan to return to the States by plane next month. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

The Schuchat family is well known in Marlinton and Pocahontas county.

Truck Load of Surgical Dressings Shipped Away

With the Red Cross now the only source of supply for surgical dressings needed in the various branches of the service, the local group, under the direction of Mrs. Kenneth Hamrick has just shipped a truck load, the third shipment since Christmas. With more dressings needed all the time, the need for workers at the surgical dressing room has grown, and volunteers are urged to report. An urgent request is now in the hands of the local chairman asking for 2x2 dressings for eye wounds.

Presbytery Will Meet Here

The Greenbrier Presbytery will meet April 20 and 21 at the Marlinton Presbyterian church, with ministers and elders of the district attending. Rev. Hugh Jefferson of the Cass church will serve as moderator; Rev. J. C. Wool of Marlinton is in charge of the program, and Mrs. John Sydenstricker and Mrs. E. H. Williams are making plans for the entertainment of the visitors.

County B. and P. W. Club Holds Election of Officers

The Pocahontas County Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday night at the home of Miss Edith May, with Miss Margaret Irvine as assisting hostess. Those present enjoyed a well planned program. Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: President, Miss Edith May; vice president, Mrs. Kenneth Hamrick; club secretary, Miss Genevieve Moore; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward Rexrode, and treasurer, Miss Margaret Irvine.

Club members discussed plans for attendance at the state convention of the organization, which will be held in Fairmont next month.

Swago Farm Women's Club Meets At Kellison Home

The Swago Farm Women's Club met with Mrs. M. H. Kellison, March 19, with 18 members and 5 visitors present. The hostess used a clever St. Patrick's Day color scheme.

Devotions were led by Mrs. W. J. Yeager on the theme, "Who Is My Neighbor?" A talk and poem were used in addition to the Scripture reading and prayer. "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was used in closing the devotional period.

The president conducted the business meeting. Announcement was made that seed packages are now available, and members were urged to participate in the silk hose and grease salvage campaigns. The club voted to give $5 to the Red Cross. Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Earl Kee and Miss Madeline McNeill. A timely demonstration on the use of Scotch tape for mending umbrellas, raincoats and books was given by Mrs. Yeager.

The club lesson, "Lunch Time at School and Work," was led by Mrs. Nema Palmer, who stressed foods especially desirable for the packed lunch; how to prepare them attractively and appetizingly; changes in the school lunch program in the last 10 years; pet time savers in packing lunches; and how the same food may be prepared and served for home and packed lunches.

The club paper was read by Mrs. Lock McNeill with a supplement by Mrs. D. W. Williams. Much fun is derived from the club paper, which is known as "Swago Farm Gossip." The hostess served a delicious salad course, assisted by her sister, Mrs. O. H. Kee. The April meeting will be held at Mrs. Lock McNeill's with Mrs. Verlin Loundermilk as leader.

Dunmore Farm Women

The Dunmore Farm Women's Club met for its regular monthly meeting March 24 at the home of Mrs. L. R. Campbell, with 12 members present. The devotion was given by Mrs. William Brock, using as her subject, "The Boy's Lunch."

Business followed with Mrs. Hevener, president, in charge. The club reported 23 pounds of fats collected for the government during the past month. All members have contributed $1 or more to the Red Cross War Fund.

Through neighborhood leaders, the club has bought 10 packages of garden seeds cooperatively.

Mrs. R. M. Hiner was leader of the lesson, "Lunch Time at School or Work," and gave an interesting demonstration on how the same foods can be used to prepare both the packed lunch and the lunch to be eaten at home.

The next club meeting will be held April 28 at the home of Mrs. P. C. Pritchard, with Mrs. Harry Miller as leader.

BUY WAR BONDS AND STAMPS HERE

ON HITLER!

ADOLF may not live long enough to pay for his mass murders by actually sitting in the "hot seat." But electricity is already hastening the day of his doom!

Electricity drives delicate machines that turn out time fuses and shattering bombs that explode at a moment's notice. Electricity is a basic part of every defense, bomber and shipbuilding of all America's war production.

From them we learn, America had more electric power than all the Axis countries combined. It's no military secret that today our power supply is far greater. And it's no secret, either, that the electric companies under experienced business management supply about seven-eighths of it!

Free Americans set world production records primarily because they are free — because they have grown up under a business system that encourages initiative and innovation instead of reducing them to the ranks of Axis slaves.

Free Americans are freely giving billions of dollars to help put Hitler in the chair. But once he's there, a cord's worth of electricity will finish the job! Which goes to show what BIG things penny-priced electricity can do!

WNU RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Ann Lee and Cole Cody, handcarriers under two identical wills of Old Bill Cole, sought to discover who had fired the fatal bullet at Old Bill. Suspicion centered around Rance Waldron, who was living at the ranch when Ann and Cody arrived. Doc Joe and the Judge, commissioned by Old Bill to carry out his last wishes, were returning to town from the ranch (each with a will for safekeeping) when they were held up by a masked bandit whom they recognized as Rance Waldron. To direct suspicion Rance then killed his accomplice, Tom Gough. Cal Roundtree, foreman of the ranch, learned meanwhile that Doc Joe still lived.

CHAPTER XVII

Doc Joe pulled up the chair close to the bed and spoke softly, throttling his voice down to a near-whisper.

"For one thing, I ain't dead now, never was and don't intend to be for a spell yet," he said. "Get that in your head, Cal. Don't go thinking ghosts."

"You don't look anything like what I might suppose a ghost would look," Cal said curtly. "Now, let's get after this: What in the name of blazes you been playing dead for?"

"For a spell, I had to," said Doc Joe. "If I hadn't, Rance Waldron would have killed me sure, like he did the Judge and Tom Gough. He nicked me side of the head." He put his finger gingerly to a bit of taped gauze over his temple. "It sort of dazed me. I lay on my side and saw him step over to the Judge. He shot the Judge between the horns before I could wiggle a finger. Then he looked at me. Maybe I sort of fainted a minute; I don't quite know or recollect. I was scared enough to faint anyhow. He came back dragging Tom Gough. He shot Gough twice and rode away. I tried to get up. I got dizzy and sure did faint for good. When I woke up and the boys hauled us into town, I was out cold. They thought I was dead. Me, I got to thinking. I let 'em keep on thinking so. Nobody knows but Doc Evans; you and him, now, Cal. And you're both going to keep your mouths shut until I give the word."

"Rance Waldron is downstairs right now," said Cal, stubborn and eager. "He killed the Judge, you says. And you saw him? And it's almost a dead certainty that either him or his hired hand, Tom Gough, potted old Early Bill!"

"Shut up and sit down and keep your shirt tail tucked in! Now, listen. The Judge and me, we had those two wills that old jackass Bill Cole drew up. And Mr. Rance Waldron's got 'em now."

And now Cal Roundtree, telling this to Cole Cody as the two jogged along, came to a halt. Then he began to swear explosively. And in the end, grown quiet after his struggle with himself, he muttered disgustedly.

"Cody, I don't know which end I'm standing on. There's something I know that I got to keep under my hat, like I been doing; I almost blew my top off and let the cat jump with old Doc Joe; I'm near doing the same thing with you."

"Why not, Cal?" said Cody quietly. "You and I haven't known each other all summer, but—what's on your mind, old timer?"

"No," Cal growled. "Let me be. Let me go on now and tell you the rest that I can; what old Doc Joe has got in his mind. He says Rance Waldron is smart like a whole herd of foxes; he says, no, Waldron won't destroy those wills right off; he says Waldron will play safe, and hide 'em darn good, where the devil himself can't find 'em, until he sees for sure which way the wind blows. What he says, is this: Waldron will try to gobble the King Cole Ranch and anything else left hanging. If he makes a go of it, he'll burn the papers. If there's any slip-up along the trail, well then, with the two wills in his war bag, he can clucker."

After a long while Cody asked, "What does Doc Joe plan? How long is he going to play dead?"

That started Cal Roundtree off again. But he got himself in hand ultimately and explained some part of Doc Joe's plan.

"Late tonight the other doc, Parke Evans, will find a paper in Doc's room, signed by Doc Joe himself, dated a couple of years ago, saying when he's dead he wants to be packed up and shipped back to his boyhood's home which is in dear old Tennessee!" Cal spat far into space. "So Doc Evans will pack him in a box, and haul him off with him tomorrow, going back to Rime Rock, and in the railroad at Christmas Parke. They'll ship some sort of a bundle and Doc Joe will hide out for a spell with Doc Evans. Later he'll get a chance to creep back this-way by the back of the moon. Meanwhile we're to watch and wait for Rance Waldron to be making his play."

Arrived at the ranch they unceremoniously, saved for their horses and said goodnight. Cal so turned in at the back house and so didn't till he came to a long giggle. Cole Cody, however, was up the steps to the ranch house.

In the stable yard he came upon Rance Waldron on a bench, waiting for him. Rance's glowing eyes described a quick, small arc in the gloom as Porfirio came to his feet.

"I'll see you in the morning, Porfirio."

"But wait!" exclaimed Porfirio excitedly.

"What the deuce is it?" muttered Cody, stooping to see better. "Not a dead cat, is it? Somebody's old black tom—A hat!"

Cody led the way into the living room; while he was lighting a lamp Porfirio explained how his persistence had brought him to his discovery. From the place where the man had hidden when he shot Early Bill, Porfirio on horseback had ridden a score of times, following each time a slightly different path, thinking. Now it was me, and I was riding like the wind, I'd go this way; thinking. And I would get rid of that hat my pronto. And he had looked at all the possible hiding places, had looked even for signs of a small hot fire. And then at last his keen eyes had seen a stick, a small dead pine limb, its end sticking out from under a sizable boulder!

Aha! He had it! For how could a stick get itself shoved under a rock like that? If a man had moved that rock now, and had been in a hurry to get it back, and in a hurry to ride on, he might with a careless boot have kicked that stick where it got caught under the stone! Porfirio sweated over the boulder, moving it—and found the hat.

Yes, there was a bullet hole drilled through it. There was more. There was everything; Cole Cody could only regret that its message came too late. In the sweat band were the initials, tooled through the leather, "T.G."

He put his hands on hers; she permitted the contact for a long moment.

"Tom Gough, that's who it was," Porfirio, he said as he tossed the hat, now of no interest, to the table. "But Rance Waldron—Look, Porfirio, Tom Gough is dead already. He's the stick-up gent that fought it out with the Judge and Doc Joe."

Porfirio began cursing softly in the tongue of the south. He started to the door; he said good night suddenly—Then of a sudden he whirled and cried out "Dead, the cabrone! And so he gets away from me like that, does he, Don Codito?" He laughed, and it was an evil sound when Porfirio Lopez laughed that way.

Cody, not yet of any mind for bed and sleep, started a quick blaze in the fireplace and dragged a big comfortable chair in front of it. Sunk deep into Early Bill's pet chair, rolling what he thought was to be a good night cigarette, he did not bear a door open and close softly, nor did he hear light oncoming steps. What he heard first was a subdued voice saying,

"Hello, Cole Cody. Mind if I join you and the fire a minute? I can't sleep—can you?"

He rose and drew up a companion chair; the young firelight, catching at a stick of pitch-pine, flared up and shone brightly on his face and little Ann Lee's as they stood a moment looking seriously at each other; it shone in their eyes and made them bright.

"Ann Lee," he said after a while. "What is it, Cole?" she asked. Both their voices were quiet, hers hushed.

"You realize by this time, don't you, that there's not a chance in the world of either you or me ever coming to own any part of the King Cole Ranch?"

"Yes," she spoke very simply, not seeming or sounding in the least concerned; neutrally interested. He heard her long, quivering sigh before she added, "Maybe it's funny, but I don't seem to care any more. After what has just happened—those two dead old men—"

Dear your wife, Doc Joe! It was hard for Bill Cole Cody to keep from violating Cal's confidence, just as it had been a man's job for Cal to keep from blurring out something else he knew, something he felt bound to keep to himself.

Little by little, out of these drifting alliances, they fell to talking briefly and sketchily about each other, about themselves.

They laughed a little together, and came closer each other than ever before, when they started to speak at the same instant and with the same thought:

"Why, your father and mine, too, must have been great friends!" Cody made himself another cigarette and, instead of smoking it or even remembering that he had made it to smoke, sat rolling and rolling it with his lean, strong fingers. He said without looking up, "I could almost be glad—in a way, I would be glad if it wasn't that Rance Waldron might come to profit by it—that those two wills are, anyhow for the present and maybe for good, out of the picture. All we've done, maybe all we'd ever do, is fight like cat and dog over the damned place! Maybe now—well, maybe we can get along without fighting! It might be fun for a change, Ann Lee?"

"I'm a beast most of the time, I'm afraid," she said contritely. "And I try so hard not to be! Honestly, Bill Cole Cody, I try terribly hard."

He put his hand on hers; she permitted the contact for a long moment, then gently slid her fingers out from under his and, palm upward, let them curl again on her lap.

"I guess I shouldn't have spanked you—so hard, anyhow!"

"I deserved every bit of it—and harder!" But he saw that the hot color in her cheeks now was not altogether the affair of the fire.

"And I guess I oughtn't to have kissed you on the stage—the way I did!"

"Let's not quarrel any more, ever," she said hurriedly. She lifted her eyes to his. "We have been friends, in a way, haven't we? We do like each other, even after all that's happened; I know we do."

He said soberly, "You're being mighty sweet, Ann Lee. I never knew a girl like you!"

"I love fireplaces! One like this; look how the coals are forming now! Do you like to find pictures in them? Of course, everybody does. The fireplace is one of the things that makes me love this room."

She stirred slightly and sighed; she moved her arms, crossing them, her hands on her shoulders, giving herself a little hug; she said, "Dear old Early Bill, he did try, didn't he? Tried so hard to 'have him his fun' and at the same time to do something splendid for you and me, for his old friends' son and daughter. Well, I've a tiny fireplace all my own at home, and when I go back to teaching—"

"Ann! What are you talking about? You haven't forgotten, have you, the money he left for us in the bank, fifty-fifty? We know that Buck-tooth Jenkins got that ten thousand into the pot; you heard the Judge say there was a whole lot more! And you talking about teaching!"

"Honestly, cross my heart and hope to die," she exclaimed, "I had forgotten all about that part of it! Why, there are thousands and thousands there, all yours and mine!"

Aunt Jennifer cleared her throat considerably in the far, dim end of the long room.

"Mind if I come in, you two?" she asked, and came straight ahead. "I'm close to getting the Jim-Jams, all alone in my room. And I got to thinking about a pot of coffee and—you two fighting again?"

Cody gave her his chair, squatted on the corner of the hearth and started a fresh cigarette. Ann Lee began to laugh.

And thus began on the King Cole Ranch a short period of time into which entered many a pleasant moment, with moments of quiet peace, moments of spontaneous happiness, fitting all too swiftly because always the shadow came back, moments when Ann Lee surprised a look in Bill Cole Cody's which he did not know was there, which no other girl had ever put there; and times when he, trying to read what lay in her mind, what she felt deep down in her heart even, dreamed his dreams.

They rode together hours on end, memorizing the lovely details of the vast King Cole Ranch. Once Ann Lee, as they came to the crest of a rise of land from which they could look for miles across a glory of undulating panorama, exclaimed breathlessly, "Oh, Cole! If this really could be ours!" And he repeated within himself, not looking at her but into the furthest blue distance, his jaw hard and his eyes narrowed, "Ours!"

And his thoughts switched swiftly, as so often they did, to the vanished Rance Waldron. For since that night in Bald Eagle, none at the ranch had seen or heard of him. Rance Waldron had simply faded out of the picture, leaving no inkling of where he had gone or why or for how long. And so the days drifted by, with a summer ripening, and Cole Cody and Ann Lee with Aunt Jennifer lagged on.

PETER AND JOHN WITNESS CHRIST'S GLORY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-8; II Peter 1:16-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—A voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son; hear him.—Mark 9:7.

Christ is God! The one who comes to know that truth is ready to follow Christ, and to make Him known to others. The want of such a true conception of the Son of God weakens our convictions and hinders our usefulness.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish," said the wise man (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of Christ as God, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people perish in their sins.

Peter and John saw our Lord in His transfiguration, and the glow of that experience lighted their entire life and ministry. The touch of the supernatural was on these men and their message—for they had seen the glory of Christ.

I. The Amazing Glory of the Son (Mark 9:2-8).

The transfiguration of Christ is one of those wonderfully beautiful and deeply spiritual experiences which defy analysis or satisfactory description. Poetry and art have vainly tried to depict it only to become "in fact a confession of the impotence of the loftiest art to rise to the level of the divine" (Van Dyke).

Peter was so dazzled that he could only suggest that they remain there, forgetting for the moment that down in the valley was demon-ridden humanity waiting for the divine deliverance of the Son of God (see Luke 9:37-42).

What took place on the mount can possibly best be explained as the outshining of the inner glory of the Christ. He had laid aside His glory when He became flesh, but not His divine attributes as very God. There in the presence of God and the heavenly visitors that glory shone through His humanity and His appearance became dazzling in its whiteness.

II. The Approving Word of the Father (Mark 9:7, 8).

A cloud, like the cloud which filled the Temple of old (I Kings 8:10, 11), covered them, and the Father spoke out of it words of approval of His Son.

These words carry "both judgment and command; judgment concerning Jesus, 'This is my beloved Son,' and command to the disciples, 'Hear ye him'—that is, 'Listen to him'" (Lesson Commentary).

John and Peter came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the words of the Father. They learned more plainly the fact that He was God manifest in the flesh for the redemption of man. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment a foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths—His deity, His redemption, His coming kingdom. Have we learned them as we have beheld His glory?

III. The Assured Faith of the Disciples (II Pet. 1:16-18).

These words were written by Peter when he was nearly eighty years of age—about thirty-five years after the transfiguration. John wrote sixty years after the event and said, "We beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father" (John 1:14).

The one who follows these eye-witnesses in believing in Christ may share their assurance expressed by Peter that we do not "follow cunningly devised fables" in making known to the world the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Our faith is built on God's Word, and upon such testimony as this by eye-witnesses. Here is real ground for assured belief in Christ.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power lead to effective life and testimony for Christ. They may not be in outward manifestations, in fact they are most often in the inner recesses of man's soul; but they do transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God. One wonders if much of the dearth of power in the Christian Church is not to be attributed directly to the lack of such experiences with God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountain-top experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power. It came to D. L. Moody as he walked down a New York street, praying in agony, "Deliver me from myself. Take absolute away." The story of what happened to him and through him as a surrendered instrument in God's hand is written large on the pages of history. Others have had similar experiences.

Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing, resulting in a state and unfruitful expediency that in turn produces a dreadful and unchristian religious system.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

Greet the Day With a Well-Balanced Breakfast (See Recipes Below)

Good Morning!

What's your breakfast? A squirt of orange juice and a sip of coffee or fruit, cereal, eggs, toast and coffee? No need to tell you which one you can start a man-sized day's work on, is there? A breakfast should supply almost a third of the day's calories and food value.

A slight breakfast will prevent you from waking up fully—and thus starting to realize your full quota of production whether you're on the home or factory front. But, treat the first meal of the day with the same respect you do the other two, and you find yourself refreshed and more than ready to do your job—and do it well.

If you're still in doubt about the value of a good breakfast, look at breakfasts fed servicemen. Do you think they could get up and do their work if it weren't for fruit, cereals, eggs, toast or hotbread and beverage for their first fare of the day? No, ma'am.

Breakfast affords a grand chance for you to get your vitamin B1—that important morale vitamin which prevents nervousness and restlessness. You need this vitamin every day—and its best sources are whole grain cereal and bread—and yeast.

On warmer days, serve oatmeal or whole wheat cereal, on cooler days, use the enriched, ready-to-eat cereals which are unrationed. When the berries and fruits start coming in, use a few of them with the cereals for a delightful breakfast dish.

Breakfast is a good way to take care of the citrus fruit requirement of the day, too. A half grapefruit, a large orange or a large glass of orange juice will fulfill the vitamin C quota of the day. Remember, however, that vitamin C is easily destroyed by air, and that means you should not squeeze or cut up oranges until just before serving.

Old-Fashioned Popovers.

3 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Sift flour and salt into a bowl. Beat eggs and add milk to them and stir gradually into the flour to make a smooth batter, then beat thoroughly with egg beater; put in hot greased muffin tins two-thirds full of mixture. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) half hour, then in moderate (350 degree) oven 15 minutes until brown. Note: No leavening agent is used in popovers, and their rising action is dependent upon thorough heating.

If possible, have eggs for breakfast—with bacon, if you can manage it, but remember that a nice hot bowlful of oatmeal will give a goodly quantity of health. Then, of course, you can vary the menu with pancakes, french toast and waffles when the mood strikes you.

Baked pears or apples are a good fruit for breakfast variation. Try apples this way:

Baked Apple With Orange Marmalade Filling.

Select apples that are suitable for baking. Core, and fill cavities with orange marmalade. Prick skins with fork and place in a baking pan with a little water. Cover with lid and bake in a slow oven until tender. Remove lid just long enough to brown.

Creamed Chipped Beef Omelet.
(Serves 3)

1 cup chipped beef, cut fine
1 1/2 cups white sauce
6 eggs
6 tablespoons top milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Fold chipped beef into white sauce. Beat eggs until fluffy, then add milk, salt and pepper. Melt enough butter or margarine into a heavy skillet to cover bottom and sides of pan, pour in eggs and shake gently over fire. When set, loosen sides and bottom, cover with heated creamed beef, carefully fold over with spatula, and slide onto hot platter. Serve at once.

For variety, there are many types of griddle cakes:

Sour Milk Griddle Cakes.

1 1/2 cups flour
1 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon sugar
2 eggs

Sift flour and sugar; dissolve soda in buttermilk and add to flour. Drop in unbeaten eggs and beat well, then fold in butter. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot, greased griddle and brown on both sides.

Flannel Cakes.

2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
2 cups enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 teaspoon baking powder

Sift all dry ingredients. Beat egg yolks and add to milk. Pour this into the flour, add melted butter, and lastly the well-beaten eggs. Drop by spoonfuls on hot, greased griddle and serve with syrup, preserves or jelly.

Crisp Waffles.

(Makes 4 4-section waffles)
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
1/2 cup melted shortening
2 egg whites

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Combine egg yolks and milk, add to flour, beating until smooth. Add shortening. Beat egg whites until they stand up but are still moist, then fold into batter. Bake on hot waffle iron.

Lynn Chambers' delicious recipe for waffles is a real treat for the family. They are easy to make and can be served with syrup, preserves or jelly.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

ABOUT RUBBER

Laboratory tests demonstrate that rubber can be made to stretch from 50 to 1000 percent or to have no stretch at all, as in hard rubber.

A cubical piece of about half an inch of the substance we now know as rubber was selling for three shillings in London set shops in 1770. It was then called rubber because it could erase pencil marks.

The first articles of rubber to be manufactured were clothing and shoes.

American seamen are now equipped with rubber life-saving suits weighing slightly over 14 pounds. This new buoyant suit features a whistle, flashlight, knife and yellow hood and gloves to attract rescuers. Weighted shoes keep the wearer upright in the water.

Minnehaha Springs Farm Women's Club Meets

The March meeting of the Minnehaha Springs Farm Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Ruckman with 10 members and 2 visitors present. Mrs. Clyde Bussard conducted an interesting devotional on the subject, "A Boy's Lunch."

The lesson also centered on lunches, and was well presented by Mrs. W. H. Barlow. Mrs. A. T. White demonstrated lunch packing by showing what foods should be included and how to prepare them for the lunch kit. The discussion disclosed that the working man needs a "rib-sticking" lunch, while the school child needs a "growing" lunch; that lunches should be attractive as well as tasty, and that Uncle Sam is rejecting many of our boys because we have failed to feed them properly.

The neighborhood leader discussed Victory food, gardens, seeds and fruits. Reports showed that 43 Red Cross garments have been completed by members in the last month.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. A. T. White.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Food Payments Urged for Poor; Tunisia Trap Closes on Axis Armies As Allied Air Blitz Destroys Ships; Truman Group Eyes Hoarding Charges

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

The toll of German prisoners has increased steadily as British and American forces have driven in on Rommel's cornered Axis forces in Tunisia. Typical of the multitude of captives is the above group of German prisoners taken in the British drive north of Gabes.

NORTH AFRICA:

Axis Hold Shrinks

Of key importance in heralding the possibility of an earlier-than-expected finish of the Tunisian campaign were reports that the harbor and shipping facilities of Gabes had been left undamaged by the Axis forces in their hasty retreat from Gen. Montgomery's onslaughts.

With Gabes functioning as an Allied supply port, the long overland haul of war materials from Tripoli or Benghazi far down the African coast in Libya could be avoided. Moreover, Allied sea and air power concentrated in Gabes could further harass the Axis forces.

The all-over battle for North Africa was not yet won, but steadily British armies from the north and south and American armies from the center were tightening the squeeze on the remaining Axis troops in Tunisia.

As Marshal Rommel's forces had made their last desperate effort to beat their way northward for a junction with Col. Gen. Von Arnim's troops in the Bizerte area, reports indicated that the Axis had flown fresh troops into Tunisia. To relieve the pressure on Rommel, Von Arnim's forces had staged a brief counter-offensive against British forces near Bizerte. Control of the air over North Africa had appeared to be turning overwhelmingly in the Allies' favor, as raids shook the Axis lines and turned Rommel's retreat into a nightmare.

Meanwhile in answer to reports that Germany had commandeered the Italian fleet and all available French merchantmen preparatory to an attempt to evacuate Italo-German armies from Tunisia in an Axis "Dunkirk," the Allies staged an unprecedented raid by 100 Flying Fortresses that smashed the important Axis supply base at Cagliari, Sardinia, damaging 26 merchant ships and putting 71 enemy planes out of commission. Simultaneously, waves of American Billy Mitchell bombers struck at an Axis convoy in the Sicilian narrows, sinking at least three large ships and leaving others burning and settling.

INVESTIGATION: Of U. S.-Held Foods

In a mass of charges and countercharges that the government itself had become No. 1 food hoarder, the Senate's Truman investigation committee plunged in an effort to obtain the facts.

Chairman Harry S. Truman announced that a two-way investigation was in progress. One phase is to inquire into the amount of food held by government agencies. The other was to investigate the needs of the armed forces. Information from both government and private sources had been obtained, he said. Previously, members of the food trade and others had charged that the armed services were hoarding government funds and thus forcing less than necessary civilian allowances under rationing.

"Question of food for the armed forces must be sufficiently great to assure that there will be plenty of food for our soldiers and sailors," Truman said. "However, there must be taken to assure that the government does not itself become a hoarder."

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SENATE: Hearings following the Senate's action to hold on the issue of two grounds, a pattern was announced by Finance Committee James H. Watson. Hearings were to be conducted in connection with the Senate's action on the bill to increase the price of wheat from 10 cents to 12 cents per bushel. The Senate also was expected to take up the bill to increase the price of cotton from 10 cents to 12 cents per pound.

WASHINGTON: Two new tax bills were introduced in the Senate. One was a bill to increase the tax on the sale of automobiles from 10 percent to 12 percent. The other was a bill to increase the tax on the sale of real estate from 10 percent to 12 percent.

RUSSIA:

Mud Unlimited

Yards rather than miles were the measure of Russian gains on the Smolensk sector as the thaw-molten central front was further mired by heavy spring rains.

Further to the south, however, the Red forces menaced the steadily shrinking German bridgehead in the Northwest Caucasus by the capture of Anastasevskaya, 38 miles northwest of Novorossiisk on the last highway link between Nazi forces north and south of the Kuban river.

Elsewhere, fresh German tank assaults against the Soviet line on the Donets river east of Kharkov were rolled back by the stout Red defenders. In the north the Germans tacitly reported a retreat near Staraya Russa, between Moscow and Leningrad, by admitting a "withdrawal to prepared positions."

TIRES:

Synthetics O. K.

Two events pointed to the conclusion that the nation's synthetic rubber producing program was proceeding successfully.

One was the appearance of Rubber Director William M. Jeffers before a senate committee with a heavy duty synthetic truck tire and his statement that the artificial elastic had been perfected "to the point where it will very nearly meet all requirements without mixing with natural rubber."

The other was the action of the rubber division and the department of agriculture in reducing the immediate planting of guayule, a rubber producing shrub from 53,000 acres to between 13,000 and 20,000 acres.

Jeffers warned, however, that the rubber situation was still critical.

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Bombs Break Lull

American bombs exploding on Kiska in the Aleutian Islands, Vila in the central Solomons, Kahili in the Shortlands and in Japanese holdings north of Australia broke the lull in the Pacific war theater.

While the foregoing raids had nuisance and punitive value, General MacArthur's fliers in New Guinea centered their attacks on enemy supply and communication lines between Wewak and Madang and strafed the entire Salamaua area.

A communique from Allied headquarters said that low-altitude raids in the Salamaua area with bombs, cannon and machine gun fire had subjected this front to the most intensive damage this Jap base had yet received.

'AIR POLICE':

To Insure Peace

Air power as a police force preserving world peace after the war was envisioned by former President Herbert Hoover, who proposed that the United Nations strip the

HERBERT HOOVER

Axis powers of their airplane factories as a means of stopping ambitious militarists.

The former President declared that "planes alone" could do the job of maintaining international order, thus allowing extensive land and sea armament while the world moves peacefully into an era of "freedom-of-the-air."

DRAFT:

Reaches War Plants

As the need for military manpower increased a nation-wide search of war factories for men of draft age who could be replaced by women or older men was undertaken. So great is the need, Selective Service officials revealed, that the canvass of the war plants might result in calling for military service thousands of men now classified 2A and 2B—men actually producing tools of war or working in direct support of the war effort.

State directors of Selective Service, conferring in Washington with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, reviewed the over-all operations covering inductions for the future.

Not only would peacetime government be the drafting of fathers be clearly defined, but under consideration was measures in connection with a compulsory labor draft, investigation of labor hoarding by war industries and the return to agricultural work of farm workers who have entered industry.

Washington Digest

Army Clarifies Policies Regarding Farm Labor

Military Units May Be Employed on Crops During 'Emergency Situations'; Individual Furloughs Not Contemplated.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

"Home on a furlough."

I wonder how many of my readers remember that very popular print of two (or maybe more) generations ago. Well, never mind if you don't (though I would appreciate a letter from any who do); "home on a furlough" is going to mean something quite different now.

I remember the original picture only vaguely. I didn't know what the word "furlough" meant. But I know there was a tousle-headed blond boy in the middle of an admiring farm family, telling his adventures.

Today, the farm boy with a conscience, and the farm family with a farm, are looking forward to the "furlough" that will bring the boy home for work, not the telling of his tales of adventure.

It isn't going to be quite that way. The President, when the farm bloc was riding the administration its hardest last month, went into considerable detail as to what was to be done to solve the farm labor question. Since then some concrete steps have been taken but not the ones the farmers, or some of them, would have liked. They would have liked their own sons, or their own hands, who enlisted because they simply couldn't stay "out of the show," back doing the old chores they used to do. But this is what the army said:

"World War I experience demonstrated that such temporary releases of individual soldiers were of little assistance to the agriculture industry and disrupted the organization and training of the army. If furloughs were granted for this purpose, neither agriculture nor the army could be assured that the soldiers thus furloughed actually would be engaged in agricultural activities."

"Certain emergency situations may develop in which vital crops may be endangered because of critical shortages in local agricultural labor. In such cases, military units may be employed under command of their own officers to supplement the local farm labor until the crisis is over."

"Troops so employed will be housed and fed by the army and will be subject to military control at all times."

"Requests for use of military units for emergency farm duty must be transmitted to the war department by the chairman of the War Manpower commission."

Another Loophole

However, there is another loophole which all of the farmers or the farm men in service may not know about. A soldier over 38 years of age who is on active duty in the continental United States can get his discharge right now if he can get a statement from his local farm agent to the effect that he is needed.

But the application has to get in by May 1. The same thing applies to men overseas and they have until June. (Better tell them by V-Mail.) The President explained to us twice, why a batch of young men couldn't be pulled out of a division and sent home.

You can take 10 or 20 soldiers out of an outfit that has just started training and it doesn't make much difference. But you can't take that many men out of an outfit already trained and booked for overseas. Not without crippling the outfit so badly that it really interferes with battle plans.

That's his explanation and he made it to us the other day, leaning back in his chair and obviously trying hard to get over an idea that he believes is right.

There is going to be a "land army." He said he didn't like the term because it made the farmers think they were going to have a lot of green city folks descend on them. He knows what the farmers think about folks who will scare the horses, sprain their ankles, try to milk a cow and when she doesn't give, say: "The valves are stuck."

Government Ellis Arnall of Georgia has joined the ranks of Victory Gardeners, planning an extensive garden on the grounds of the executive mansion. An old barn, once used to house cows, will be razed to provide additional garden space. The governor indicated that his wife and son would be the "bonus gardeners" and produced a bumper crop of vegetables.

Cotton fabrics for women's work clothing have been cut from 14 types to five.

Government purchase orders, specifying that canners pack fruits, vegetables and juices in large No. 10 cans, instead of smaller ones, may save as much as $7,000 tons of steel, 1,000 tons of tin, 40 tons of rubber and 4,000,000 man-hours of cannery labor in 1943.

One farmer wrote me he'd rather have grasshoppers than city folks on his place.

England's Method

The President said to us that in England they have increased food production 60 per cent. And they did it with the help of a land army, mostly women with no previous training. They got the training. A lot depends on the training.

I talked with a farmer near here who took on a city boy, green as grass. The boy probably thought shorts were something you wore and probably would have looked in the toolbox for a boar.

Maybe you heard him talk on the Farm and Home Hour. Well, I met him and the farmer, too. The kid is crazy to get back this summer and the farmer told me he was sick when he had to let him go back to school. City folks are dumb in a lot of ways. But so are farmers. It's true you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink. Also, a lot of horses have got the sense to drink if you've got sense to lead them to the water.

In spite of dumb help or none at all, in spite of lack of machines and a lot of red tape, the farmers of the country have signed up to raise a bigger crop than they've ever raised. I believe with a little horse sense and patience, they are going to pull through.

No team pulled together until they were in harness.

If they don't, God help us and the army at meal time.

The Weather—

A Dead Topic

As you know, mention of the weather on the radio these days is forbidden. The newspapers can describe a snow storm or a hot spell but the radio commentators cannot.

There is a good reason for this. A lurking submarine could pick up a newscast, and if enough facts concerning the weather were revealed by stations in enough widely separated localities, even an amateur meteorologist—and the Germans are no amateurs—could make a pretty good weather forecast by putting two and two together.

But being unable to describe the manifestations of nature that I see on my way to work in the morning is a terrible handicap to me. Recently I've gotten around the difficulty by talking about last week's weather, and before going on the air, reading what I was going to say to the censorship officials and getting their O. K. In no case did they restrict me. The other day, however, I forgot to call up the Censorship office but the Blue Network didn't forget. I got this message:

"Censorship says you have to cut out all references to weather from now on. They say that there was nothing actually censorable in what you have said or what you have written today but so many complaints have come in from other stations that you were violating the regulations, and so many other stations have been using your comments on the weather as an excuse for violating the rule, that we will have to ask you to stop discussing the subject entirely."

The following is what censorship didn't let me say but what it has no objection to my printing: "It was pretty hard the past week not to mention the swiftly changing scene which nature provided Washingtonians—one day, not so long ago a top coat was far too heavy for comfort and in the park, the dark patches were beginning to be studded with jeweled buds and the sunlight seemed to turn into solid gold on the bursting forsythia. On that balmy day I remarked: 'Well, we must be due for a blizzard.'"

"Twenty-four hours later the fine snow began to fall and late that afternoon and the following morning, the tree limbs and trunks were wrapped in great soft blankets of down—even the high branches were wide bands of white—but when we went home from work in the evening, the streets were dry and clean again and only here and there in the shadow of a hedge or in the sheltering cups of the brown ivy leaves was a dust of snow—like a meager sprinkling of precious sugar on the rim of a doughnut."

Government Ellis Arnall of Georgia has joined the ranks of Victory Gardeners, planning an extensive garden on the grounds of the executive mansion. An old barn, once used to house cows, will be razed to provide additional garden space. The governor indicated that his wife and son would be the "bonus gardeners" and produced a bumper crop of vegetables.

Cotton fabrics for women's work clothing have been cut from 14 types to five. Government purchase orders, specifying that canners pack fruits, vegetables and juices in large No. 10 cans, instead of smaller ones, may save as much as $7,000 tons of steel, 1,000 tons of tin, 40 tons of rubber and 4,000,000 man-hours of cannery labor in 1943.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Food Payments Urged for Poor; Tunisia Trap Closes on Axis Armies As Allied Air Blitz Destroys Ships; Truman Group Eyes Hoarding Charges

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

The toll of German prisoners has increased steadily as British and American forces have driven in on Rommel's cornered Axis forces in Tunisia. Typical of the multitude of captives is the above group of German prisoners taken in the British drive north of Gabes.

NORTH AFRICA:

Axis Hold Shrinks

Of key importance in heralding the possibility of an earlier-than-expected finish of the Tunisian campaign were reports that the harbor and shipping facilities of Gabes had been left undamaged by the Axis forces in their hasty retreat from Gen. Montgomery's onslaughts.

With Gabes functioning as an Allied supply port, the long overland haul of war materials from Tripoli or Benghazi far down the African coast in Libya could be avoided. Moreover, Allied sea and air power concentrated in Gabes could further harass the Axis forces.

The all-over battle for North Africa was not yet won, but steadily British armies from the north and south and American armies from the center were tightening the squeeze on the remaining Axis troops in Tunisia.

As Marshal Rommel's forces had made their last desperate effort to beat their way northward for a junction with Col. Gen. Von Arnim's troops in the Bizerte area, reports indicated that the Axis had flown fresh troops into Tunisia. To relieve the pressure on Rommel, Von Arnim's forces had staged a brief counter-offensive against British forces near Bizerte. Control of the air over North Africa had appeared to be turning overwhelmingly in the Allies' favor, as raids shook the Axis lines and turned Rommel's retreat into a nightmare.

Meanwhile in answer to reports that Germany had commandeered the Italian fleet and all available French merchantmen preparatory to an attempt to evacuate Italo-German armies from Tunisia in an Axis "Dunkirk," the Allies staged an unprecedented raid by 100 Flying Fortresses that smashed the important Axis supply base at Cagliari, Sardinia, damaging 26 merchant ships and putting 71 enemy planes out of commission. Simultaneously, waves of American Billy Mitchell bombers struck at an Axis convoy in the Sicilian narrows, sinking at least three large ships and leaving others burning and settling.

INVESTIGATION: Of U. S. Held Foods

In a mass of charges and countercharges that the government itself had become No. 1 food hoarder, the Senate's Truman investigating committee plunged in an effort to obtain the facts.

Chairman Harry S. Truman announced that a two-way investigation was in progress. One phase is to inquire into the amount of food held by government agencies. The other was to investigate the needs of the armed forces. Information from both government and private sources had been obtained, he said. Previously, members of the food trade and others had charged that the armed services were hoarding government funds and thus forcing less than necessary civilian allowances under rationing.

"Question of food for the armed forces must be sufficiently great to assure that there will be plenty of food for our soldiers and sailors," Truman said. "However, there must be taken to assure that the government does not itself become a hoarder."

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SENATE: When following the Senate, following early in May on the basis of two grounds: a pattern of food was announced by President Truman. The Senate investigating committee was to inquire into the amount of food held by government agencies. The other was to investigate the needs of the armed forces. Information from both government and private sources had been obtained, he said. Previously, members of the food trade and others had charged that the armed services were hoarding government funds and thus forcing less than necessary civilian allowances under rationing.

WASHINGTON: Two new food subsidies were added to the navy's ration when President Roosevelt announced that Capt. Joseph B. Boland, of the Navy, and Capt. Francis B. Boland, of the Navy, were to receive a 10 percent increase in their pay. The increase was announced by the navy department on the staff of Adm. Ernest J. King.

RUSSIA:

Mud Unlimited

Yards rather than miles were the measure of Russian gains on the Smolensk sector as the thaw-melting central front was further mired by heavy spring rains.

Further to the south, however, the Red forces menaced the steadily shrinking German bridgehead in the Northwest Caucasus by the capture of Anastasevskaya, 35 miles northwest of Novorossiysk on the last highway link between Nazi forces north and south of the Kuban river.

Elsewhere, fresh German tank assaults against the Soviet line on the Donets river east of Kharkov were rolled back by the stout Red defenders. In the north the Germans tacitly reported a retreat near Staraya Russa, between Moscow and Leningrad, by admitting a "withdrawal to prepared positions."

TIRES:

Synthetics O. K.

Two events pointed to the conclusion that the nation's synthetic rubber producing program was proceeding successfully.

One was the appearance of Rubber Director William M. Jeffers before a senate committee with a heavy duty synthetic truck tire and his statement that the artificial elastic had been perfected "to the point where it will very nearly meet all requirements without mixing with natural rubber."

The other was the action of the rubber division and the department of agriculture in reducing the immediate planting of guayule, a rubber producing shrub from 53,000 acres to between 13,000 and 20,000 acres.

Jeffers warned, however, that the rubber situation was still critical.

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Bombs Break Lull

American bombs exploding on Kiska in the Aleutian Islands, Vila in the central Solomons, Kahili in the Shortlands and in Japanese holdings north of Australia broke the lull in the Pacific war theater.

While the foregoing raids had nuisance and punitive value, General MacArthur's fliers in New Guinea centered their attacks on enemy supply and communication lines between Wewak and Madang and strafed the entire Salamaua area.

A communique from Allied headquarters said that low-altitude raids in the Salamaua area with bombs, cannon and machine gun fire had subjected this front to the most intensive damage this Jap base had yet received.

Allied airmen continued their raids on the airdromes at Lae and at Timika in Dutch New Guinea.

'AIR POLICE':

To Insure Peace

Air power as a police force preserving world peace after the war was envisioned by former President Herbert Hoover, who proposed that the United Nations strip the

Axis powers of their airplane factories as a means of stopping ambitious militarists.

The former President declared that "planes alone" could do the job of maintaining international order, thus allowing extensive land and sea armament while the world moves peacefully into an era of "freedom-of-the-air."

DRAFT:

Reaches War Plants

As the need for military manpower increased a nation-wide search of war factories for men of draft age who could be replaced by women or older men was undertaken. So great is the need, Selective Service officials revealed, that the canvass of the war plants might result in calling for military service thousands of men now classified 2A and 2B—men actually producing tools of war or working in direct support of the war effort.

State directors of Selective Service, conferring in Washington with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, reviewed the over-all operations covering inductions for the future.

Not only would peacetime government be drafted, but under consideration was measures in connection with a compulsory labor draft, investigation of labor hoarding by war industries and the return to agricultural work of farm workers who have entered industry.

Army Clarifies Policies Regarding Farm Labor

Military Units May Be Employed on Crops During 'Emergency Situations'; Individual Furloughs Not Contemplated.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

"Home on a furlough."

I wonder how many of my readers remember that very popular print of two (or maybe more) generations ago. Well, never mind if you don't (though I would appreciate a letter from any who do); "home on a furlough" is going to mean something quite different now.

I remember the original picture only vaguely. I didn't know what the word "furlough" meant. But I know there was a tousle-headed blond boy in the middle of an admiring farm family, telling his adventures.

Today, the farm boy with a conscience, and the farm family with a farm, are looking forward to the "furlough" that will bring the boy home for work, not the telling of his tales of adventure.

It isn't going to be quite that way. The President, when the farm bloc was riding the administration its hardest last month, went into considerable detail as to what was to be done to solve the farm labor question. Since then some concrete steps have been taken but not the ones the farmers, or some of them, would have liked. They would have liked their own sons, or their own hands, who enlisted because they simply couldn't stay "out of the show," back doing the old chores they used to do. But this is what the army said:

"The army does not contemplate furloughing individual soldiers to work on farms," the war department announced in a statement clarifying policies and procedures by which soldiers may be used to alleviate the farm labor shortage.

"World War I experience demonstrated that such temporary releases of individual soldiers were of little assistance to the agriculture industry and disrupted the organization and training of the army. If furloughs were granted for this purpose, neither agriculture nor the army could be assured that the soldiers thus furloughed actually would be engaged in agricultural activities."

"Certain emergency situations may develop in which vital crops may be endangered because of critical shortages in local agricultural labor. In such cases, military units may be employed under command of their own officers to supplement the local farm labor until the crisis is over."

"Troops so employed will be housed and fed by the army and will be subject to military control at all times."

"Requests for use of military units for emergency farm duty must be transmitted to the war department by the chairman of the War Manpower commission."

Another Loophole

However, there is another loophole which all of the farmers or the farm men in service may not know about. A soldier over 38 years of age who is on active duty in the continental United States can get his discharge right now if he can get a statement from his local farm agent to the effect that he is needed.

But the application has to get in by May 1. The same thing applies to men overseas and they have until June. (Better tell them by V-Mail.) The President explained to us twice, why a batch of young men couldn't be pulled out of a division and sent home.

You can take 10 or 20 soldiers out of an outfit that has just started training and it doesn't make much difference. But you can't take that many men out of an outfit already trained and booked for overseas. Not without crippling the outfit so badly that it really interferes with battle plans.

That's his explanation and he made it to us the other day, leaning back in his chair and obviously trying hard to get over an idea that he believes is right.

There is going to be a "land army." He said he didn't like the term because it made the farmers think they were going to have a lot of green city folks descend on them. He knows what the farmers think about folks who will scare the horses, sprain their ankles, try to milk a cow and when she doesn't give, say: "The valves are stuck."

One farmer wrote me he'd rather have grasshoppers than city folks on his place.

England's Method

The President said to us that in England they have increased food production 60 per cent. And they did it with the help of a land army, mostly women with no previous training. They got the training. A lot depends on the training.

I talked with a farmer near here who took on a city boy, green as grass. The boy probably thought shorts were something you wore and probably would have looked in the toolbox for a boar.

Maybe you heard him talk on the Farm and Home Hour. Well, I met him and the farmer, too. The 2nd War Loan IS NOW ON!

13 billion dollars must be raised!

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. We can do it. And we must do it. Every American must realize the truth:

In this, our toughest war, we've made a good start. We've trained a lot of men—made a lot of weapons—built a lot of ships.

But it's only a start. No man or woman among us would contend for a single instant that we're doing enough now to win this war!

We've Got to Build More!

We broke all records building 8 million tons of shipping last year. But grim-faced Army and Navy men will tell you that the 18 MILLION tons we're building this year still won't be enough!

We've Got to Fight More!

From now till this war is won, America must be on the offensive. In ever-increasing numbers, your sons, brothers, husbands must go into actual battle. Our losses have already begun to mount—and they will not grow less.

And We've Got to Buy More War Bonds!

Sure we're all buying War Bonds now. But we've got to help pay for our increased fighting and building . . . We've got to match, as best we can, the sacrifice of those Americans who are toiling and sweating on a dozen battle-fronts—with the bloodiest yet to come. The blunt fact is this: to keep our war machine going, we've got to dig up 13 billion extra dollars this month. 13 billion dollars over and above our regular War Bond buying!

In the next few weeks you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are contributing their time and effort to this Drive. But don't wait for him. Make up your mind now that before this drive is over, you're going to march right down to your nearest bank, Post Office, or place where they sell War Bonds, and do your duty. And don't ever forget this: in doing your duty, you're doing yourself one of the biggest favors of your life!

For United States War Bonds are the greatest investment in the world—bar none. They're investments tailored to fit your particular situation. And they give you the chance of a lifetime to order and get the kind of world you want to live in after this war. Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peacetime jobs making peace-living for every one of us.

For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There Are 7 Different Types of U. S. Government Securities—Choose The Ones Best Suited For You:

United States War Savings Bonds—Series E: The perfect investment for individual and family savings. Gives you back $4 for every $3 when the Bond matures. Designed especially for the smaller investor. Dated 1st day of month in which payment is received. Interest: 2.9% a year if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000. Redemption: any time 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969: Readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, these Bonds are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated April 15, 1943; due June 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000—also $1,000,000 if registered. Redemption: Not callable till June 15, 1964; thereafter at par and accrued interest on any interest date at 4 months' notice. Subject to Federal taxes only. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other Securities: Series "C" Tax Notes; 7½% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2½% Treasury Bonds of 1950-1952; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G."

The 2nd War Loan IS NOW ON!

13 billion dollars must be raised!

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. We can do it. And we must do it. Every American must realize the truth:

In this, our toughest war, we've made a good start. We've trained a lot of men—made a lot of weapons—built a lot of ships.

But it's only a start. No man or woman among us would contend for a single instant that we're doing enough now to win this war!

We've Got to Build More!

We broke all records building 8 million tons of shipping last year. But grim-faced Army and Navy men will tell you that the 18 MILLION tons we're building this year still won't be enough!

We've Got to Fight More!

From now till this war is won, America must be on the offensive. In ever-increasing numbers, your sons, brothers, husbands must go into actual battle. Our losses have already begun to mount—and they will not grow less.

And We've Got to Buy More War Bonds!

Sure we're all buying War Bonds now. But we've got to help pay for our increased fighting and building . . . We've got to match, as best we can, the sacrifice of those Americans who are toiling and sweating on a dozen battle-fronts—with the bloodiest yet to come. The blunt fact is this: to keep our war machine going, we've got to dig up 13 billion extra dollars this month. 13 billion dollars over and above our regular War Bond buying!

In the next few weeks you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are contributing their time and effort to this Drive. But don't wait for him. Make up your mind now that before this drive is over, you're going to march right down to your nearest bank, Post Office, or place where they sell War Bonds, and do your duty. And don't ever forget this: in doing your duty, you're doing yourself one of the biggest favors of your life!

For United States War Bonds are the greatest investment in the world—bar none. They're investments tailored to fit your particular situation. And they give you the chance of a lifetime to order and get the kind of world you want to live in after this war. Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peacetime jobs making peace-living for every one of us.

For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There Are 7 Different Types of U. S. Government Securities— Choose The Ones Best Suited For You:

United States War Savings Bonds—Series E: The perfect investment for individual and family savings. Gives you back $4 for every $3 when the Bond matures. Designed especially for the smaller investor. Dated 1st day of month in which payment is received. Interest: 2.9% a year if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000. Redemption: any time 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969: Readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, these Bonds are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated April 15, 1943; due June 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000—also $1,000,000 if registered. Redemption: Not callable till June 15, 1964; thereafter at par and accrued interest on any interest date at 4 months' notice. Subject to Federal taxes only. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other Securities: Series "C" Tax Notes; 7½% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1950-1952; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G."

It is reported here that C. Eugene McClintic, who is serving with the engineering corps, has been seriously injured in service in Africa. His wife, who is employed in Washington, D. C., recently visited her father, Fred Gwin, who has been ill.

Kenneth Walter Jett visited his wife and baby here last week-end.

H. L. Kincaid, Miss Glenna Barnes, Miss Jewell Kincaid and Mrs. Marie Kincaid were in Elkins last Saturday, where Miss Kincaid took an examination for a government position.

Mrs. Pearl Miller of Hillsboro is in Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore for treatment.

A correction must be made—and this time it is not the fault of the press. A note from Mrs. Gerry Kiser Lawton of Frank states that the young couple were so excited upon the birth of their baby recently that they did not know the true color of baby's hair—and that it is red, and not brown, as we reluctantly reported.

Mrs. Paul Kiser and James Kiser of Elkins were visiting Mrs. "Sid" Neese at Minnehaha Springs hotel Sunday.

Miss Glenna Clarkson, local nurse, visited in Columbus, O., over the week-end.

We happened to see Mrs. Harry Cochran purchasing a nice going-away gift for Mrs. Lee Ruckman, who moved to Clarksburg this week.

The goal of the Second War Loan drive is 13 billion dollars. That is just about one fifth of the estimated increase of the Public Debt for the fiscal year of 1943.

A letter from Tony Colson to his mother here, states that he is now Technical Sergeant, and that he was just a little disappointed that brother Frank joined the Navy instead of the Army. But we are of the opinion that two nice boys like the Colson brothers should not be in the same branch of the service.

"How well you look!" was the most gracious greeting which met Bobby Sharp, who's been browned by the Florida sun, where he is in service. Robert and his mother, Mrs. Wilbur Sharp, were visiting in Charleston last week.

Mrs. William Harper and baby are back in their home in Hamilton Field Addition after spending some time at her home at Elkabeth.

And the "crowd" here are rejoicing at the news that "Ham" Hamilton, who just last week was reported as a "Pfc." is now a Corporal.

Mrs. E. L. Fenton was in Charleston from Friday until Monday visiting Mr. Fenton, who is employed at the Charleston Bank of Commerce.

Mrs. H. H. Schofield is a patient at the local hospital, where she has undergone two major operations. The Schofield family will move in the near future into the home formerly occupied by the Joe Shipes, which is now owned by Miss My Ann Dever. Mrs. Charles Schofield expects to remain in her home here, now occupied by the Schofields, about the end of May.

Miss Glenna Sharp accompanied her mother, Mrs. Katherine Sharp, to the University Hospital at University, Va., where the latter will remain for observation and treatment.

Workmen in a Michigan railway yard found a very low, false floor leading to the pay office. As it is reported, "You will learn to look down if you don't look a blind."

Miss Lora Kesterson spent the week-end in Elkins.

Mr. E. W. Shaper and daughter Pearl have returned from traveling a week with Mrs. Shaper's mother at Elkins.

Mrs. Lora Shaper and Mrs. W. A. Shaper returned Monday morning from Richmond, where they had been visiting their mother.

Mrs. James N. Harvey spent several days in Charleston recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Richardson were business visitors in Huntington last week.

Mrs. Nannie Wootten and daughter Lyn visited her son, Homer, at Fayetteville, N. C., over the week-end.

Loy R. Hively, Jr., of 30 Second avenue, who was inducted into the U. S. Army Air Forces in February of this year, and who has been stationed at St. Petersburg, Fla., since that time, recently has been promoted to the rank of Private First Class and has been transferred to a school for air mechanics in Chicago, Illinois.

Thirteen billion dollars—the sum the Treasury must raise in the Second War Loan drive, is only one sixth of the estimated cost of the war for the fiscal year of 1943.

Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Kramer and daughter, Betty Jo, Miss Margaret Smith and Miss Grace Virginia Williams left last Sunday for Richmond. They returned to Marlinton Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston McLaughlin spent the week-end at the latter's home in Bridgeport. Arlan Smith, Jr., brother of Mrs. McLaughlin, was also visiting at home. Mr. Smith is stationed at Sioux City, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Ferguson left last Friday for a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Logston and Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Randolph of Clarksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Sharp spent the week-end with relatives in Elkins.

Miss Helen Gay of Franklin visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gay of Edray.

Lieut. Harry Lynn Sheets, who left for Richmond to begin a flight in Florida to report for duty, was accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sheets, Mrs. Irene Hannah of Hinton, sister of Mrs. Sheets who has been visiting here for several days, and by Mrs. Harry Cochran. All of those who accompanied Lieut. Sheets will remain in Virginia to visit friends and relatives.

If you haven't gotten around to buying a Second War Loan Bond, stop and think what it would mean to you if our soldiers hadn't gotten round to the fight.

Mrs. Albert Moore received word of the death of her mother, who lived in Buffalo, N. Y. Mrs. Moore was accompanied to Buffalo by Mrs. Mabel Hogsett.

Mrs. Harlow Waugh left this week for Fort Wayne, Ind., to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Mende Waugh and family.

John Honaker of Charleston has joined the Navy.

Corpl. Alonzo G. Moore who is stationed in Tennessee, visited at his home in Fairview over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moses and daughter spent the week-end with relatives in Staunton, Va.

Mrs. Paul Morris visited her sister in Charleston over the week-end.

Mrs. Frank Johnson left last Wednesday for Coudersport, Pa., for a visit with her father, James R. Caven, who has been ill as the result of a stroke.

Mrs. S. N. Hench left this week by bus for a visit with relatives in Pittsburgh.

Marlinton High Juniors Will Present "Girl Shy"

The following story is presented by The Journal in the interest of some clever entertainment, and in behalf of some of those "swell" young people of Marlinton High School. It concerns the Junior Class play, "Girl Shy," written by Katharine Kavanaugh. This story was written and submitted—

By JOHN JOHNSON

Well, folks, I might as well start at the beginning: The setting is graduation time at Any-Old-College, in the Midwest. Tom Arsdale, who might be classed as our hero but for the fact that the part is portrayed by Ray Viers, and Oke Stinson, a flighty jitterbug who thinks he's really in the groove, but discovers it is just a rut, played by George Schofield, the eminent Shakespearean actor of the well-known classic HAM-let, hold the center of attention throughout the performance. Of course that is just the masculine angle of the acting.

The feminine grace and charm (?) is injected into, they say, an otherwise flat and unemotional bit of acting by the heroine, Babs Sanford (better known to her public as Irene Morrison) and Peaches Carter, (truly brought to life through the efforts of Penny Arbogast; the part of Peaches in this prosaic melodrama is definitely on the Wool-Wool side).

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Ann Lee and Cole Cody, beneficiaries under two identical wills of Old Bill Cole, sought to discover who had fired the fatal bullet at Old Bill. Suspicion centered around Rance Waldron, who posed as Old Bill's nephew, and was living at the ranch when Ann and Cody arrived. Doc Joe and the Judge were returning to town from the ranch (each with a will in his pocket for safekeeping) when they were ambushed and shot by a masked bandit whom they recognized as Rance Waldron. To divert suspicion, Rance killed his accomplice, Tom Gough. Meanwhile, Cal Roundtree had discovered Old Doc Joe still lived.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XVIII

Those were the days when Ann Lee remained in the big, still old house. She moved softly through the dim rooms, the shades drawn against the glowing outside heat. She trailed her fingertips along table tops, along the backs of chairs; she smoothed the time-darkened walls with a palm of her hand. "I love you, Old House," she sometimes whispered when quite alone. "You've got your secrets, haven't you, Old House? All sorts of memories; heaps of 'em. Good ones, and bad ones, too. I bet! Dear old Early Bill was young once here, wasn't he? What was he like then, Old House? Why can't you tell me? And House? Why can't you tell me? Did something happen to her, did she die, long and long ago? When she was just a young girl like me? And did you, Billy Cole, before he got to be old Early Bill, love her terribly? Did she love him, too, and was she, oh, so faithful and true to him?"

Dear, dead, faded rose leaves of romance, those were what she was finding everywhere. Folks thought that they knew old Early Bill from the crown of his ragged old Stetson to his spurred boot heels—but they didn't know him the way she did—the way "Sylvia" had known him when both were young.

"I love you, Early Bill! You're an old darling, that's what you are!" And sometimes, alone in an early morning hour or in a hushed twilight, she would stand or sit very still, and would whisper,

"I know you are what folks call 'dead,' Early Bill—but I don't believe you've really gone away, not for one minute! I can feel you right here somewhere. Why, you're even near enough for me to reach out and touch—if only I could see you! And is Sylvia with you, too? You're laughing, Early Bill, you old scamp! I know you are!—Oh, why couldn't I have come sooner? Why couldn't I have known you?"

And it was in the patio of early mornings and in the summer magic of the long, lingering twilights that Ann Lee and Bill Cole Cody grew into the pleasant habit of meeting, to speak little, to dwell in a warm awareness of each other that was a glow like that lying about them over the hills and valleys; sometimes they looked at each other, each seeking what lay deep down in the other's eyes, a little searching their own hearts. Aunt Jennifer spied on them at times from a safe, secret distance, then went her quiet way smiling.

Thus they had been sitting on a particular evening, with even fewer words and with longer glances between them than ever before, when three occurrences burst upon them with the effect of sudden, unrelated and unexpected explosions. They had heard no sound of footsteps, so unwrapped were they in the concerns of their world which at the moment was far away from their immediate surroundings as was the star from which the girl's eyes came now so swiftly to try to read through the shadowy half-light what was written on his face, when of a sudden Portrie stood before them.

"Don Codito!" he burst out in some tremendous excitement. "Come quick! For the love of God, hurry, come as fast as lightning! No, no, not the senator! You are to come alone. You won't believe it—I cannot tell you—it is a miracle, Don Codito!"

"Are you drunk, Portrie?" snapped Cody.

Portrie caught him by the sleeve and fairly heaved him up from his place at the girl's side and willy-nilly, short of a fight, Cody had to accompany him some few steps. Then Portrie began whispering in his ear; and then Cody understood and went willingly enough, hurrying long strides, eager and glad that one sequence of a tragedy-comedy, a farcical one at that, was at an end. At the darkest corner of the house where a great box oak almost swept the ground with its lower branches, Portrie brought him to Doc Joe.

When almost immediately Cole Cody came running back to Ann Lee, all her bewilderment, her boundless curiosity in the patio, her slight body slightly bent, her hands at her sides, her eyes fixed, her face on the stone. She hadn't known that he would be coming back at all. She knew a great excitement had attended her, she was vaguely frightened—could her secret mission have been over so quickly?

Aunt Jennifer's appearance must have smacked of magic; there she was as they came, hand in hand, into the lamp-lighted living room. He released one of Aunt Jennifer's hands and took one of Ann's. She saw how earnest and eager he was; she said quietly, "All right, Cole. It's something to surprise us, but we won't be silly about it, especially since it's good news. We can take heaps of that, Ann and I."

When he told them, Aunt Jennifer sat down right in the middle of the floor; Ann reached out and clung tight to him and didn't seem to note that he had an arm about her.

Then Doc Joe came in. Jennifer scrambled to her feet and kissed him. Ann Lee deserted Cole Cody and put both arms about Doc Joe and gave him a mighty hug.

"Oh, Doc Joe! Doc Joe!" she kept saying over and over.

Doc Joe beamed all over. He kissed made them each a bow; he kissed Jennifer's hand, then Ann Lee's.

"Ladies!" he exclaimed throatily, his face red. "I never thought anything could make a man so happy! It would have been worth it to be dead for sure, just to know that you cared like you do! I'm powerful happy and proud. Proud, ladies—shucks, that's no name for it."

"Aunt Jenny!" cried Ann Lee.

"Listen!" cut in Cody. "Doc Joe wants us to hide him a little longer; for only a few minutes or a few hours, I don't know. He knows a lot about Rance Waldron; he'll tell you what it is. And while we wait"

Cody struck the way lightning strikes.

know where Waldron had gone, he knew and was having him watched all the time. And he knows that Waldron is on his way right now to the ranch and ought to be here any minute. So it's up to us to get Doc Joe under cover in a hurry, then be ready for Waldron's coming."

"That's it, my boy, that's it!" said Doc Joe hurriedly. "I don't want any beans spilled until I do the spilling. Get me out of sight, can you, ladies? I'll try to do a mite of explaining to you while we wait. And that Waldron dog will be showing up in a jiffy. He's not to know I'm alive until I can up and tell him he's as good as dead. Where'll we go?"

"Into our rooms!" said Aunt Jennifer, and started leading the way. "That's the safest place." Then she said, "Shush!" and all stood at attention, straining their ears. Through the silence which shut down about them they heard distinctly the thud of hoofbeats not too far away.

"Hurry along," said Cole Cody. "I'll be in the main room. If it's Rance Waldron, I'll find out what he wants."

Rance Waldron wanted the ranch and meant to have it and already counted it as good as his to have and to hold or to coin into good hard money and loss where he liked, the way the wind tosses dead leaves.

He didn't knock; why should he, coming home, returning to his own place? He shoved the door open and strode in; his thumbs were cocked into his belt, his hat was far back on his thick hair, his eyes were bright and arrogant as they scanned the room to traffic with Bill Cole Cody's.

He was wearing riding gauntlets, new, ornate and expensive ones. His hands looked white and well cared for, the hands of a gambler whose fingers have each card in the deck. He drew his gauntlets off, whistled them against his leg, tossed them along with his hat to the big table and sat down in the old comfortable chair before the fireplace. "Well, looking around, eh, Cody?"

The sight of a replica of a horseman, and of a gambler, of any kind of a strike—well, some men

it's a naked knife—can move a man tremendously, shooting into his blood a turbulence which may be compared of abhorrence, of fear, of hate, of sheer animalism, of a tangle of complex instincts. Right now, of complex instincts. Right now, looking at Rance Waldron's not-unpleasant face, Bill Cole Cody's handstream was ruffled all and it yawned endurance; it ran cold and it ran hot, and queer, blazing streaks of fire, like miniature stabs of lightning, shot through him.

"So you're still here, Cody, are you?" he said curtly. "You know, you're a fool, Cody, for sticking around in any hope of catching any few drops that might spill out over the top of the bucket. Because, if you listen to me, there won't be any drops spilled over. It might be a good time if you tucked your tail between your legs and claim here. You haven't any, told in evidence. It's common knowledge, that you had some sort of a trumped up, very slowly."

"Waldron, if I'm taking a big dose of you now, you'll know why later on. Suppose until time comes on that you keep your mouth shut? I'm not asking a lot—the breath of the thoughts you think—stinks! Shut up!"

Waldron chose to laugh, and never was there a man who could put a nastier sneer into laughter which should be a pleasant thing and which can be detestable beyond most sounds.

"It's hard to swallow, huh, Cody?" he jeered. "Thought you had an edge on the situation didn't you? Thought I'd take it the way you dished it out! Thought that if you couldn't take it any other way," he said, and jeered, "you'd gobble it along with that fifty piece of girl-along with that little caddy, pink-and-white female thing Ann Lee, that a man can buy a dozen of in town for—"

Cody struck the way lightning strikes. Leaping yards across the floor, Bill Cole Cody swung with his left hand and struck a blow for any hard-striking man to be proud of. Only—Rance Waldron wasn't there, wasn't at the end of that perfect short arc. He was three or four quick leaps behind it, jerking out his guns. And he was in high heaven, with full provocation to burn his man down. Attacked without warning, he had every right to go for his guns, to kill his man. And it would be so easy! If there were only a witness to his predicament, that of a man defending himself against a murderous attack.

That witness he had, but he knew that only later. It was Ann Lee who had stolen a tip-toe from the room in which Doc Joe and Aunt Jennifer, two sentimental old fools, were explaining and talking two-at-a-time, and blinking against fat tear drops; a tremulous Ann Lee who was wondering where a certain William Cole Cody—"William," she thought; "that must be his real name; the name his mama and papa gave him"—had betaken himself. She heard and she saw, and she nearly dropped dead, hearing and seeing.

Now as Bill Cole Cody had leaped forward and the watchful Rance Waldron had leaped back to be off of his reach, Waldron fired and Cody struck again—and little Ann tried to scream and tried to shut her eyes, and could do neither. In a sort of trance she saw how it was that Bill Cole struck: Not with his fist this time, since that would have been too late; but as a bullet clipped through a loose fold of his sleeve, he struck with his whole body, launching himself like a long lean catapult with bullets ripping the air where he had been a split second before. And as his feet left the floor and he became a sort of giant's arrow in horizontal flight, and his head struck Rance Waldron in the middle, his long arms with those tremendously gripping hands of his grappled with the man he sent toppling and crashing to the floor.

Now, Bill Cole Cody didn't miss all the bullets which swarmed about him like angry bees. Two of them scraped him, barely laid the skin back, and their effect was to cause him to lose all temper which he hadn't had time to lose already. There was a scratch along the top of his head, and blood ran down into his left eye; there was a twin scratch six or eight inches long down the back of his left shoulder. Ann Lee saw the blood and thought he was surely dead, and came running; she'd grab Rance Waldron's guns and shoot him all to pieces!

But no intervention was needed. As Waldron spilled back on the floor one of his guns flew out of his hands; Bill Cody, though with one eye dimmed, could see that. The other gun wedged in its brief arc to blow his brains out, but Cody's hand swung quicker. He caught Waldron's wrist; he all but broke it in the power of his grip! He twisted it so that the muzzle of Waldron's gun was against Waldron's temple. And then Bill Cody spoke his little speech:

"Pull the trigger now, Waldron, if you like. Or drop the gun—and drop it quick!"

Only He Knows
Mistress—Marie, you were entertaining a man in the kitchen last night, weren't you?
Marie—That's for him to say, ma'am. But I tried my best.

Should Know Them
There was a scream of brakes as the bus pulled to a sudden stop, to avoid a flustered-looking pedestrian who was dithering in the roadway.
Crimson with strain and rage, the driver leaned out of his cab. It was plain he was controlling himself with a great effort as he asked politely:
"May I ask what are your plans, sir?"

Not Kidding
"See that bevy of quail in the underbrush?"
"Yes."
"Well, watch me shoot a hole clear through the red barn behind 'em."

Trouble seems to be a patriotic affliction. It makes the eyes red, the hair white and the feelings blue.

Could He?
Said Mr. Henpeck, who had just overheard his wife scolding the maid: "You and I seem to be in the same unfortunate position, Mary."

"Not likely!" replied the maid. "I'm giving her a week's notice tomorrow."

Seizing Opportunity
Man at Door—Do you believe in free speech?
Housewife—Why, certainly I do.
Man—Fine. Let me use your telephone.

His Prerogative
The conversation had turned on the ways of wives.
"Well," said Brown, "when my wife and I have an argument I always have the last word."
"Oh," exclaimed someone. "You do?"
Brown nodded.
"Yes. I apologize."

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Homemakers May Learn Ration Wisdom Through Study.

This easily prepared gelatin dessert uses all unrationed food. It's pretty but easy to make, and will top off either a light or heavy meal.

These are times when changes are the fashion—and that particularly applies to changes in foods and cooking methods. Mrs. America can no longer dash to the grocer's and get enough canned or processed foods to put together a quick meal. Nor can she get together a meal, even one that would take time, with those rationed foods.

Points must be budgeted far more carefully than dollars and cents in the past! That is the realization every homemaker has been feeling since Ration Book II went into effect. Out of that has arisen one maxim: never to buy a canned or processed food if a fresh one is available.

Confusion, indecision, and slowness in buying were the adjectives grocers used when buying with War Ration Book II began. But this is gradually wearing away as Mrs. America learns new shopping methods.

Since point values change monthly, it's a good idea to keep a list of point values on hand when making the menu. Plan menus for a week at a time—marketing lists and budget lists all on hand when you're doing this important bit of work. Don't go to the store and wander aimlessly, selecting whatever appeals to the eye. Even if you have four or five ration books from which to spend, it's certain you won't get enough out of them by the hit or miss method.

Keep on the lookout for point values which may change—they vary from month to month and sometimes change during the month as the public's buying habits are watched.

Haphazard shopping, meal-planning, and carelessness about the health of the family are out of date. The homemaker must be alert and vigilant now as never before to make of her family the strongest and healthiest possible unit—for a healthy America is a strong America.

Lamb is fairly easily obtainable meat and second to pork, richest source of thiamin—our morale vitamin. Very little, if any, lamb is being sent to the armed forces and Allies, and that means it is for civilian use.

Baked Lamb Loaf.

- (Serves 8 to 10)
- 1½ pounds ground lamb
- 1½ cups bread crumbs
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons minced green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 3 tablespoons grated onion

Lynn Says:

Fresh Vegetables: To those of you accustomed to using canned vegetables and learning how many they serve, these hints are given on how many fresh vegetables will serve:

- Asparagus: One pound yields two cups, cut, serve three to four.
- Beans, green or yellow: yields three to three and one-half cups, serves four or five.
- Beets: One pound yields three to four servings. Use young beet greens as vegetable, too!
- Broccoli: One pound serves four to five.
- Cabbage: One pound, shredded, yields three and one half cups. One pound cooked serves three.
- Parasips: Four medium sized roots make a pound, serves four to five.
- Peas: One pound gives two servings.
- Spinach: One pound serves three to four.
- Turnips: One pound yields three to four servings.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

- *Deviled Egg, Macaroni and Pea Salad
- *Hot Biscuits with Jam
- *Marmalade Bavarian
- *Recipe Given

- 1 cup cooked peas
- 2 tablespoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Soak crumbs and mix well with meat and other ingredients. Pack into a loaf pan. Bake in a 300 degree oven for 1½ hours. This may also be baked in a ring mold and served with parsleyed potatoes.
- Fish will come into more popularity to help extend our main dishes when ration points will not cover that major item:
- *Fish Loaf.
- (Serves 6)
- 2 cups cooked, flaked fish (leftover may be used)
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup fine, soft bread crumbs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 eggs, separated
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice

Shred the fish. Sauté green pepper and onion in butter, add to fish with bread crumbs and seasonings. Beat egg yolks, add milk and then add to fish mixture. Stir in lemon juice. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Poured into a greased loaf pan, set in a pan of hot water. Bake for 1 hour in a 350 degree oven. Serve with white sauce to which hard-cooked eggs have been added.

As the days become warmer we will gradually begin adding salads for our main dishes, to help save on pointage. Here is a splendid suggestion, using all unrationed foods:

*Deviled Egg, Macaroni and Pea Salad.

(Serves 8)

- 10 to 12 deviled eggs
- 1 package (12 to 16-ounce) macaroni
- 2½ cups cooked, fresh peas
- French dressing
- Radish roses
- Salad greens—optional
- Deviled eggs
- 10 to 12 hard-cooked eggs
- 2 tablespoons salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
- 1½ teaspoons mustard
- 1½ teaspoons worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cut a half-inch slice from rounded end of egg. Cut a saw tooth edge around white, if desired. Remove yolk carefully. Press yolks and bits of leftover whites through sieve, add remaining ingredients and beat until light and fluffy. Refill shells, using pastry tube for decorating top, if desired.

Boil macaroni in salted water according to directions on package. Drain, rinse, then drain thoroughly. Marinate with a little french dressing, then chill.

Cook peas, drain, and save stock for soup. Marinate peas in french dressing.

To make salad, heap macaroni in center of dish. Alternate deviled eggs and radish roses around edge, pressing them into macaroni. Fill with a border of peas between eggs and macaroni.

A main dish salad that's a meal in itself includes macaroni, deviled eggs, and a ring of freshly cooked peas. This supplies a good quantity of protein to build and repair body tissues and gives food with that stick-to-the-ribs quality.

Marmalade Bavarian.

(Serves 6)

- 1 package orange-flavored gelatin
- 1½ cups hot water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup heavy cream
- ½ cup orange marmalade
- Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add salt. Chill until cold and syrupy. Fold in cream, whipped only until thick and shiny, but not stiff. Fold in marmalade.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

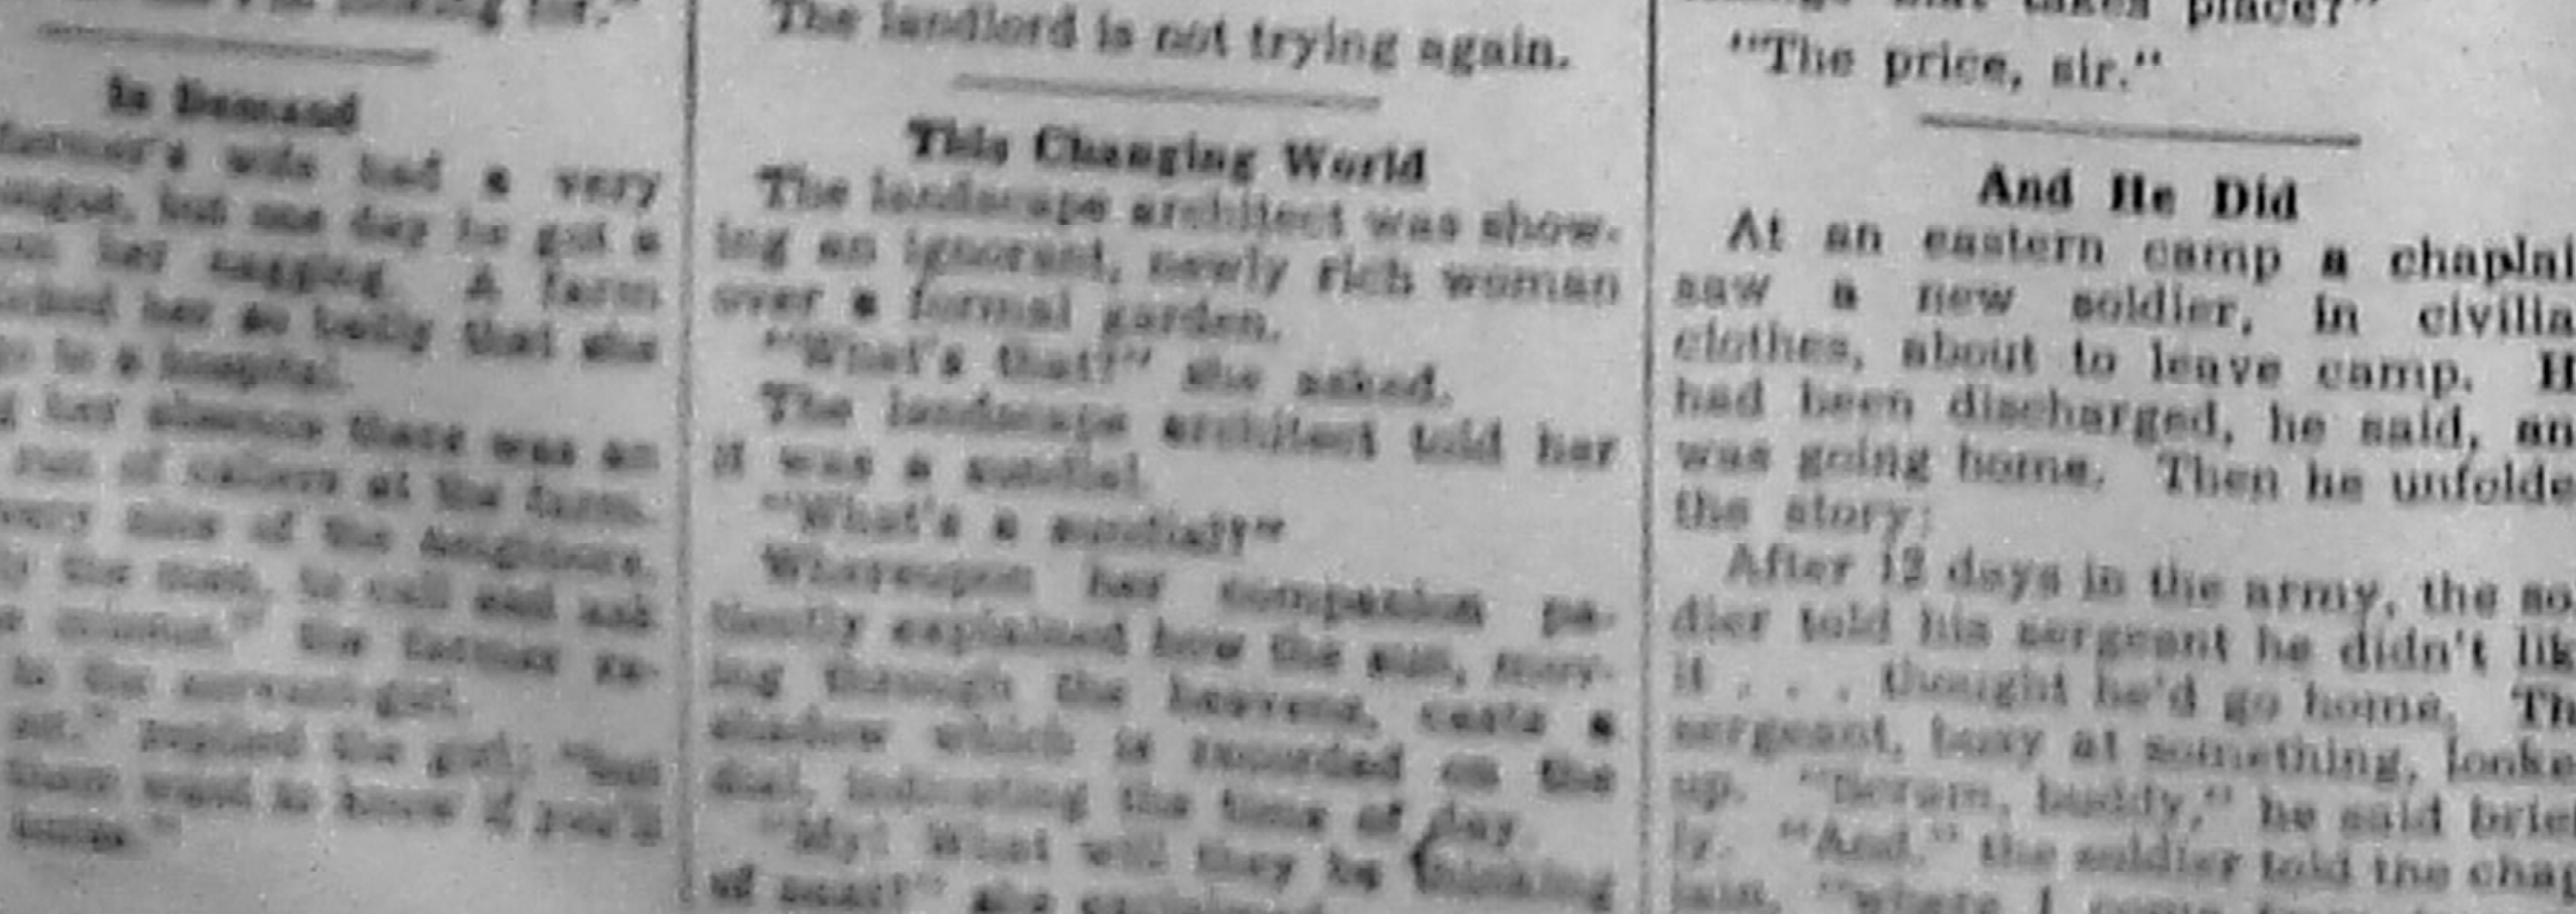

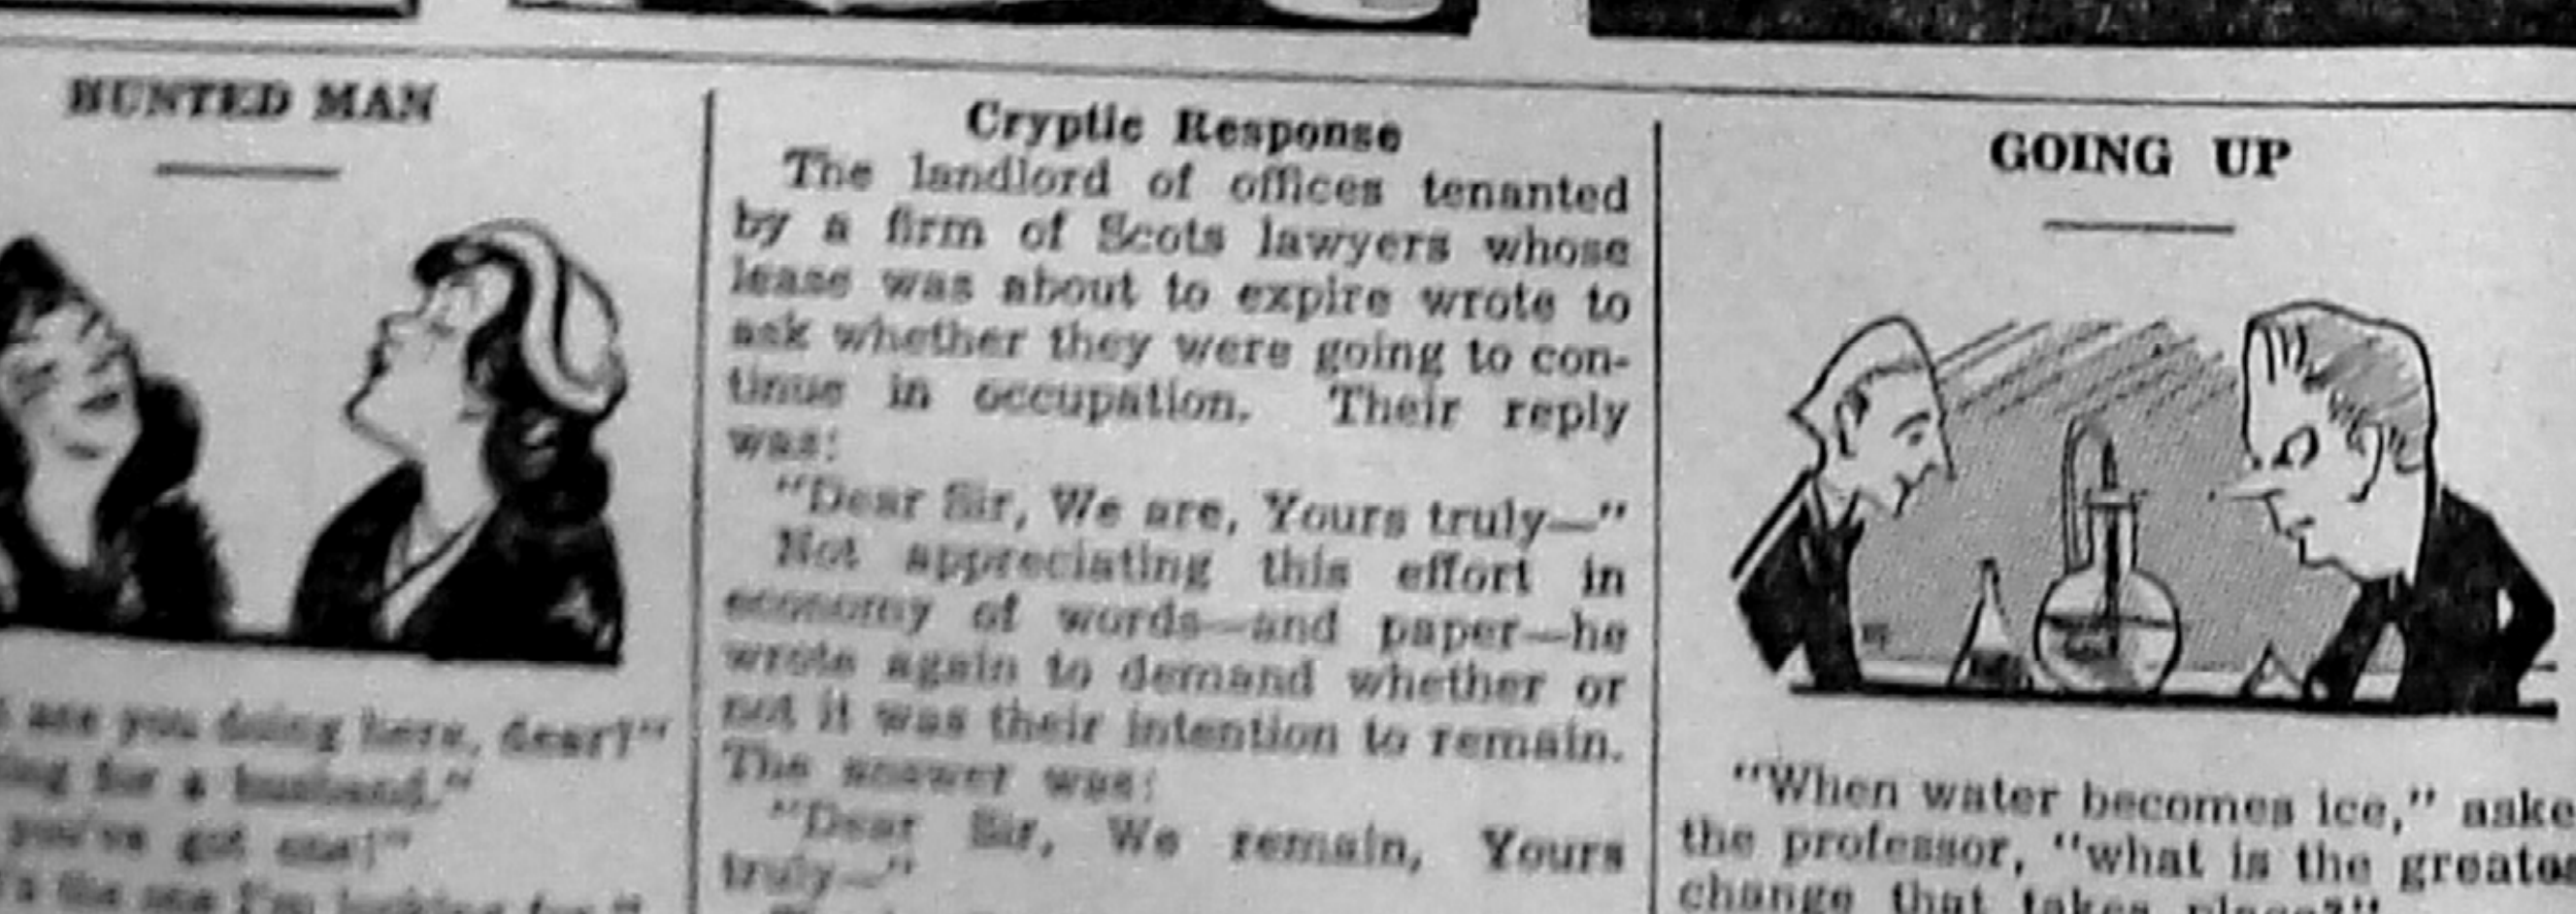

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Homemakers May Learn Ration Wisdom Through Study.

This easily prepared gelatin dessert uses all unrationed food. It's pretty but easy to make, and will top off either a light or heavy meal.

These are times when changes are the fashion—and that particularly applies to changes in foods and cooking methods. Mrs. America can no longer dash to the grocer's and get enough canned or processed foods to put together a quick meal. Nor can she get together a meal, even one that would take time, with those rationed foods.

Points must be budgeted far more carefully than dollars and cents in the past! That is the realization every homemaker has been feeling since Ration Book II went into effect. Out of that has arisen one maxim: never to buy a canned or processed food if a fresh one is available.

Confusion, indecision, and slowness in buying were the adjectives grocers used when buying with War Ration Book II began. But this is gradually wearing away as Mrs. America learns new shopping methods.

Since point values change monthly, it's a good idea to keep a list of point values on hand when making the menu. Plan menus for a week at a time—marketing lists and budget lists all on hand when you're doing this important bit of work. Don't go to the store and wander aimlessly, selecting whatever appeals to the eye. Even if you have four or five ration books from which to spend, it's certain you won't get enough out of them by the hit or miss method.

Keep on the lookout for point values which may change—they vary from month to month and sometimes change during the month as the public's buying habits are watched.

Haphazard shopping, meal-planning, and carelessness about the health of the family are out of date. The homemaker must be alert and vigilant now as never before to make of her family the strongest and healthiest possible unit—for a healthy America is a strong America.

Lamb is fairly easily obtainable meat and second to pork, richest source of thiamin—our morale vitamin. Very little, if any, lamb is being sent to the armed forces and Allies, and that means it is for civilian use.

Baked Lamb Loaf.

- (Serves 8 to 10)
- 1½ pounds ground lamb
- 1½ cups bread crumbs
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons minced green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 3 tablespoons grated onion

Lynn Says:

Fresh Vegetables: To those of you accustomed to using canned vegetables and learning how many they serve, these hints are given on how many fresh vegetables will serve:

- Asparagus: One pound yields two cups, cut, serve three to four.
- Beans, green or yellow: yields three to three and one-half cups, serves four or five.
- Beets: One pound yields three to four servings. Use young beet greens as vegetable, too!
- Broccoli: One pound serves four to five.
- Cabbage: One pound, shredded, yields three and one half cups. One pound cooked serves three.
- Parasip: Four medium sized roots make a pound, serves four to five.
- Peas: One pound gives two servings.
- Spinach: One pound serves three to four.
- Turnips: One pound yields three to four servings.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

- *Deviled Egg, Macaroni and Pea Salad
- *Hot Biscuits with Jam
- *Marmalade Bavarian
- *Recipe Given

- 1 cup cooked peas
- 2 tablespoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Soak crumbs and mix well with meat and other ingredients. Pack into a loaf pan. Bake in a 300 degree oven for 1½ hours. This may also be baked in a ring mold and served with parsleyed potatoes.
- Fish will come into more popularity to help extend our main dishes when ration points will not cover that major item.
- *Fish Loaf.
- (Serves 6)
- 2 cups cooked, flaked fish (leftover may be used)
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup fine, soft bread crumbs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 eggs, separated
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice

Shred the fish. Sauté green pepper and onion in butter, add to fish with bread crumbs and seasonings. Beat egg yolks, add milk and then add to fish mixture. Stir in lemon juice. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Poured into a greased loaf pan, set in a pan of hot water. Bake for 1 hour in a 350 degree oven. Serve with white sauce to which hard-cooked eggs have been added.

As the days become warmer we will gradually begin adding salads for our main dishes, to help save on pointage. Here is a splendid suggestion, using all unrationed foods:

*Deviled Egg, Macaroni and Pea Salad.

(Serves 8)

- 10 to 12 deviled eggs
- 1 package (12 to 16-ounce) macaroni
- 2½ cups cooked, fresh peas
- French dressing
- Radish roses
- Salad greens—optional
- Deviled eggs
- 10 to 12 hard-cooked eggs
- 2 tablespoons salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
- 1½ teaspoons mustard
- 1½ teaspoons worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cut a half-inch slice from rounded end of egg. Cut a saw tooth edge around white, if desired. Remove yolk carefully. Press yolks and bits of leftover whites through sieve, add remaining ingredients and beat until light and fluffy. Refill shells, using pastry tube for decorating top, if desired.

Boil macaroni in salted water according to directions on package. Drain, rinse, then drain thoroughly. Marinate with a little french dressing, then chill.

Cook peas, drain, and save stock for soup. Marinate peas in french dressing.

To make salad, heap macaroni in center of dish. Alternate deviled eggs and radish roses around edge, pressing them into macaroni. Fill with a border of peas between eggs and macaroni.

A main dish salad that's a meal in itself includes macaroni, deviled eggs, and a ring of freshly cooked peas. This supplies a good quantity of protein to build and repair body tissues and gives food with that stick-to-the-ribs quality.

Marmalade Bavarian.

(Serves 6)

- 1 package orange-flavored gelatin
- 1½ cups hot water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup heavy cream
- ½ cup orange marmalade
- Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add salt. Chill until cold and syrupy. Fold in cream, whipped only until thick and shiny, but not stiff. Fold in marmalade.

FDR Tightens Living Cost Controls; Allies Push All-Tunisia Offensive; As Rommel Speeds Retreat Northward; Draftees Status Altered in New Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the newspaper.)

ANTI-INFLATION: 'Hold the Line'

President Roosevelt's "hold the line" anti-inflation order served blunt notice on all special economic groups that competition for higher prices and wages must end, because the resulting conflict would not only result in inflation but "breed disaster when unity is essential."

Banning further wage increases except to correct substandard living conditions virtually freezing employees to their present jobs and extending price controls to all cost-of-living commodities, the President's order centered a four-pronged attack on inflation. The order provided:

- 1—No further wage increases beyond the Little Steel formula of 15 per cent over rates on January 1, 1942;
- 2—Immediate ceilings on all commodities affecting the cost of living;
- 3—No hiring of new employees by employers, except in accordance with War Manpower commission regulations, to prevent employment of workers at higher pay than they received in previous jobs;
- 4—Stabilization of rates of common carriers and public utilities.

DRAFT:

Classes Reshuffled

As local draft boards speeded the reclassification of registrants, in accordance with new selective service regulations, the fathers of children born before September 14, 1942, found themselves the sole occupants of class 3-A. All other men of draft age were being placed in one of the following classes:

- 1-A—Subject to immediate induction;
- 2-A—Deferred because of occupation in activities directly supporting the war effort, or vital to the maintenance of civilian health and welfare;
- 2-B—Deferred because of occupation in war plants; 2-C or 2-D—Deferred because of essential agricultural work;
- 3-D—Deferred because their induction would cause extreme hardship to dependents;
- 4-F—Mentally, morally, or physically unfit for service.

PACIFIC FRONT:

Air War Continues

Aerial warfare on the north and east extremities of the Pacific battle front provided for weeks the only activity in this theater.

In the north American army bombers escorted by fighters continued their daily assaults on Japanese positions in the Aleutians, bombing Kiska and Miankai Ats.

Largest scale action of all occurred near Guadalcanal, where American planes destroyed 37 out of 98 Japanese bombers which attacked U. S. shipping. Americans lost seven of their own planes in the encounter.

U. S. NAVY:

Billions for Building

Further evidence of the navy's determination to build itself into an unmatchable global power was seen in President Roosevelt's request of Congress for a $24,000,000,000 appropriation for the fiscal year 1944—the largest amount ever sought for the nation's fighting forces.

The President asked for $2,300,000,000 for new warships; $1,000,000,000 for maintenance and repair of steadily overpowered along the entire Tunisian front.

The long-hoped for junction of American and British forces had intensified Rommel's plight, for now General Montgomery's British Eighth army was not only pressing him from the south, but its advance units now joined directly with General Patton's Second American army corps were menacing his flanks from the east. To the north, General Anderson's British First army had moved to close off Rommel's movements for a possible union with the Axis forces of Gen. Von Arnim.

In routing Rommel at El Akarit, General Montgomery took the Nazis by surprise with a night attack that blasted its way forward under the screen of 500 cannon and scores of tanks and reinforced by hundreds of planes overhead. In the first break-through the Eighth army had gathered in 6,000 Axis prisoners.

As the battle picture became clearer, the contributions of General Patton's American forces emerged importantly. Prior to the historic junction with the British Eighth army after piercing the Axis armor's flanks, the Americans had held up most of Rommel's armored forces in the El Guellet region, weakening his defenses and making easier the task of the British at El Akarit.

RUSSIA:

Quiet on Donets

As reports had persisted that the Germans were moving many fresh divisions to the Russian front for a new offensive, the Red forces took the initiative in the Kharkov area and seized several favorable positions south of Izium, thus widening the Soviet bridgehead on the south bank of the Donets river.

Following their failure at Izium, the Germans were reported massing strength in the Balakleya sector.

A Moscow communique reported that quiet had again descended on the Shvolsk front after a lightning Russian thrust that resulted in the capture of several strongly held villages northeast of the Axis stronghold.

Engagements were but a prelude to bigger movements, for both sides were massing their forces for new major actions once the spring-thawed ground became firm again.

TUNISIA:

Fox in the Open

Rommel's retreating Afrika Korps had been faced by Allied armies on three sides after "The Fox" was uprooted from his El Akarit positions and chased into the open plains of Tunisia well north of Gabes.

The seriousness of the crisis for the Axis was reflected in Italian communiques which admitted that Italo-German forces were being Financial observers viewed the Keynes' plan as a trial balloon. Their idea was that a compromise between the American and British viewpoints would be ultimately arrived at.

Under the Keynes' plan the clearing union would have executive offices in New York and London. It would operate as a bank of nations, with creditor nations allowing their balances to accumulate as deposits, while the union would lend these deposits for short periods to debtor nations, just as a commercial bank operates.

FRANCE:

U. S.-Britain Agree

When British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced he had invited Secretary of State Cordell Hull to visit London and said he was satisfied there is "complete agreement" between Britain and the United States on the "future policy toward France," he took a long step toward settling the troublesome North African political situation.

Seemingly on the point of settlement, the problem had been intensified once more when the Fighting French took umbrage at Allied Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's request that Gen. Charles De Gaulle delay his projected visit to Algiers for conferences with Gen. Henri Giraud.

Military men had viewed the Eisenhower request as a perfectly logical action. With the battle for Tunisia at its height, the time was not right for political discussion, since the entire time of the French, British and American leaders in North Africa was occupied in winning the campaign.

BLACK MARKETS:

Meat Supply Scarcer

Black markets were blamed by the department of agriculture for the reduced marketing of livestock for slaughter in recent weeks.

In recent weeks, a department report noted, government buying agencies and civilian consumers dependent on federally inspected plants have experienced difficulty in obtaining meat. While the report did not disclose how great a reduction in inspected meat supplies stemmed from the black market operations, it described it as "fairly large."

Meanwhile seven meat packing firms operating in the East and Midwest were indicted by a federal grand jury in Newark, N. J., on charges of conspiracy to violate meat price regulations and meat quota restrictions.

CHESTER C. DAVIS

... 'spending power a peril.'

The government will have to recapture $35,000,000,000 in surplus spending power if present price and wage controls are to combat inflation effectively, Chester C. Davis, food administrator declared.

A banker as well as an agricultural leader, Mr. Davis recommended higher federal taxes and sharply increased investments in war bonds to relieve the strain of "too much purchasing power" on a declining supply of consumer goods, including food and other living items.

"This is no 10 per cent war," he declared, referring apparently to the treasury's campaign to get 10 per cent of salaries invested in war bonds.

KEYNES' PLAN:

To Sidetrack Gold

Following closely on the heels of the United States treasury's proposal for a $5,000,000,000 postwar international stabilization plan came Lord Keynes' proposal for a world credit institution "designed to expand world trade and serve as a genuine organ of truly international government."

Unlike the American plan, the British fiscal expert's program would subordinate gold as the post-war international medium of exchange. The announcement of Keynes' proposal made in a British white paper said "the purpose of the clearing union is to supplant gold as a governing factor, but not dispense with it."

Financial observers viewed the Keynes' plan as a trial balloon. Their idea was that a compromise between the American and British viewpoints would be ultimately arrived at.

Under the Keynes' plan the clearing union would have executive offices in New York and London. United Nations' Conferences First Real Test of Solidarity

Russia Seen as Vital Factor in World Organization or Disorganization; Mutual Understanding Essential to Worth-While Peace.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

This month will witness the first test of how united the United Nations are. The first of the conferences of representatives of the countries allied against the Axis are to meet and discuss food. On the success of that gathering, much will depend.

It may be just as well that the governments linked together under the very general and very idealistic statement of principles, the Atlantic Charter, are going to begin with a very material, a very down-to-earth and likewise a very vital question—food.

It would be too much to expect to begin at once to discuss the abstract subjects which are bound to arise when the larger implications of the philosophy of government are considered. People have to eat to live.

It seems reasonable to believe that the food question can be handled. Of course, it can easily be disposed of if the United States simply agrees to continue a lend-lease operation indefinitely with no demand for remuneration except vague promises. That, of course, is what the cynical say will happen.

And that brings me to the crux of the whole question of America's role in world affairs. If we go on the assumption as the isolationists do, that heads you win, tails we lose, and that America is going to be played for a sucker, we might as well throw up the whole idea of international co-operation now and put our heads back into the sand until the next Pearl Harbor.

On the other hand, the sincere proponents of international co-operation believe that America is smart enough and strong enough and wise enough and unselfish enough to help build the machinery which will at least make the world's wheels go around a little better than they have so far. We created a United States out of country with every geographical and political factor that exists anywhere. We welded into one a conglomerate people representing every race on the face of the globe.

Difficulties Ahead

However, it is only fair to look at some of the difficulties ahead.

Russia, if not an obstacle, is at least a problem for several reasons. With an Allied victory, Russia, both because of her contribution to the victory and because of her size, position and strength, is a vital factor in any world organization—or disorganization. She is not actually a member of the United Nations but rather an associated power as the United States was in the last war. She has not made a clear statement of her war or peace aims.

She is, at present, occupying territory of what was once free and independent nations; a part of Finland, all of the Baltic states, a part of Poland.

Recently, Gardner Cowles, presumably speaking as a member of the Office of War Information, said: "If Americans don't make an effort to understand Russia and the Russian place in the scheme of things to follow this war, I fail to see how we can possibly hope to build a worth-while peace."

That, of course, is true. However, that is only half of the story. It is mutual understanding that is necessary. Mr. Cowles might have said: "If the Russian government does not encourage the people to understand America, we can't build a worth-while peace."

It is a two-handed jug. We do misunderstand much about Russia. We are misinformed on some points. The Russian government has failed to inform us on others. For instance, few people in this country know and many are probably unwilling to believe what Cowles, who ought to know what he is talking about, says about private property under the Soviets.

About Property

"Workers may acquire any amount of consumer goods," he tells us, "any amount of furniture, an auto, etc., for their own use. The distinction from our economy is that in Russia, an individual may not own income-producing property."

French farmers have been ordered to plant grain on the same number of acres they had under cultivation in 1939 and to pay a tax. A plan is being discussed in Latin America to make President Roosevelt "an honorary citizen of the Americas" in recognition of his contribution to the defense of the Americas.

The Japanese government has advised the International Red Cross that it distributed 100,000 letters from home to American and United States prisoners of war in 1942. Five thousand four hundred letters were delivered to prisoners in the Philippines, 2,500 to Shanghai, 2,500 to Hong Kong, 500 to other parts of China, 4,500 to Europe, and 500 to other parts of the world.

Work Well Done

The penetrating eyes of British black-busters have confirmed reports of R. A. F. bomber pilots that "black-busters" have done their work well in laying waste industrial areas of Berlin.

Photographs taken after one raid and disclosed that 20 important war factories had been damaged or destroyed. The destruction was concentrated mostly in areas south and southwest of the center of Berlin's center, a report to the air ministry disclosed.

Destroying enemy ships, freight yards and the transportation network were among objectives damaged.

35 BILLION! U. S. Must Recapture

CHESTER C. DAVIS
... 'spending power a peril.'

The government will have to recapture $35,000,000,000 in surplus spending power if present price and wage controls are to combat inflation effectively, Chester C. Davis, food administrator declared.

A banker as well as an agricultural leader, Mr. Davis recommended higher federal taxes and sharply increased investments in war bonds to relieve the strain of "too much purchasing power" on a declining supply of consumer goods, including food and other living items.

"This is no 10 per cent war," he declared, referring apparently to the treasury's campaign to get 10 per cent of salaries invested in war bonds.

KEYNES' PLAN:

To Sidetrack Gold

Following closely on the heels of the United States treasury's proposal for a $5,000,000,000 postwar international stabilization plan came Lord Keynes' proposal for a world credit institution "designed to expand world trade and serve as a genuine organ of truly international government."

Unlike the American plan, the British fiscal expert's program would subordinate gold as the post-war international medium of exchange. The announcement of Keynes' proposal made in a British white paper said "the purpose of the clearing union is to supplant gold as a governing factor, but not dispense with it."

Financial observers viewed the Keynes' plan as a trial balloon. Their idea was that a compromise between the American and British viewpoints would be ultimately arrived at.

Under the Keynes' plan the clearing union would have executive offices in New York and London. It would operate as a bank of nations, with creditor nations allowing their balances to accumulate as deposits, while the union would lend these deposits for short periods to debtor nations, just as a commercial bank operates.

FRANCE:

U. S.-Britain Agree

When British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced he had invited Secretary of State Cordell Hull to visit London and said he was satisfied there is "complete agreement" between Britain and the United States on the "future policy toward France," he took a long step toward settling the troublesome North African political situation.

Seemingly on the point of settlement, the problem had been intensified once more when the Fighting French took umbrage at Allied Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's request that Gen. Charles De Gaulle delay his projected visit to Algiers for conferences with Gen. Henri Giraud.

Military men had viewed the Eisenhower request as a perfectly logical action. With the battle for Tunisia at its height, the time was not right for political discussion, since the entire time of the French, British and American leaders in North Africa was occupied in winning the campaign.

BLACK MARKETS:

Meat Supply Scarcer

Black markets were blamed by the department of agriculture for the reduced marketing of livestock for slaughter in recent weeks.

In recent weeks, a department report noted, government buying agencies and civilian consumers dependent on federally inspected plants have experienced difficulty in obtaining meat. While the report did not disclose how great a reduction in inspected meat supplies stemmed from the black market operations, it described it as "fairly large."

Meanwhile seven meat packing firms operating in the East and Midwest were indicted by a federal grand jury in Newark, N. J., on charges of conspiracy to violate meat price regulations and meat quota restrictions.

EUROPE:

Alex on Alert

The defense of Europe against the threatening Allied invasion was being constantly sharpened by the attention of Axis leaders, reports from the continent indicated. The Germans were busy in strengthening anti-aircraft defenses in Belgium and Holland. Intelligence reports concerning Allied movements and the threat of invasion had been received at the German command in the defense of Europe.

United Nations' Conferences First Real Test of Solidarity

Russia Seen as Vital Factor in World Organization or Disorganization; Mutual Understanding Essential to Worth-While Peace.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

This month will witness the first test of how united the United Nations are. The first of the conferences of representatives of the countries allied against the Axis are to meet and discuss food. On the success of that gathering, much will depend.

It may be just as well that the governments linked together under the very general and very idealistic statement of principles, the Atlantic Charter, are going to begin with a very material, a very down-to-earth and likewise a very vital question—food.

It would be too much to expect to begin at once to discuss the abstract subjects which are bound to arise when the larger implications of the philosophy of government are considered. People have to eat to live.

It seems reasonable to believe that the food question can be handled. Of course, it can easily be disposed of if the United States simply agrees to continue a lend-lease operation indefinitely with no demand for remuneration except vague promises. That, of course, is what the cynical say will happen.

And that brings me to the crux of the whole question of America's role in world affairs. If we go on the assumption as the isolationists do, that heads you win, tails we lose, and that America is going to be played for a sucker, we might as well throw up the whole idea of international co-operation now and put our heads back into the sand until the next Pearl Harbor.

On the other hand, the sincere proponents of international co-operation believe that America is smart enough and strong enough and wise enough and unselfish enough to help build the machinery which will at least make the world's wheels go around a little better than they have so far. We created a United States out of country with every geographical and political factor that exists anywhere. We welded into one a conglomerate people representing every race on the face of the globe.

Difficulties Ahead

However, it is only fair to look at some of the difficulties ahead.

Russia, if not an obstacle, is at least a problem for several reasons. With an Allied victory, Russia, both because of her contribution to the victory and because of her size, position and strength, is a vital factor in any world organization—or disorganization. She is not actually a member of the United Nations but rather an associated power as the United States was in the last war. She has not made a clear statement of her war or peace aims.

She is, at present, occupying territory of what was once free and independent nations; a part of Finland, all of the Baltic states, a part of Poland.

Recently, Gardner Cowles, presumably speaking as a member of the Office of War Information, said: "If Americans don't make an effort to understand Russia and the Russian place in the scheme of things to follow this war, I fail to see how we can possibly hope to build a worth-while peace."

That, of course, is true. However, that is only half of the story. It is mutual understanding that is necessary. Mr. Cowles might have said: "If the Russian government does not encourage the people to understand America, we can't build a worth-while peace."

It is a two-handed jug. We do misunderstand much about Russia. We are misinformed on some points. The Russian government has failed to inform us on others. For instance, few people in this country know and many are probably unwilling to believe what Cowles, who ought to know what he is talking about, says about private property under the Soviets.

About Property

"Workers may acquire any amount of consumer goods," he tells us, "any amount of furniture, an auto, etc., for their own use. The distinction from our economy is that in Russia, an individual may not own income-producing property."

French farmers have been ordered to plant grain on the same number of acres they had under cultivation in 1932 and to put a ton.

A plan is being discussed in Latin America to make President Roosevelt "an honorary citizen of the Americas" in recognition of his contribution to the defense of America and humanity.

Well, what of it. California never threatened to secede because of New England's blue laws or New York state because of the way they turn out divorcees in Nevada.

The important thing is, what are Russia's intentions concerning other nations? On my desk, there is beginning to accumulate the literature of the various little nations—Poland, Latvia, Finland, who are already starting to plead for the restoration of lost territory or sovereignty.

Anti-Communist feeling is strong in America. You will hear tales of how Stalin expects to make a deal with Germany, how he expects to turn France communist the moment the country is freed from Germany. You will also hear the assurances of people like Mr. Cowles who say: "Stalin no longer feels that the survival and development of the Soviets depend on world revolution." That Russia wants to be allowed to go her own way, to work out her own salvation and once she has assurance that a combination of other nations will not arise against her, she will be only too content to live and let live.

I was talking with a seasoned and pretty cynical observer who has seen the seamy side of foreign relations at close range for many years. He is suspicious of Russia, equally suspicious of Britain. But even he said to me:

"Before we talk too much about the obstacles in the way of an international understanding, let's find out what the British and Russian and other statesmen really want."

The Goal

That is all the gentlemen in the senate are asking, who are working so ardently to obtain the passage of the Ball resolution which would put the United States government on record as favoring the creation of an international organization to keep the peace, of assuring United States' co-operation in policing the world against any aggressor.

There were few people who, when this United Nation was born, believed that it could live. It did. Norman Angell, in that exceedingly cogent book of his, "Let the People Know," concludes one chapter with these words:

"In the old days, we felt impelled to burn a man alive if he did not attend our church. Never, men were sure, could those of the true faith live at peace with heretics. But they found that men of different faiths could live together; that they could keep their differences, yet be loyal to each other in the achievement of their common purposes. Religion is not less than nationalism. What is possible in the one field is possible in the other."

Whether we agree with Mr. Angell or not, there seems to be no sensible reason why we shouldn't try to find out if he is right. Peace is worth the effort.

Broadcaster's Diary

The other day, I received a letter that shows that commentators are of some practical use in the world after all. It was from a lady from Long Beach, Calif., who wrote:

"I wanted to phone for a plumber one day last week. Each time I tried to use the phone, two women were talking (about nothing) on the '3-party' line. I tried every five minutes for nearly half an hour, never saying anything, only picking up the phone and having to hang up again."

"One of the times, I heard one of them say 'some woman wants the line but I pay for it just as much as she does.' You, Mr. Baukhage, were just about to finish your regular broadcast," my writer goes on, "and some imp of mischief from my youth returned to my 35-year-old heart as I suddenly connected that remark with the closing words of your program. You had about two minutes yet to go, so I hurriedly plugged my portable garden radio into the electric socket which is near the phone table and just at the right moment I heard the receiver of the phone. Yes... they were still talking... so—just as you said, 'That's all, and thanks very much, I put the phone mouthpiece right next to the radio and then, I listened on the phone and, indeed, I heard one woman say in an actually meek voice, 'I guess you have talked pretty long. See you later. Good-bye.'"

"After I stopped laughing, I called the plumber but you helped me, so I do think you deserve to be thanked. Also for a real laugh."

TO YOUR Good Health by DR. JAMES W. BARTON Released by Western Newspaper Union DEMENTIA PRECOX

The difference between the patient who has dementia precox (schizophrenia) and a normal individual is that the normal individual is a part of everyday life in school, the home and the outside world affairs. The dementia precox individual on the other hand,
whether he is naturally breezy or quiet, lives within himself and is satisfied with and believes that his way of life is the right way.

Dr. Barton
The quiet or sensitive type is serious, shy, easily embarrassed and without a sense of humor. In school or college he never takes part in "rough games." He may take refuge in books instead of the companionship of others. Dementia precox seems to run in some families.

Early symptoms are changes in the emotions and behavior, the patient gradually losing interest in the things that formerly interested him.
Then may follow a loss of interest in family and friends, after which silly talk or laughter may occur.
There is lack of concentration and the patient jumps from one subject to another without a stop.

In one case there will be delusions, in another hallucinations of hearing and of sight may be present.

In the treatment of dementia pre-cox, patients not helped by the usual methods were often helped by treatment with insulin shock. Then followed treatment by metrazol shock, and, just a little later, electric shock.

As some physicians have been losing interest in the insulin shock method, it might be well to study the results of insulin shock in 45 cases reported in Argentine Review of Neurology and Psychiatry, by Dr.
A. P. Quaranta. There were 16 cases in which the symptoms had been present for six months or less, one year or less in 12 cases, and more than a year and a half in 17 cases.

Of the entire number of cases in the three groups, 17 were cured. Of the first group (had disease less than six months), 10 of 17 were cured, three out of 12 in second group (had disease less than a year) and four of 17 of the third group (had disease more than a year and a half).

The lessons we learn from the above are, (a) insulin shock cures many cases of dementia precox, (b)
the earlier the insulin shock treatment is given after the symptoms appear, the better are the chances of a cure.

Food Essentials For Growing Child

Some of the older men and women must look with astonishment at the increasing variety of medical specialists. In their youth a physician took care of the needs of his patients, even doing much of his own surgery unless it was surgery of the brain, the thyroid gland, or some other special organ. There were neurologists—nervous specialists (behavior specialists). Later came baby specialists—pediatricians, gland specialists—endocrinologists, then allergists (finding special substances causing hay fever, asthma, stomach upsets) and lately geriatricians who treat the special ailments of elderly people.

Physicians have been apt to think little about children 5 to 15 years of age for statistics show that there is less sickness at this age than at any other period of years of life. However, physicians are finding that many boys and girls of this age, despite the fact that they are taller than their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents, are not as ruper as they should be despite the increase in height.

What Dr. Philip C. Jones, Iowa
City, in the Journal of the American Medical Association states, "We have done reasonably well in nutrition for our babies but not so well for children past infancy. We have not learned ourselves, nor taught parents, the proper nutrition to prevent dental decay."

That these facts concerning the dental decay in children is sufficient evidence may account for instance in the strength of body and being in proportion to the increase in height, these facts themselves are not sufficient in the previous—most, eggs and fat, and are common to most.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

Chicken and Rice—Fine Favorite for Easter (See Recipes Below)

Easter Essentials

How differently you will plan your Easter dinner this year! You may have to forget many of the traditional foods and use only what your ration points will allow you—or what you can obtain at the grocer's.

Many of you in former times had baked ham or leg of lamb, but perhaps this year it may be chicken, or whatever ration points will allow. So, get out your ration points and put on your thinking caps, ladies, and see what we can have to make this dinner a success.

Markets throughout the country will have different meats available for your selection. A lot will depend upon how well you have saved your points to splurge on this occasion.

If you plan chicken, stretch it with rice as we do in this recipe:

*Fricassee of Chicken. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 4-pound chicken
- 1/4 cup flour
- 3 tablespoons chicken fat
- 2 teaspoons salt
- Paprika
- 3 1/2 cups boiling water
- Freshly boiled rice

Clean chicken and cut into serving portions. Dredge with flour and brown in fat. Add seasonings and boiling water to half cover. Simmer, closely covered, until tender, about 1 1/2 to 3 hours. If desired, place in oven to brown slightly after tender, and serve with boiled rice.

Some of you will perhaps be fortunate enough to obtain lamb. If you cannot obtain a leg of lamb, a shoulder cut will be nice to serve with this barbecue sauce:

Lamb Shoulder, Barbecued.

- 4 pounds shoulder of lamb
- 1 medium onion
- 1/4 cup chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Dash of cayenne
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 cup water

Mix onion, chili sauce, seasonings with vinegar and water. Pour over lamb which has been wiped with a damp cloth and place in pan with tightly fitting cover. Cover. Bake at 350 degrees for 3 1/2 hours.

*Orange and Greens Salad. (Serves 8)

- 4 cups coarsely shredded greens (lettuce, endive, watercress)
- 1/4 cup sliced, stuffed green olives
- 1/4 cup diced orange sections
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup salad oil
- 4 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon celery seed
- 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine salad greens with oranges, olives, green pepper. Mix salad oil, lemon juice and seasonings. Just before serving toss lightly together, mixing well together.

Lynn Says:

How to Save Ration Points: If your old recipes call for tomato juice, tomato soup and other canned tomatoes, substitute tomato gravy. In most cases, it will work quite well.

Substitute fresh fruits for canned and dried fruits in desserts and keep heavily of citrus fruits. Freeze these sections or ground. Use seasonal fruits generously, as appetizers and side-dishes.

Save and reuse water from boiled vegetables, and have it used instead of plain water. Use in soups, gravies and glazes.

When cooking soups and stews, use less water and less salt. Use less oil and less butter.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

- Fresh Grapefruit Juice
- *Fricassee of Chicken With Rice
- Cauliflower, Fresh Broccoli
- Platter Garnished With Lemon Wedges
- *Orange and Greens Salad
- *Cornbread
- *Rhubarb Upside-Down Cake
- *Recipes Given

- *Corn Bread.
- 2 cups yellow corn meal
- 2 cups sweet milk
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 3 tablespoons bacon drippings or shortening
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg

Mix dry ingredients together. Beat egg, add milk and bacon drippings to it, then blend into dry ingredients. Pour into a well-greased shallow pan which has been heated.
Bake in a 425 degree oven for 30 minutes.

An upside-down cake would make a lovely closing to an Easter dinner.
What to make it with? There are several items,
first of which is rhubarb — fresh and strawberry-colored. You could use apples, if you like, or fruit cocktail which does not take as many points as other canned fruits.

*Rhubarb Upside-Down Cake. (Serves 8)

- 4 cups cut rhubarb
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/4 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/4 cup milk

Cook rhubarb over low heat until juice begins to run. Add sugar and mix well. Simmer about 10 minutes and pour into a greased cake pan.
Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream shortening and add sugar, and beat until fluffy. Add sugar yolks and flavorings and beat thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into mixture.
Pour over rhubarb and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 50 minutes. Loosen cake from sides of pan and turn onto platter.

If you desire a simpler dessert, try these:

Lemon Sponge Cups. (Serves 6)

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 4 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 5 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 1/2 cups milk

Cream butter, add sugar, flour, salt, lemon juice and rind. Add well-beaten egg yolks which have been mixed with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased custard cups. Set in a pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool and unmold.

Table Decorations

If your food is simpler this year, don't feel that your table need lack festivity suitable for the Easter occasion. In many of your gardens daffodils or jonquills and tulips will be out—ready and waiting to do their utmost for your Easter dinner.

An effective centerpiece can be made from as few as a half dozen daffodils with their own green foliage in a shallow bowl. Have table accessories harmonize with the color scheme by using a pale yellow or white cloth with napkins.

If your table—or your garden space be tulips, try deep red tulips with white magnolias.

GRASSROOTS by WRIGHT A. PATTERSON Released by Western Newspaper Union

POST WAR PLANNING AND SELFISHNESS

EARLY IN 1918 the Allied armies in Europe were being hard pressed.
It was about that time when President Wilson enunciated his 14 points, which proffered an idealistic peace to the German people. At that time political leaders were willing to subscribe to the American President's idealism.

In the latter part of October, 1918,
I talked to Clemenceau in Paris. The end of the war was at hand. The Germans were beaten. I asked the French premier about President Wilson's 14 points.

"Meaningless phrases," he replied. "France will dictate the peace terms and they will not be mild."

It is the old adage:
"The Devil was sick—the Devil a monk would be."
The Devil was well—the Devil a monk was he."

The Second World war is still on.
We have not yet won it. Today we talk of the future in idealistic terms, but as the Allied armies advance, as victory draws nearer, we find springing up the same old element of selfishness, the desire for gain for ourselves, regardless of what others may lose. That is human, and that human trait will again sit in at the peace table. It can be prevented only by a definite agreement between the Allied nations, prepared and subscribed to while the outcome of the war is still in some doubt.

The end of the war will not bring to the world the millennium under any conditions. It could bring some advance in international relations.
It could bring agreement between the victors, rather than a new row over a division of the spoils. But if these things are to come, that agreement must be made while the war is still on. The war will not eradicate the sin of selfishness.

HOW LIVING STANDARD HAS ADVANCED

FOR SHAVING PURPOSES, our grandfathers had a cup with a ten-cent cake of soap and a brush to provide the needed lather. The cake of soap was good for six or more months. Our fathers had a 25-cent
"stick" of shaving soap and a brush.
The cup was outmoded. This generation gets its shaving lather in a tube and uses about one tube a month. It is a little thing, but in a small way, it illustrates the American advance in our standard of living. Today we think of what would have been a luxury of a generation or two ago as a living necessity. As Americans, we propose to continue that advance in our standards of living, to make the luxuries of today the necessities of tomorrow.

INDUSTRY PLANNING AND WORLD PEACE

The world can "win the peace" with world industrial post-war planning. It is not for government to plan how to operate industry in the post-war world, but it is needful that government make possible the planning on the part of industry.

When the last gun has been fired—and may it be soon—there will no longer be a demand for ships and planes and tanks and guns. The need for them will have passed. Instead, there will be a demand for food, homes, cars—for all the essentials of living.

First, industry must have the wherewithal to transform its plants to peace-time needs. Government has not, and is not, making that possible. It has made possible and, in fact, has forced the payment of extremely high wages to those employed in war production but it has left nothing in the hands of industry with which to provide jobs and goods for a post-war world.

Government has established a wage scale which necessitates high prices for commodities the farmer must buy, a wage scale which industry cannot continue after the war without continuing those high prices.
At the same time, government put a ceiling on what the farmer could charge for his product and it will undoubtedly continue that ceiling during the years when we must feed the world. It all adds up to an impossible condition and is but leading to a deflation period similar to the one that followed World War I.

A YOUNG NEWSPAPER FRIEND

gave me a new phrase. Instead of referring to organized labor as being responsible for retarding the war effort, he said it was the "organized leaders of labor" who were responsible and upon whose heads should be placed the blame. "And," said he, "in the end they will pay when our boys come home."

Trinkets for Africans

Every sixth soldier among the American troops that went to Africa carried a bag of trinkets for distribution to the natives as gifts or payments for small favors, reports Collier's. The idea behind these bags, which contained cigarettes, candies, beads, scissors, perfumes, sugar, tea and coffee, was to show that our men were not looters but generous friends.

by DR. JAMES W. BARTON

The difference between the patient who has dementia precox (schizophrenia) and a normal individual is that the normal individual is a part of everyday life in school, the home and the outside world affairs. The dementia precox individual on the other hand, whether he is naturally breezy or quiet, lives within himself and is satisfied with his way of life is the right way.

Dr. Barton The quiet or sensitive type is serious, shy, easily embarrassed and without a sense of humor. In school or college he never takes part in "rough games." He may take refuge in books instead of the companionship of others. Dementia precox seems to run in some families.

Early symptoms are changes in the emotions and behavior, the patient gradually losing interest in the things that formerly interested him. Then may follow a loss of interest in family and friends, after which silly talk or laughter may occur. There is lack of concentration and the patient jumps from one subject to another without a stop.

In one case there will be delusions, in another hallucinations of hearing and of sight may be present.

In the treatment of dementia precox, patients not helped by the usual methods were often helped by treatment with insulin shock. Then followed treatment by metrazol shock, and, just a little later, electric shock.

As some physicians have been losing interest in the insulin shock method, it might be well to study the results of insulin shock in 45 cases of dementia precox of various forms reported in Argentine Review of Neurology and Psychiatry, by Dr. A. P. Quaranta. There were 16 cases in which the symptoms had been present for six months or less, one year or less in 12 cases, and more than a year and a half in 17 cases.

Of the entire number of cases in the three groups, 17 were cured. Of the first group (had disease less than six months), 10 of 17 were cured, three out of 12 in second group (had disease less than a year) and four of 17 of the third group (had disease more than a year and a half).

The lessons we learn from the above are, (a) insulin shock cures many cases of dementia precox, (b) the earlier the insulin shock treatment is given after the symptoms appear, the better are the chances of a cure.

Food Essentials For Growing Child

Some of the older men and women must look with astonishment at the increasing variety of medical specialists. In their youth a physician took care of the needs of his patients, even doing much of his own surgery unless it was surgery of the brain, the thyroid gland, or some other special organ. There were neurologists—nervous specialists—in those days but no psychiatrists (behavior specialists). Later came baby specialists—pediatricians, gland specialists—endocrinologists, then allergists (finding special substance causing hay fever, asthma, stomach upsets) and lately geriatricians who treat the special ailments of elderly people.

Physicians have been apt to think little about children 5 to 15 years of age for statistics show that there is less sickness at this age than at any other period of years of life. However, physicians are finding that many boys and girls of this age, despite the fact that they are taller than their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents, are not as rugged as they should be despite the increase in height.

What Dr. Philip C. Jones, Iowa City, in the Journal of the American Medical Association states, "We have done reasonably well in nutrition for our babies but not so well for children past infancy. We have not learned ourselves, our freight parents, the proper nutrition to present during infancy."

That these facts concerning are not being given to children in sufficient quantities may account for increase in the strength of body and being in proportion to the increase in height. These facts concerning are not being given to the parents—mothers, fathers and all, and all children on them.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

Chicken and Rice—Fine Favorite for Easter (See Recipes Below)

Easter Essentials

How differently you will plan your Easter dinner this year! You may have to forget many of the traditional foods and use only what your ration points will allow you—or what you can obtain at the grocer's.

Many of you in former times had baked ham or leg of lamb, but perhaps this year it may be chicken, or whatever ration points will allow. So, get out your ration points and put on your thinking caps, ladies, and see what we can have to make this dinner a success.

Markets throughout the country will have different meats available for your selection. A lot will depend upon how well you have saved your points to splurge on this occasion.

If you plan chicken, stretch it with rice as we do in this recipe:

*Fricassee of Chicken. (Serves 6 to 8)

4-pound chicken
1/4 cup flour
3 tablespoons chicken fat
2 teaspoons salt
Paprika
3 1/2 cups boiling water
Freshly boiled rice

Clean chicken and cut into serving portions. Dredge with flour and brown in fat. Add seasonings and boiling water to half cover. Simmer, closely covered, until tender, about 1 1/2 to 3 hours. If desired, place in oven to brown slightly after tender, and serve with boiled rice.

Some of you will perhaps be fortunate enough to obtain lamb. If you cannot obtain a leg of lamb, a shoulder cut will be nice to serve with this barbecue sauce:

Lamb Shoulder, Barbecued.
4 pounds shoulder of lamb
1 medium onion
1/4 cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Dash of cayenne
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup water

Mix onion, chili sauce, seasonings with vinegar and water. Pour over lamb which has been wiped with a damp cloth and place in pan with tightly fitting cover. Cover. Bake at 350 degrees for 3 1/2 hours.

*Orange and Greens Salad. (Serves 8)

4 cups coarsely shredded greens (lettuce, endive, watercress)
1/4 cup sliced, stuffed green olives
1/4 cup diced orange sections
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup salad oil
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Combine salad greens with oranges, olives, green pepper. Mix salad oil, lemon juice and seasonings. Just before serving toss lightly together, mixing well together.

Lynn Says:

How to Save Ration Points: If your old recipes call for tomato juice, tomato soup and other rationed tomatoes, substitute tomato gravy. In most cases, it will work quite well.

Substitute fresh fruits for canned and dried fruits in desserts and keep heavily of citrus fruits. Freeze these sectioned or sliced. Use seasonal fruits generously, as appetizers and side-dishes.

Save and reuse water from washed vegetables, and have it well strained after strained. Use in soups, gravies and stews.

When cooking soups and stews for meat, use less meat for meat soups, and more for meat stews.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

Fresh Grapefruit Juice
*Fricassee of Chicken With Rice
Cauliflower, Fresh Broccoli
Platter Garnished With Lemon Wedges
*Orange and Greens Salad
*Cornbread
*Rhubarb Upside-Down Cake
*Recipes Given

*Corn Bread.
2 cups yellow corn meal
2 cups sweet milk
4 teaspoons baking powder
3 tablespoons bacon drippings or shortening

1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg
Mix dry ingredients together. Beat egg, add milk and bacon drippings to it, then blend into dry ingredients. Pour into a well-greased shallow pan which has been heated. Bake in a 425 degree oven for 30 minutes.

An upside-down cake would make a lovely closing to an Easter dinner. What to make it with? There are several items, first of which is rhubarb—fresh and strawberry-colored. You could use apples, if you like, or fruit cocktail which does not take as many points as other canned fruits.

*Rhubarb Upside-Down Cake. (Serves 8)

4 cups cut rhubarb
1 cup sugar
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup milk

Cook rhubarb over low heat until juice begins to run. Add sugar and mix well. Simmer about 10 minutes and pour into a greased cake pan. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream shortening and add sugar, and beat until fluffy. Add egg yolks and flavorings and beat thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into mixture. Pour over rhubarb and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 50 minutes. Loosen cake from sides of pan and turn onto platter.

If you desire a simpler dessert, try these:

Lemon Sponge Cups. (Serves 6)

2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup sugar
4 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
3 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk
Cream butter, add sugar, flour, salt, lemon juice and rind. Add well-beaten egg yolks which have been mixed with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased custard cups. Set in a pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool and unmold.

Table Decorations

If your food is simpler this year, don't feel that your table need lack festivity suitable for the Easter occasion. In many of your gardens daffodils or jonquills and tulips will be out—ready and waiting to do their utmost for your Easter dinner.

An effective centerpiece can be made from as few as a half dozen daffodils with their own green foliage in a shallow bowl. Have table accessories harmonize with this color scheme by using a pale yellow or white cloth with napkins.

If your table—or your garden space be tulips, try deep red tulips with white napkins.

POST WAR PLANNING AND SELFISHNESS

EARLY IN 1918 the Allied armies in Europe were being hard pressed. It was about that time when President Wilson enunciated his 14 points, which proffered an idealistic peace to the German people. At that time political leaders were willing to subscribe to the American President's idealism.

In the latter part of October, 1918, I talked to Clemenceau in Paris. The end of the war was at hand. The Germans were beaten. I asked the French premier about President Wilson's 14 points.

"Meaningless phrases," he replied. "France will dictate the peace terms and they will not be mild."

It is the old adage: "The Devil was sick—the Devil a monk would be."

The Devil was well—the Devil a monk was he."

The Second World war is still on. We have not yet won it. Today we talk of the future in idealistic terms, but as the Allied armies advance, as victory draws nearer, we find springing up the same old element of selfishness, the desire for gain for ourselves, regardless of what others may lose. That is human, and that human trait will again sit in at the peace table. It can be prevented only by a definite agreement between the Allied nations, prepared and subscribed to while the outcome of the war is still in some doubt.

The end of the war will not bring to the world the millennium under any conditions. It could bring some advance in international relations. It could bring agreement between the victors, rather than a new row over a division of the spoils. But if these things are to come, that agreement must be made while the war is still on. The war will not eradicate the sin of selfishness.

HOW LIVING STANDARD HAS ADVANCED

FOR SHAVING PURPOSES, our grandfathers had a cup with a tencent cake of soap and a brush to provide the needed lather. The cake of soap was good for six or more months. Our fathers had a 25-cent "stick" of shaving soap and a brush. The cup was outmoded. This generation gets its shaving lather in a tube and uses about one tube a month. It is a little thing, but in a small way, it illustrates the American advance in our standard of living. Today we think of what would have been a luxury of a generation or two ago as a living necessity. As Americans, we propose to continue that advance in our standards of living, to make the luxuries of today the necessities of tomorrow.

INDUSTRY PLANNING AND WORLD PEACE

The world can "win the peace" with world industrial post-war planning. It is not for government to plan how to operate industry in the post-war world, but it is useful that government make possible the planning on the part of industry.

When the last gun has been fired—and may it be soon—there will no longer be a demand for ships and planes and tanks and guns. The need for them will have passed. Instead, there will be a demand for food, homes, cars—for all the essentials of living.

First, industry must have the wherewithal to transform its plants to peace-time needs. Government has not, and is not, making that possible. It has made possible and, in fact, has forced the payment of extremely high wages to those employed in war production but it has left nothing in the hands of industry with which to provide jobs and goods for a post-war world.

Government has established a wage scale which necessitates high prices for commodities the farmer must buy, a wage scale which industry cannot continue after the war without continuing those high prices. At the same time, government put a ceiling on what the farmer could charge for his product and it will undoubtedly continue that ceiling during the years when we must feed the world. It all adds up to an impossible condition and is but leading to a deflation period similar to the one that followed World War I.

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

Winner Take All!

There is one stark and simple fact about war which you had better get straight . . . and quickly, too
THERE IS NO SECOND PLACE IN A WAR — IT'S EITHER WIN OR LOSE!

This war is being fought for tremendous stakes . . .

- ... for your life and your liberty.
- ... for your church and your children.
- ... for your freedom and your future.

And it's WINNER TAKE ALL. Don't forget that for a minute.

The winner will dictate whether tomorrow you shall be a free citizen of a free world, or a helpless serf to a "master race."

The winner will dictate whether you shall live and prosper under the Four Freedoms, or toil hopelessly in the darkness of a "New Order."

The winner will dictate . . . because the winner takes all.

The winner takes all. All you own, all you hold dear.

The winner is being decided right now . . . today . . . this very minute . . . on battlefields all over the world. Will you stand idly by . . . or throw all your weight on our side?

The weight of mighty tanks and planes. The weight of thousands of guns and millions of shells. The weight of billions of dollars . . . 13 billions which your country asks you to lend during this Drive.

Your country wants to borrow every idle dollar you have — every dollar except what you need for the necessities of life.

You'll have to give up some luxury or comfort which was dear to your heart. You'll have to postpone some pleasure which you had been eagerly anticipating.

But what of it?

Your sons and brothers and husbands are dying out there . . . fighting your fight. Surely it is no sacrifice to lend your dollars while they are giving their lives.

They need your help. They need the weapons your money can buy. If one of the War Loan volunteers calls on you . . . greet him with open pocketbook. Remember, Uncle Sam's goal is 13 billion dollars in April.

Don't wait to be asked. Go to your nearest bank, investment dealer, broker, Post Office or issuing agency and lay your money on the line. Remember it's an investment you're making — an investment that pays a good return and insures a happier future for you and your loved ones.

So lend up to the limit.

You'll sleep better for it.

There are 7 different tunes of it . . . the one . . .

United States War Savings bonds — Series E: The perfect investment for individual and family savings. Gives you back $4 for every $1 when the bond matures. Designed especially for the smaller investor. Dated 1st day of month in which payment is received. Interest: 2.9% a year if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000. Redemption: any time 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969: Readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral, these Bonds are ideal investments for trust funds, estates and individuals. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated April 15, 1943; due June 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Redemption: Not callable till June 15, 1964; thereafter at par and accrued interest on any interest date at 4 months' notice. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other Securities: Series "C" Tax Notes; ½% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1950-1952; United States Savings Bonds Series "F"; United States Savings Bonds Series "G."

A letter to Mr. and Mrs. Harper made them acquainted with many local people. Mrs. Smith from relatives in Cumberland, Md., contains some interesting information concerning Virginia. Mrs. Neel, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Neel, Mrs. Neel is a sister of Mrs. Smith, and the Rev. Mr. Neel is former pastor of the local Methodist church. Their daughter received an appointment under the American Council of Learned Societies, and at the request of the Brazilian government, to teach English in Brazil. The letter states in part: "I went from Miami to Panama, and on Wednesday, March 24, she wrote from Cali, Colombia, saying, 'I have flown from Panama today and have your breath—having been a passenger on Vice President Wallace's special plane.' She went on to tell us her plans. In Lima she was invited to join a party of four others, two young men traveling for the Geographical Magazine, and two girls, one going to Santiago. She expected to land in Rio Paulo by the last of March." Miss Neel's communication from Brazil, prior to her departure, informed her that there were 700 business men, lawyers, doctors, etc., wanting to do this bit in the interest of the "Good Neighbor Policy" grew out of some English teaching which she had done gratis for the Agricultural College in Pireleaba, where she was formerly a missionary.

Rev. and Mrs. O. G. Olsen recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. An exchange paper carries the story of the celebration of their 53rd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Harper of near Elkins. They are the parents of Dr. W. G. Harper of Elkins. Mrs. Harper, who was a daughter of Allen and Jemima Taylor, and Mr. Harper, a son of Randolph and Ida E. Harper, ran away to Oakland, Md., for their wedding. The local angle is that Mrs. W. C. Harper is a relative of Mrs. E. L. Fenton of Marlinton; and at one time in his youth, Aubrey Ferguson, editor of the Journal, stayed with and worked for the Harper family. One other child of the Harpers, Mrs. Luther Hicks, also resides in Elkins.

Helping Mrs. Wilbur Sharp to celebrate a birthday last week were Miss Edith May, Mrs. John Bear, Dr. Harry C. Selter, and the Sharp family, Wilbur M. Sharp and Louise and Robert Sharp. On the birthday list for this week that we know about are: Friday—Dorothy Cooper; Saturday—Mrs. Anna Thomas, Maxine Dever, Mrs. Sumner Sharp, Anna Richardson, Doris and Dorothy Weatherholt and Jimmie Younger, the latter being one year old, on Easter Sunday, the pride and joy of the Kerth Nottingham household, little Beverly, Mrs. Aubrey Ferguson and Wilbur Sharp.

Other recent birthdays have been those of Reed Davis, who celebrated with a special dinner; and Mrs. Mary Moore, mother of Mrs. Mabel Hudson and Mrs. Lora Hill, who was 88 years old on April 19. Due to her illness Mrs. Moore was not able to have her usual celebration.

Mrs. Nadine Williams spent the week-end visiting at West Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnest Yeager, accompanied by Ray Boone, principal of Branch high school, and Miss Florence Smith, principal of White Sulphur high school, attended the state educators' meeting last Friday and Saturday in Fairmont.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. LaFollette, Jr., of Charleston, were in Pocahontas county last week relative to the purchase of a farm in this locality. Mrs. LaFollette secured their rental, and Mary Moore, who has been ill for 8 weeks.

A telegram received Monday by E. M. Richardson from Mrs. Dolly deKraft Smith stated that her husband, Cpl. Harry Smith, who has been seriously ill at Gulf Port, Miss., had taken his first nourishment in an extended period, and for the first time had begun to show some improvement.

Ensign Walter Jett has been visiting with his family here before leaving for sea duty.

Mrs. Lora Hill left Wednesday for Washington, D. C., where she planned to meet her daughter, Miss Lora Hill, a student at Richmond, Va., who will accompany her mother to Philadelphia to spend the Easter vacation with Mrs. Hill's other daughters, who reside there.

Mrs. A. P. Edgar is expected home in a few days after spending the winter with her son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Clower of Chesterfield, S. C.

Mrs. Charles Sharp and Mrs. Alvin Moore were in Clifton Forge last Wednesday to consult a physician. They were accompanied by Mrs. Theodore Moore.

Pete Camden, of Marlinton, who was honorably discharged under the new age restrictions of the U. S. Army, returned to his home here last week. He will leave soon for the state of Ohio where he will be employed in a defense plant. Army of-fores told Mr. Camden that he could have limited service status in the Army, but recommended that he find employment in defense work where he would be most needed.

One of the nice persons we met while Presbytery was in session here was L. E. Kramer of Roncoverte, who for 30 years has served on the Home Missions Board. Mr. Kramer is the proud possessor of a beautiful watch which was presented to him 5 years ago for faithful service in this work.

Mrs. Everett East of Durbin, and son, Sgt. Edward East, of Miami, Fla., were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bear on Monday of this week.

Andrew McLaughlin, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin, spent the week-end visiting at the home of Dennis Dever.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheets and son, John, of Baltimore, are visiting at their home in Marlinton.

Bill deKraft, who has been in Officers' Training School, has passed his tests, and is now a Second Lieutenant.

If folks have been wondering what has happened to Pvt. Earl W. Slavin, 32, of Marlinton, we read about him in an article, "With the AEF in Tunisia," where Earl is one of the men who keep the "Jeeps" in repair.

Tersigni-Sharp Marriage Event of February 27

Mr. and Mrs. Dancy Eddie Sharp of Marlinton announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Arizona Sharp, to Mr. Harold Averlio Tersigni, son of Mrs. Guy Gallo, of Greenville, S. W., Canton, O. The marriage took place on Saturday, February 27, 1943, at 3 o'clock, with Mayor Ed Folk of Canton, O.

The bride wore a greyish blue suit with navy accessories and her carriage was made of carnations.

Mrs. Tersigni was an employee of the Home defense plant. Mr. Tersigni is an electrician.

Surgical Dressing Program In Need of Volunteers
Beginning the first Monday in May the Surgical Dressing room will remain closed on Mondays, it is announced by Mrs. R. J. Hamrick, chairman of this work. The room will be open every day in the week except Monday, she stated.

It was also urged again that there is a great need for volunteer workers at the surgical dressing room, due to the tremendous quotas which have been assigned to this chapter. All women who would be willing to engage in this critical volunteer work are asked to report for any number of hours that conditions will permit them to help in this cause.

HUNTINGTON, April 22.—Miss Evelyn Barlow, sister of Mrs. Harry McComb of Marlinton, was recently elected to serve on the College Hall dormitory council at Marshall College. Miss Barlow is a junior in the Teachers college.

Red Cross Serves Doughboys

Sgt. Oran McLaughlin, somewhere in England, writes Mack Brooks, the chairman of the Pocahontas county chapter of the American Red Cross, that he has seen a number of the clubmobiles and that he certainly does enjoy the coffee and doughnuts made the American way. He mentioned that a girl from South Carolina is on one of these clubmobiles.

Salvage Meeting Held

At a regional conference and dinner held April 15 at the Masonic Temple in Lewisburg, plans were discussed for the 1943 Scrap Drive which will be held throughout the nation from about the middle of May to the middle of June. Speakers for the occasion were Herman T. Mitchell, executive secretary for West Virginia, W. H. Skene, associate executive, and John B. Taylor, regional chief of the general Salvage Committee, of Cleveland, O.

Explanation was made as to the conduct of the drive, the materials most needed and other features. Attending from Pocahontas county were Z. B. Smith, Jr., county salvage committee chairman, Mrs. Barbara Bragg, Miss Margaret Irvine, County Agent Ben Morgan, R. W. Lowe, of the Farm Security organization, Eric S. Clutter, county superintendent of schools, Miss Anna Lee Irvine, Mrs. Alma Ferguson and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin.

Plans for the drive in this county have not been concluded, but will be announced in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shrader have returned from Maryland. They were called there by the illness of Mrs. Shrader's father.

WALL RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Ann Lee and Cole Cody, beneficiaries under two identical wills of Old Bill Cole, sought to discover who had died the fatal bullet at Old Bill. Suspicion centered around Rance Waldron, who, posing as Old Bill's nephew, was living at the ranch when Ann and Cole arrived. Doc Joe and the judge, commissioned by Old Bill to carry out his last wishes, were waylaid and shot by Rance Waldron. Believing both men dead, and to divert suspicion, Rance killed his accomplice, Tom Gough. But Doc Joe did not die, and he was at the ranch to lend a hand when Cole Cody decided to look Rance Waldron, who gave up almost at once.

Now conclude the story.

CHAPTER XIX

The gun fell from Waldron's fingers. Little Ann Lee, standing so close to them both now, caught it up, ran for the other, backed off and stood in a corner with both weapons in her hands. The two men stood up.

"All right," Waldron said. "I know when I'm licked." Cole shook his head. He was thinking of the old Judge, of old Early Bill, even of Tom Gough shot like a dog. He said quietly, "No, Waldron, you're not licked yet. Stand up."

Waldron stood up. New rage reddened the pin-points of his eyes, new strength flowed into him and perhaps new courage. He charged like a bull.

Bill Cody struck the one blow then that was like a coup de grace. It took Rance Waldron on the point of the chin; it seemed to lift him inches from the floor. And this time when he fell, whether taunted by words or threatened with further bodily punishment, he was beyond rising.

Ann Lee thought him dead. So did Aunt Jennifer. So, for that matter, did Doc Joe.

In the kitchen, "Oh, Cole Cody! Your poor dear face!" gulped little Ann Lee. "Your poor eye!" and tears began spattering like summer rain.

Bill Cody caught her in his arms; he forgot the unloveliness of his battered face and crookedly leering eye; he drew her tight and tighter and kissed her. And it is of record that Ann Lee returned his kiss exactly the way it was received, a fact to be sworn to if necessary by Cal Roundtree who, just then bursting into the room stood a moment transfixed on the threshold.

Cal virtually brushed Ann Lee aside, grasping Bill Cody by an arm, yanking him close, then whispering into his ear.

"I bet Rance Waldron's here, from the looks of you," was what he said. "And, Cody—"

"No secrets from Ann Lee," said Cody, pulling away. "Sure he's here. And so is old Doc, and both Ann and Aunt Jennifer know that, too."

Doc Joe and Aunt Jennifer, hearing voices, came into the kitchen. "Keep all this dark from Waldron until tomorrow," said Cal Roundtree. "That's all I ask."

"That's fair enough, Cal," nodded old Doc Joe. "Only just what is it that we're to keep dark?"

But at that Cal closed his mouth after the fashion of buttoning it. Then he shook his head. Finally he said:

"Tell you at sun-up. Just keep Rance Waldron alive and handy. 'Night, folks."

Before sun-up all in the house breakfasted, even to a savage, sullen Rance Waldron, save Doc Joe alone who as yet wanted Waldron to know nothing about his presence, about his still being above ground. Yet Waldron, though battered and angry, had a certain malicious grin in his eye. Over the coffee he said with a dash of his old cock-sure arrogance,

"My lawyer's coming out this morning. The sheriff will be with him or close behind. This place is mine, is going to be proved mine, and every darned one of you interlopers is going to clear out, bag and baggage."

Cal Roundtree came up from the bunkhouse. He carried an open envelope in his hand. He cleared his throat, forgot all about saying good morning, and announced a bit of news that came pretty close to knocking several people out of their chairs.

"Ma," said Cal, "I just got a letter last night. It's a letter from a guy by name of Mr. William Cole, known far and wide as Early Bill."

The first to gasp out a word was Rance Waldron, hastily on his feet. "You told Early Bill's dead and buried! Are you crazy?"

"Hope, I ain't crazy. Yep, the old devil's dead and buried; me, I saw him die and I helped bury him. Just the same he wrote me a letter and I just got it last night." He tossed the letter to the table.

"Blast, Cody, you read it," he said. "Read it right out loud!"

Cody caught it up, whipped the letter out of its envelope and stared at it a long minute. He stared from face to face, then back at the letter.

"That's what it says," he said slowly, "and it's in Early Bill's handwriting."

Then Cal, you old scoundrel, me being dead and dog and cat ground, my old bones and all that, I'd just got a letter from him last night, you see.

as you get this, which I'm writing sitting on top a nice big pink-and-white cloud sort of learning to get the hang of a harp; and I want you to shift me over where I told you. Now get a move on, and me, I'm having me my fun yet.

"So long Cal, gracias, amigo." "Wm. Cole, alias Early Bill."

Rance Waldron pretended to laugh. The thing of course was some sort of hoax.

"No, it ain't," said Cal soberly. "This letter just came, like I say, into Bald Eagle by stage last night. It was sent in another envelope from a feller I'd heard old Early Bill talk about a time or two, a feller that used to be friends with him. I reckon Bill sent it round-about way to get here when he wanted it to."

He cleared his throat again and added, "As for him squatting on a cloud twanging a harp, it's a lie, and I'd tell him so; most likely he's shovel-

And next was a picture, a fine likeness of an old, lean, devil-may-care man with a humorous gleam in his eye. And it was inscribed, "To Ann Lee and Cole Cody from an old friend, Early Bill."

And Ann came close to shrieking out, "Why, I knew him! Aunt Jenny, look! Don't you remember that old man who came to our house, and he was broke and sick and sad-looking, and we took him in and—"

And Cole Cody, a queer catch in his voice, was muttering, "So that's Early Bill, huh? The darned old rascal! I played poker with him; he let me skin him out of his eye teeth; he stuck around and let me stake him; he even asked to borrow money from me—I'd have known who he was I'd have chased him off the ranch!"

They read their letters hastily; Ann was crying softly and Cody was making rough noises in his throat. "Open the big envelope," said Cal. "That's Bill's Ace in the Hole."

Again they found a brief note for them both:

"I've had me my fun I reckon. I thought as how, knowing the two of you pups, you might fight a while, then fall in love and get married; I'd like that fine. But maybe things will go some other way, and maybe that darned sneaky varmint name of Rance Waldron might throw a monkey wrench in the machine; I've a hunch he's the bozo hired somebody to shoot me down, him being too foxy and maybe scared. And now here's my third will and, by grays, my last: And you'll find it leaves everything I've got to you two kids, fight or don't fight, marry or don't marry. And honest, kids, I did have a good time—and I'm still having it right now. So long."

And there was the will! "Grab that Waldron hombre," he shouted. "He's going to hang; and me, I'm going to see that he does."

Waldron whirled. His face went as dead white as Ann's had been. He could have had no thought for that first instant save that he was looking on a dead man, one he himself had murdered. Then he was quick to know he had been tricked, and he was quick to snatch out from his belt a gun that no one had seen, that no one dreamed he had, that no one ever knew where he had come by it. He swung it, murder in his eyes, upon Doc Joe.

Very neatly Porfirio, as watchful as a cat, shot Rance Waldron through the back of the head.

ing coal down hell-wards. But never mind; I got Porfirio outside, and Gaucho and a couple shovels, and we start doing what the old fool said do. Come ahead."

Out under the three pines, hushed and wondering and with a touch of awe, at Early Bill's favorite dawn hour men went to work with their shovels. So exclusively were they occupied in what was going forward, none particularly remembered Rance Waldron, who, sneering after his fashion, hands on his hips, stood a few steps withdrawn—none, that is except old Doc Joe who had taken his chance to slip out of the house and follow on, and who now peered from behind the farther of the three pines.

Little Ann Lee, her face very white, her eyes enormous, clutched Aunt Jennifer's arm tight in both hands, and Aunt Jennifer put a comforting arm around her. The soda flew under the strongly wielded shovels; the soil was light and loose; very swiftly the excavation took form, some seven feet long, half as wide, two or three feet deep.

"I'm going to the house," murmured Ann. "I—I can't stand it!" Cal Roundtree, down in the excavation looked up and said sharply, "You stay right where you are!"

"Here it is!" He reached down, scratched in the loose soil with both hands and unearthed a small iron box. He tossed it up to them, to Cody and Ann both, and said, "You'll see this one opens with two keys just like the other. You two better open it! Old Early Bill ain't here at all; me and Gaucho moved him the night after he was planted here."

With trembling fingers they did get it open. There were folded papers within. The top one said briefly, "This is my Ace in the Hole; me, I always figured to hold one in any game like this! Then there was a letter addressed to Ann Lee. There was one for William Cole Cody. There was a lone, sealed envelope, and it was addressed to them together.

And next was a picture, a fine likeness of an old, lean, devil-may-care man with a humorous gleam in his eye. And it was inscribed, "To Ann Lee and Cole Cody from an old friend, Early Bill."

And Ann came close to shrieking out, "Why, I knew him! Aunt Jenny, look! Don't you remember that old man who came to our house, and he was broke and sick and sad-looking, and we took him in and—"

And Cole Cody, a queer catch in his voice, was muttering, "So that's Early Bill, huh? The darned old rascal! I played poker with him; he let me skin him out of his eye teeth; he stuck around and let me stake him; he even asked to borrow money from me—I'd have known who he was I'd have chased him off the ranch!"

They read their letters hastily; Ann was crying softly and Cody was making rough noises in his throat. "Open the big envelope," said Cal. "That's Bill's Ace in the Hole."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

THE RISEN LORD

LESSON TEXT—John 20:1-17. GOLDEN TEXT—He is risen.—Mark 16:8.

"Christ is living! My people shall know it. I shall preach about it again and again until they believe as I do." So exclaimed Dr. Dale of London when the glory of Christ's resurrection laid hold of him as never before. There began that day the custom of singing an Easter hymn in his church every Sunday morning.

Easter has come again, and it ought to make us glad to recall the resurrection power of Christianity in the midst of the world's awful sorrow and death. Easter should mean more to us than ever this year, if we believe in Christ. If we do not, why not rid ourselves of the dark garments of unbelief, and put on the bright and beautiful garment of faith in a living Christ. Let us be clad in His righteousness.

The first Easter Sunday had scarcely dawned when the faithful Mary came to the tomb. Finding the stone rolled away from its entrance she ran to find Peter and John. What they came and saw, and what—or rather who—she remained and saw, make up our interesting lesson.

I. Peter and John Saw the Empty Tomb (vv. 1-10).

Peter, though he had denied his Lord, was not sent away by his brethren. They knew his true heart, and evidently the gentle and loving John had taken him to his home. Mary knew where to find him. What a tender incidental indication of the Christian spirit of the brethren of Peter.

John and Peter ran to the tomb. The unusual news so stirred them that John the younger did not think to await the slower steps of Peter. He came first, but when he did he only looked in. Peter had no hesitation, but went right in. What he found there was most significant.

Here was twofold evidence that the body of our Lord had not been stolen. The burial clothes were there. They had not been carried off by a thief. Nor had they been snatched aside by a deceiver. They lay in order. There off to one side, carefully folded, was the head covering. Jesus was gone, but He had left in all the dignity and majesty of a triumphant Lord.

What they saw caused John to believe. It appears (v. 9) that they had not yet understood the clear teachings of the Old Testament regarding the death and resurrection of Christ. They were slow to believe. Let not any in our day, with its greater light, fail to believe.

Peter and John came and saw—and then "they went away again unto their own home." And so they missed seeing Christ Himself.

II. Mary Met the Risen Christ (vv. 11-17).

The tears of Mary were the genuine expression of a devoted heart, but they were nevertheless mistaken tears. The question of the angel reveals that fact. Why weep because His body was gone, when that was the very thing which should give her joy? Why weep over a dead Christ when He was alive?

How often our discernment is dimmed by tears and our judgment warped by sorrow. We look on the wrong side of our circumstances and see only a tangle of threads and blurred colors. On the other side God is weaving a pattern of beauty and blessing, which will be our joy through all eternity. Why not remember that now?

Blinded with tears and troubled in heart, Mary did not even recognize the Lord when He spoke to her. But our Lord looking into her soul and knowing that it was her very love for Him which made it hard for her to think of anything but His death, gave to this true-hearted woman the privilege of first seeing Him after His resurrection.

As He spoke her name, she knew Him. We recall that Jesus Himself said that He was the Good Shepherd who "callest his own sheep by name" (John 10:3-14).

He knows your name and mine, fellow Christian, and one day we too shall hear His voice even as Mary did on that day. She believed and worshiped. Let us follow her example this Easter day.

There is a danger that the observance of Easter may lose its real significance in the empty incidents which the world would have us believe make the day. It is a holiday. There is thought of new clothes, of formal church attendance, of family gatherings, of flowers and feasting. They are all right in their proper place. But let us be sure that no adult fails to meet the risen Christ today, and let us be sure that the smallest child knows that this is more than the day of bunnies and candy eggs. They will rejoice in the knowledge that a victorious Christ lives to give them eternal life.

Let us really "keep the feast" this year, purging out the leaven of hypocrisy and dead works, and remembering Christ (see I Cor. 5:7).

During an ARP practice in a Scottish town one man was told off as a "cassidy," to lie down till the ambulance came.

When that happened, the driver was surprised to find the "victim" had his gas-mask on.

"What's the big idea?" he demanded. "There's no gas warning."

"I know," was the reply; "but I'm an ally of the kirk, and if anybody sees me lying on the pavement outside a pub on Saturday afternoon, I'll never hear the end of it!"

AN EASTER MESSAGE

rising sun had dispelled all the shades of night, we see some women slowly making their way toward the tomb of Joseph, where Jesus had rested, closes with these ringing words, "Let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom ye crucified." Every sermon that is recorded in Acts is based on this great fact: HE IS RISEN!

2. The Resurrection became the Heart of Christianity.

Without the Resurrection we would have no living Christ, without a living Christ we have no Christianity. Paul in I Corinthians 15, gives a very fine treatment of this fact. As Paul presents the Resurrection, he says in effect: Some of you say there is no Resurrection, if that be true then Christ hath not been raised. Then he draws this dark picture: "If Christ hath not been raised THEN is our preaching vain." All the suffering that has been endured in preaching the Gospel has been useless. Yes, we're even false witnesses of God, we've been preaching lies, if the dead are not raised. He goes on to say, "Your faith is also vain" if Christ is still in the tomb. Our faith is built on false hopes, fables, untruths. All the blessed promises we enjoy in Christ are mere air castles if Christ be not risen.

Paul makes the picture darker when he says, "If Christ be not raised . . . ye are yet in your sins." Many is like a criminal condemned to die, and dreams that he has been granted a pardon only to awaken and find that it is all a dream. Our sins haven't been forgiven, we have just been deceived. Paul adds, "Then they also that are fallen asleep in Christ have perished." Those that had died for the cross of Christ had died in vain. The tragic thought is, as we stand by the side of our departed loved ones, that if Christ be not raised then we have no hope of seeing them again.

Then Paul with a trumpet voice says, NO, these things are not true, FOR CHRIST IS RISEN! "and become the first fruits of them that slept." Our preaching is not in vain, our faith is not vain, we are not in our sins and those who have died in Christ are not perished! Because Christ Lives Today!

3. It was a Victory over Death.

When Christ arose that glad morning he broke the chains of Death that had bound man. He now answered Job's question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" Jesus could say, "I am the Resurrection and the Life, he that believeth on me though he were dead yet shall he live." Man could now look death in the face and say, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" "Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." If we are in Christ there is no fear in death.

In this day of battles and victories may this one be recognized as the greatest of all victories. This day when the Son of God arose from the tomb, victorious over death, hell and the grave, liberating man from the chains of sin and making it possible for man to accept Jesus as his Saviour and live with Him beyond the skies . . . Let us rejoice in this Victory and sing, with George Newell Lovejoy:

Let peals of jubilation
Ring out in all the lands;
With hearts of deep elation
Let sea and sea clasp hands.
Let one supreme Te Deum
Roll round the World's highway,
For death is swallow up of life,
For Christ is Risen Today!

Local Church Will Be Host To Methodist Conference

The seventy-sixth session of the Lewisburg District Conference of the Methodist Church will convene at the Marlinton Methodist Church, Thursday and Friday, May 6 and 7. Officers of the District are James H. Straughn, D. D., Resident Bishop, Charles W. Fink, District Superintendent, and S. S. Tuckwell, District Lay Leader. Rev. Fred Oxenale is host pastor for the conference, and the guest speaker for the session will be Joseph W. Broyles, Ph. D., president of West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The program is as follows:

Thursday morning session beginning at 10 o'clock—Worship in charge of the District Superintendent; roll call and organization; report from charges; worship and sermon by Dr. Broyles; sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Thursday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock—Worship, U. E. Wills in charge; minutes of morning session; further roll call; reports (as follows): Spiritual State of the Church; Evangelism; Missions; Woman's Society of Christian Service by Mrs. C. S. Donnelly. A period here also will be allotted to the work of the Licensing Committee.

Thursday evening, 8 o'clock—Worship in charge of Rev. L. H. Greenwood; report on Christian Education; divisional reports; address, Dr. Broyles.

Friday morning session, 9 o'clock—Worship in charge of Delton Rexrode; minutes of afternoon and evening sessions; reports (as follows): Temperance; Christian Literature; Finance; The Permanent Trust Fund, by Dr. Hart. These reports will be followed by a period of worship with a sermon by Dr. M. C. Miles, executive secretary of the Board of Christian Education.

Friday afternoon, 2 o'clock—Worship, with H. B. Wilson in charge; minutes of morning session; report of lay activities; election of District Lay Leader and Associates; election of all district committees; selection of place for next conference; resolutions and recommendations; approval of minutes; adjournment.

Committees of the Conference are as follows: Judicial State of the Church—H. V. Wheeler, C. F. Flyben, J. F. Wain, S. J. Baroda, E. Chase Bare, Christian Literature—P. L. Flanagan, L. S. Shires, S. J. Campbell, B. P. Hume, A. H. Huffman.

Licensing Committee—R. S. McClung, C. H. Kelley, P. L. Flanagan, Nat. G. Barnhart.

"WHO DONE IT?"

The A. D. D. Club, fund-raisers for the Marlinton high school Athletic Association, will sponsor a motion picture for the benefit of their activities, next Monday and Tuesday, May 3 and 4, at the Alpine Theatre. The show will be one of those comic performances starring the popular team of Abbott and Costello, and it bears a title which hints of mystery—"Who Done It?"

PROMOTED

Frank Pezzulli, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pezzulli of Durbin, W. Va., was promoted to the rank of Sergeant on April 1, 1943. Sergeant Pezzulli is stationed somewhere in Alaska.

Thorny Creek

Lyle Hively, who has completed his "boot" training for the U. S. Navy at Great Lakes, Ill., arrived at his home here last Tuesday on a one-week leave. He is looking fine and says he likes the Navy. He returned to his station Monday.

Some of our Four-H club members attended the meeting of the Dunmore Flying Eagles Four-H club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Shinarberry last Friday night. They report a splendid time.

Shad McLaughlin spent a night last week with Lyle Hively. Misses Edith Alderman and Marceline Dilley spent last Friday night with Margaret Hively.

Mrs. Ward Deputy and daughter, Mary, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her brother, W. A. Hively.

Lyle Hively Honored

On Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hively gave a party in honor of their son, Lyle, who was home from the Navy. Those present were: Rev. Hobart Childs, Mrs. John Pritchard, Edith Alderman, Marceline Dilley, Iris Dean, Shad, Thelma and Earl McLaughlin, Tommy Pritchard, Ruby Deputy, Virginia Lee Heverer, Bob Moller, Icy Shrader, Randal and Edna Fertig, Alice, Sylvia and Don Hively, Cleo Corbett, Eddie and Anne Davidson.

Farm Women Meet

The Minchlake Springs Farm Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. A. T. White on April 7. Thirty-two members, Mrs. Barbara Bragg and one visitor were present. Mrs. A. T. White conducted the devotional period on the subject, "Clothing for Service." Mrs. Bragg discussed such timely topics as the labor situation, project suggestions, Fair exhibit and County Farm Women's Camp. Mrs. Elsie Bannard presented the lesson, "What Kind of Clothing Do We Need in Wartime?" assisted by Miss Elly Brown who discussed "Fashioned Shirts and Their Cuts" and Miss Lloyd Pritchard who discussed "Fashioned Shirts and Their Cuts." Mrs. L. E. Bartlett presented "Fashion in Sewing," which showed how to get in home-made dress made and looked better than store-bought. Mrs. A. T. White presented a most interesting and useful lesson, "What Kind of Clothing Do We Need in Wartime?"

A meeting of the Marlinton Area Men's Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bartlett on Thursday night. The meeting was held in the basement of the church.

DEATH ROLL

MRS. SUSIE MOORE GIBSON

Mrs. Susie Moore Gibson, daughter of the late William D. and Hannah Elizabeth Beverage Moore, was born February 6, 1869, and departed this life April 21, 1943, at the age of 74 years, 2 months and 15 days.

She had been in failing health for some time, but death was caused by angina. On Friday afternoon her body was laid to rest in the Mountain View Cemetery with Smith's mortuary in charge. Services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. C. Wool, at the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are her three children: French Gibson, and the Misses Edmonia and Lucille Gibson, all at home; two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Hannah of Slaty Fork and Mrs. Ettie Lightner of Mountain Grove, Va.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson died in infancy.

Her husband, John D. Gibson, preceded her to the grave, March 10, 1916.

Active pallbearers at the services for Mrs. Gibson were J. Z. Johnson, Raymond Shrader, Arnout Yeager, Paul Overholt, Dice Grimes, Arden Killingsworth, Eric Clutter and Jack Brooks; honorary pallbearers were J. A. Sydenstricker, R. B. Slavin, E. H. Patterson, Harlow Waugh, Dr. Fred Allen, B. B. Williams, C. W. Price, and Clyde Wagner.

The flower bearers were "Bee" Gladwell, Alice Waugh, Pearl Carter, Margaret McLaughlin, Annabell McElwee, Clara Ware, Irene McLaughlin, Fanny Overholt, Edgar Thomas, Alice Dever, Bly Dever, Rosa Lee Menger, Isabelle Pritchard, "Ginger" Grimes, Lois Jean Wagner, Maude Bangardner.

WILLIAM DODD

William Dodd, 86, son of Amanda and William Dodd of Lynchburg, Va., died at Seebert on April 26, 1943. Interment was made at Buena Vista, Va., April 28, in the family plot by the side of his wife.

WILLIAM PERRY LEE

William Perry Lee, son of the late Robert E. and Christie Ellen Lee, was born in Garrett County, Feb. 2, 1854, and departed this life at the home of his son, Floyd Lee, April 17, 1943, at the age of 89 years, 2 months and 8 days. Mr. Lee was married to Sarah Moore, who died in 1901. To this union were born eight children, six of whom survive. They are Floyd Lee, Edna Lee, Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, Mrs. L. E. Bartlett.

Keith Thompson, of Cass, Glad He's a Soldier Now

London—"I'd rather swing a pick and shovel than fuss with a girl about how to do her hair," declared Sergeant Technician Keith A. Thompson, U. S. Engineers, of Cass, West Virginia. He spoke with emotion.

In the dark days after he graduated from a school for cosmeticians and went to work as a beautifier, he added, every girl who came into his shop and demanded a new hair do. "Just like the one I saw in a movie magazine," invariably had left the magazine at home.

Only one girl ever came into the shop who seemed pleased with the way I fixed her hair," Keith added wistfully. "And I guess that was because she sort of liked me and didn't want to hurt my feelings."

He was having a coke and sandwich in the canteen at the American Red Cross Club in the Midlands and complained bitterly that he was the unluckiest guy in the entire U. S. Army. Reason: Keith and his pal missed the visit to the Red Cross Club of King George and Queen Elizabeth by exactly ten minutes.

"You ought to go on some of the trips arranged by this club," he said. "Last Sunday about twelve of us were invited to Lady Spencer's home. It's one of the most beautiful places in England, with a park about the size of a golf links."

Keith, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thompson of Cass, only stuck to what he terms the beauty shop racket for six months. Then he got a job in an office.

"But I'm in the Army now and glad of it," he finished with a grin. "I always hated to tell folks I was a hairdresser. Can't blame me, can you?"

5 Marlinton Area Men Report At Great Lakes

Great Lakes, Ill.—Recently inducted into the U. S. Navy as apprentice seamen, five Marlinton area men have reported to the U. S. Naval Training Station here for a period of basic training.

In the 12 weeks of training to follow they will be transformed from civilians into trim Bluejackets, receiving instruction in seamanship and an indoctrination into Navy customs and procedures, along with other prescribed training. They will take a series of aptitude tests and receive a personal interview to determine whether they will be assigned to a trade school for further training or be sent directly to sea upon completing "boot" training. Before their next assignment, however, they will be granted a nine-day leave.

The Marlinton area recruits are: Earl E. Wilfong, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wilfong, Rt. 1, Box 10, Marlinton; Frank L. Coleman, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Coleman, Rt. 1, Box 10, Marlinton; James V. Malt, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Malt, Marlinton; Charles McLaughlin, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, Marlinton; and Lou E. Taylor, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Taylor, Marlinton.

Makes the Editor Feel Good

Dear Editor:

I receive your paper each week and I've been transferred to this base. It makes a person feel good to read over all those personals—and when there's one about someone you know—you really break out in a smile—and that serial story—it is really okay—I wouldn't miss it for anything.

I wish everyone in the service from dear old Pocahontas would receive your paper each week—it's just like a letter from home.

Looking forward to reading the Journal each week—Sincerely yours,

Av. Cadet Harold Byrd, Bunker Hill, Indiana.

And now, isn't it nice that for just 25c extra on any new or renewal subscription in Pocahontas county, we will send the Journal to a man or woman in the service for the same year your subscription runs? And thanks, Harold.

Impresses ME

THAT we can add the following to our small-world items: . . . At one of the drug store sessions, Trooper J. M. Johnson said to this editor, "I see by the paper that you once stayed at Will Harper's." "That's right," I replied. . . . "Well, did you know that the girl they raised is my twin sister?" . . . "You mean Geneva?" I asked in amazement. . . . "Sure," said Johnson, "but she never knew it till she was grown. When did you stay there?" . . . "Oh," I said, "I was a little past 10 years old, I think. At the time I was there, I remember, some fellow by the name of Board used to ride out on his motorcycle to see Geneva." . . . "Yeah," spoke up Kerth Nottingham, "Dewey Beard—he's a cousin of mine!" . . . Well, frankly, I changed the conversation before it turned out like Ripley's Believe It Or Not story about the man who became his own grandfather. . . . You see, a man by the name of Talbot Chenoweth of Elkins, whom I chanced to meet on a Marlinton street recently, told me that I am a cousin of some kind to Mrs. Grace Lang, of this town. . . . and she probably won't be any too glad of that. . . . and one of her two lovely daughters flatly refused to accept it! . . .

THAT if you think one-thing-leading-to-another can't become serious, just look at this story I read this week: . . . "A man mortgaged his farm to buy his wife a pair of diamond earrings. The wife took in washings to pay the interest on the mortgage, but the first job she did she lost one of the 'sparks' in the suds, whereupon she tried to hang herself in the barn but the rope broke and she fell on a jersey cow, worth $150, and broke its back. Her husband then undertook to shoot the cow to end its misery, but the gun burst and destroyed his eyes, and his wife ran away with a lightning-rod peddler. The mortgage is still on deck and bids fair to live to a ripe old age" . . .

At a restaurant session a recent evening, Dempsey Johnson told about the heavy woman who wanted to be as light as possible on the penny scales—so she took off her coat and tossed it over her arm . . .

And not to be outdone, Trooper Johnson (again) said it reminded him of the man who rode horseback to the mill to have a grist ground . . . and riding on the long way home he threw the sack of meal up over his own shoulder to take the weight off the tiring horse . . .

THAT you'll be as interested in this rumor as the hired-girl is in the fashionable boarder: . . . Harper Smith is said to have had such poor luck at his fishing this spring that he's no longer bragging about it when he goes out . . . But they do say that when Harper leaves the house, observing to the missus: "I think I'll go down and work in the garden a while"—that he's really down there looking for worms all the time . . .

THAT John Sydenstricker, who is rumored to have started the above rumor, will have some explaining of his own to do to this: . . . Mr. Jordan, who has a little shop on the main road just across the street from the Rhea residence, is building friend John a table or something . . . So on the way to town, John decided he'd see how the work was coming along . . . Opening the shop door, and finding the owner out, John went in to look around, pulling the door shut after him . . . About this time, Mr. Jordan came along, and thinking of something he needed from town (and not knowing of his visitor) he up and snaps the padlock on the door, and proceeds to town . . . Yelling and pounding, Mr. Sydenstricker cried out for his release . . . Kids going by on the way to school heard him, but they just high-tailed it away from the place . . . About two hours went by before John got some lad to stop and listen to his story, and to go find Mr. Jordan and tell him for goodness sake to come up and unlock the door! . . .

THAT a story of the people who are practicing their golf indoors, makes me think it would be a good idea to pass on to Adolph Cooper . . . with the suggestion that he have his picture taken "before," to compare with one to be taken "after," if he misses a hard putt, or comes too far back on the up-swing . . . Outside of that, the ball should return well from the living-room wall . . .

OWI Predicts 6% Cut in Food Supply; Bombers Strafe Italian Supply Ports As Allies Close Axis Tunisia Trap; U. S. Promises MacArthur More Planes

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Typical of the harvest of Axis prisoners in the Tunisian campaign is this batch of German soldiers guarded by a lone British Tommy. They were taken in the early stages of the drive northward, after General Montgomery's Eighth army had shattered the Mareth line.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC: Battle for Air Control

While Gen. Menryo Sato, chief of the Japanese military affairs bureau in Tokyo threatened Jap air raids on the United States, enemy planes continuing a battle for control of the air over a wide area at the approaches to Australia mounted a 100-ship raid at Milne Bay, New Guinea. Allied fighter planes, alert to the danger, shot 30 of the enemy raiders out of the sky.

Meanwhile, Allied air forces ranging over the vast battle area described by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as "our bomber line—the first line of Australian defense" attacked a Japanese convoy of six merchant ships and three warships approaching the enemy base at Wewak, 450 miles north of Port Moresby, New Guinea. Three of the merchantmen were hit, including two 8,000-ton and one 5,000-ton ships.

In answer to warnings from General MacArthur's headquarters of the increasing strength of Jap air, sea and land force concentrations threatening Australia, Secretary of War Stimson promised that enough planes would be sent to the South Pacific to counter the rising Jap power.

TUNISIA: 84 to 3

As the Allied armies closed in on the Axis' last mountain bastions in Tunisia, the gravity of Marshal Rommel's supply problem was shown by the heavy German reliance on aerial transport from Sicily.

That this supply problem would become even more critical was evident from two facts: 1—The Axis had lost all but three airports in Tunisia; 2—Rommel's thin supply line was being menacingly depleted by American Flying Fortress attacks.

Typical of the potency of the American aerial offensive was a raid on Axis rear bases at Castelvetrano and Mile in Sicily in which 84 enemy planes were destroyed with the loss of but three American aircraft.

With the Mediterranean at their back, the forces of Rommel and Col. Gen. Von Arnim were hemmed into an area less than the size of Connecticut in Northeast Tunisia. The Axis did, however, have the advantage of holding mountainous positions difficult for the Allies to storm.

The strongly fortified ports of Tunisia and Bizerte were the Allies' final goal. Operating under the supervision of Commander-in-Chief Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the British First army in the North, American and French forces in the center and General Montgomery's British Eighth army on the South steadily closed the trap on the Axis.

MEAT:

Ceilings Deferred

Following through on President Roosevelt's directive to "roll back" the cost of living items found too high, OPA Chief Prentiss M. Brown suspended until May 15 the price ceiling schedule on meat, veal, lamb and chicken.

Meat trade sources disclosed that the OPA had postponed complaints that its previously proposed standard prices on these meats would have resulted in higher prices.

BALKANS:

Hitler Builds Fences

Even as Hungary was reported pulling 200,000 men out of Axis ranks on the Russian front, a Rome broadcast announced that Adolf Hitler in a move to strengthen his Mediterranean defenses had called in leaders of his Balkan satellites for conference.

The seemingly frank tone of the Rome broadcast, plus reports from neutral Spain and Sweden that German engineers were dissatisfied with defense works in the Balkans led observers to believe that the Axis was on a fishing expedition for clues to possible Allied invasion plans.

Commenting on a conference between Hitler and Rumania Premier Ion Antonescu, the Rome radio said: "The Fuehrer and the Marshal restated their decision to continue the fight against the enemies of Europe until unconditional victory has been achieved."

ARMY:

Cuts Food Waste

Better planning by mess officers and co-operation by cooks and KPs has reduced the amount of food wasted at army camps by more than half since the beginning of the year, it was disclosed when testimony of a private hearing of the senate war investigating Truman committee was made public.

Before the army's conservation program was inaugurated as much as 20 to 25 per cent of the food served at camps was wasted. This wastage has now been reduced to about 11 per cent—a saving sufficient to feed a million civilians for a year.

Figures on the extent of army food conservation were presented by Maj. Gen. E. B. Gregory, quartermaster general. He told the committee that army food purchases had to be sufficient for an average of 2,100,000 men overseas and 4,500,000 men in this country during 1943. He indicated that the average size of the army will be 6,600,000 this year.

PLAIN TALK:

Business Gets Lecture

Silver-thatched Commerce Secretary Jesse H. Jones gave business in general some of his native Texas "plain talk" when he appeared as a speaker before the Committee for Economic Development in New York.

Pointing out that the nation cannot "indulge in another depression," but must pay the costs of this war which he said had been estimated at around 250 billion dollars, Jones said "the problem will be to provide jobs at a living wage for every person willing to work."

Business must form its own post-war plans and meet the problems ahead with its own practical solutions if it does not want the government to step in and do the planning for it.

tion of Real Estate Boards, the OPA ruled that any such changes would be in conflict with the President's orders "to hold the line" against inflation.

Commenting on the realtors' suggestions, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown said that "while the proposals do not explicitly request any general increase in the rent level, their adoption would clearly achieve such a request."

While the OPA is considering a few minor changes in its rent rules, Brown asserted that so far as the basic program is concerned, "I do not intend to alter either its method or administration."

DIES COMMITTEE

Although its publication was delayed a year because of an intra-committee split, the Dies committee's special report to congress on prewar Nazi espionage nevertheless served the purpose of further convincing the American people of the far-reaching plans of the Axis for world domination.

More than five years ago, the report set forth, Hitler and his Nazi party had put into operation in this country a "diabolical scheme" for spreading Nazism.

Terrible Hatreds Kindled By 'Blood Revenge' Spirit

Rumors From Embattled Nations Hint of Plans For Organized Extermination of Enemy Peoples.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

It was a soft, Washington spring afternoon. The late shifts of government workers were hurrying home. The two guardian magnolias that stand on the White House lawn were tipped with the rays of the setting sun. My thoughts were not on the latest news of the battlefield which I had just finished broadcasting. Frankly, I was concerned chiefly with dinner.

The announcer was just finishing the "commercial" and I was picking my hat up from the sofa in the studio when I saw the engineer beckoning to me from behind the glass wall of his goldfish bowl. He held up a paper on which was printed "Stop in News Room—Important!"

I did. The atmosphere was tense as it is frequently these days. A notice had just appeared on the news ticker to the effect that the White House was about to release an important statement.

It is possible, but not probable, that the thing we were all thinking that statement was going to announce but didn't, will happen before these lines reach print—the invasion of Europe. Until it does, we shall continue to expect it and while the busy home front keeps our nose pretty well to the grindstone, one hint from overseas and an atmosphere of suspense envelops the Capitol.

Secrecy's Curtain

Meanwhile, there is the feeling that tremendous things are happening under a heavy curtain of secrecy in Europe even the hint of which does not reach the press or the public.

Russia, of course, is a mystery. What is happening there? Is the remarkable Red army, which in the past has seemed to be able to draw endless men and supplies from nowhere after each crushing defeat, finally exhausted? Spring came early to the steppes this year and the Germans, if they are able, will launch their annual summer offensive a month earlier. They hope to be able to break the Red army this time and then hold back the remnants with a sparsely manned but intricate line of defense while they turn their attention to the Allies in the West.

No one knows what the strength of Russia is today. One does know that a terrible hate has been kindled in the whole race against the Germans and it is reported that the Red army has threatened that if Soviet forces ever do reach German soil, they will leave no human being living. One story has been spread through Switzerland that if an Allies' army is on the continent when Russia breaks Germany's eastern frontiers—if she does—that the Germans will open their western front to the Allies and let them in rather than expose themselves to the Russians.

Plan for Prisoners

Another report has seeped out of Russia. It is continuously repeated that simply because of the inconvenience of caring for prisoners, both the Germans and Russians have been shooting men who are captured or who surrender. On the other hand, the Russians are said to be carefully preserving some of the men they take. Russian propaganda, dropped over the German lines, is very alluring. Some of the pamphlets instruct the German soldiers to surrender and bring with them the leaflet which acts as a passport.

Then, according to a report which has come in from a neutral country, the prisoners are carefully examined and a small percentage weeded out for Soviet indoctrination. They go through a long course of instruction so careful that it is said finally only 10 per cent are accepted as satisfactory. These elite are then trained to be used as the spearhead of a political invasion of Germany.

Hatred, like that in Russia, has poisoned all Europe. There is a belief now on the part of many of the conquered countries that the Germans, having given up hope of victory, intend to go forward with a systematic extermination of other races within their reach, as they have in Poland and with the Jews, so that regardless of what happens, the Teutonic stock will dominate.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Emperor Hirohito on the occasion of the Japanese diet adjournment "granted Premier Tojo, in recognition of his services, one package of chrysanthemum-crested cigarettes and one box of scents," the Tokyo radio told the Japanese people.

The Nazis and Italian Fascists and the Japanese refer to their propaganda as "thought warfare."

numerically when the war is over. To meet this, the other nations are talking about turning the tables and beginning organized mass murder of Germans everywhere the moment the Nazi armies lay down their arms.

Only the other day, I talked with a widely traveled Russian newspaper man, who said frankly that he believed this was the proper course.

How powerful this spirit of blood revenge really is and whether it will be carried out, one can only guess. Another mystery of which there are only tiny hints is the power and scope of the underground movements in the occupied countries and the extent to which Allied agents are now working hand-in-hand with the saboteurs in France and Belgium and particularly Holland. Hints leak out.

Saboteurs

A secret German report which reached Allied hands stated the following:

"Sometime ago, English parachutists landed near Prague. When they were held up by the local police, they obeyed the order, 'hands up.' But they carried a special device on their belts with a pistol from which cords ran to their hands. The latter fired the pistol. Thus they succeeded by a quick and appropriate movement in accounting for the policemen."

Here is a part of another enemy report, revealing the activities behind the lines. It came through Italian military channels:

"During the attack on the Fuka Aerodrome (Africa) the enemy Allied troops put up distress signals. They succeeded in enticing the sentries away from their posts for a time and successfully carried out their sabotage."

Reports have come of British saboteurs gaining entrance to factories in the daytime, planting time bombs and leaving. A device has been perfected which can be carried concealed in the hand—I have held one—attached by a clever means to a tank car or a locomotive, it would blow it to pieces. That is only one of hundreds of ingenious gadgets which have been perfected for this strange work of secret destruction that is going on everywhere. Even more ingenious are the methods which the underground organizations in France and Italy are using to obtain arms and supplies for the insurrection when the moment comes.

Some day, "an important statement from the White House" will come, heralding events many of which we have not even dreamed.

While the airplane factories turn out bombers and fighters, the air-minded leaders continue to make their air plans for peace. The latest scheme which has come to my attention is an announcement from the Northeast Airlines company which says this company has made application for a helicopter service to carry air mail and air express in New England.

These little planes that can rise straight up and hover, can land on a parlor rug. They would, in this proposed service, land on the roofs of post office buildings—provided, I take it, that the buildings are not of the rococo vintage with peaked and pointed and turreted roofs.

The service would carry first-class as well as air mail, according to the application filed with the Civil Aeronautics board. Four hundred points would be included. The little "flying automobiles" would not only fly between towns and cities but would carry mail from urban centers to the large airports where the mail would be transferred to the air liners.

A national labor service act still hovers just beyond the horizon. The chief purpose of Manpower Commissioner McNutt's intricate plans, including shifts of men from non-deferrable industry to war work is to build the machinery so that when the act is passed it can be put into effect at once.

Now that the farm labor problem has been taken off McNutt's doorstep, and with the definite "back-to-the-farm" trend, congress may ease up on McNutt and give him the money he needs to build his pre-national service machinery.

A secret German report which reached Allied hands stated the following:

"Sometime ago, English parachutists landed near Prague. When they were held up by the local police, they obeyed the order, 'hands up.' But they carried a special device on their belts with a pistol from which cords ran to their hands. The latter fired the pistol. Thus they succeeded by a quick and appropriate movement in accounting for the policemen."

Here is a part of another enemy report, revealing the activities behind the lines. It came through Italian military channels:

"During the attack on the Fuka Aerodrome (Africa) the enemy Allied troops put up distress signals. They succeeded in enticing the sentries away from their posts for a time and successfully carried out their sabotage."

Reports have come of British saboteurs gaining entrance to factories in the daytime, planting time bombs and leaving. A device has been perfected which can be carried concealed in the hand—I have held one—attached by a clever means to a tank car or a locomotive, it would blow it to pieces. That is only one of hundreds of ingenious gadgets which have been perfected for this strange work of secret destruction that is going on everywhere. Even more ingenious are the methods which the underground organizations in France and Italy are using to obtain arms and supplies for the insurrection when the moment comes.

Some day, "an important statement from the White House" will come, heralding events many of which we have not even dreamed.

While the airplane factories turn out bombers and fighters, the air-minded leaders continue to make their air plans for peace. The latest scheme which has come to my attention is an announcement from the Northeast Airlines company which says this company has made application for a helicopter service to carry air mail and air express in New England.

These little planes that can rise straight up and hover, can land on a parlor rug. They would, in this proposed service, land on the roofs of post office buildings—provided, I take it, that the buildings are not of the rococo vintage with peaked and pointed and turreted roofs.

The service would carry first-class as well as air mail, according to the application filed with the Civil Aeronautics board. Four hundred points would be included. The little "flying automobiles" would not only fly between towns and cities but would carry mail from urban centers to the large airports where the mail would be transferred to the air liners.

A national labor service act still hovers just beyond the horizon. The chief purpose of Manpower Commissioner McNutt's intricate plans, including shifts of men from non-deferrable industry to war work is to build the machinery so that when the act is passed it can be put into effect at once.

Now that the farm labor problem has been taken off McNutt's doorstep, and with the definite "back-to-the-farm" trend, congress may ease up on McNutt and give him the money he needs to build his pre-national service machinery.

LIGHT EXERCISE

It is unfortunate that a couple of outstanding physicians should advise that exercise should not be taken by those past 40 years of age. They were so opposed to exercise that they suggested that lifting the life finger unnecessarily might cause harm. Now these physicians had but the one thought in mind and that was to discourage those middle-aged individuals from taking exercise who thought that "strenuous" exercise was needed just as much, if not more, at middle age than for those under 40. The advice was given to prevent strain on heart and blood vessels. These physicians are aware that in the treatment of the middle aged or elderly, average health the last thing they would want them to do is to rest all the time, that is become bedridden. This is because the body needs to move itself to keep heart, blood vessels, lungs, appetite, digestion and bowel movement normal. To rest all the time would lower the health mentally and physically.

I have in mind particularly those who are overweight and among the methods of getting rid of excess fat are already taking exercise or have been planning to take some exercise. As a matter of fact exercise is the "natural" way to reduce weight because it creates extra heat thus melting away the fat tissue which is inactive and developing muscle tissue which is active and heat creating when it is active.

"Exercise improves the circulation, sweeps away the stagnant waste materials which collect in the body, creates a sense of well-being which lasts for a long time afterward and burns fat."

The overweight individual because he is overweight does not like exercise as every movement of his body means he must do much more work than of normal weight. But as he gradually removes the stored fat on his body and increases his muscular strength he gets a three-fold benefit—(a) removes excess fat, (b) increases his muscular strength and (c) because of this increased muscular strength loses his dislike for exercise. The fact that exercise shows easier to take, that he can feel himself becoming lighter and more "limber" makes exercise actually inviting to him.

Dried Foods Aid To Victory Effort

One of the things learned during the war which will mean health and happiness to many more thousands than before the war, is that water can be removed from food on one side of the ocean, the food shipped in a space many times smaller to the other side of the ocean, where by adding water to the amount previously removed makes the food as nutritious as when it was fresh.

Dr. London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association states that research carried on at the Low Temperature Research station, Cambridge, in co-operation with other institutions in Britain, and in the United States and dominions, has indicated the following beneficial results:

It is estimated that removing the water from foods, while maintaining their nutritive value, has saved shipping space valued at $3,000,000 a year. A quart of milk has volume of 64 cubic inches and weighs 4 1/2 ounces. Condensed, it has volume of 27 cubic inches and weighs 12 1/2 ounces. Reduced to a solid, it has a volume of 1 1/2 cubic inches and weighs 1 1/2 ounces. The powder compressed into a tin the volume is reduced to about 1/2 cubic inch from 1 1/2. The discovery that food can be reduced to such a small space makes the shipping and storage of milk available year-round in the winter, when there is no milk in the area and for long periods. This is of considerable importance.

Small amounts will keep 100,000 or so of dried eggs in place. If the amount of eggs were shipped in a small space with water and shells would weigh 100,000 tons and take 100,000 tons of shipping space. A similar saving is made by dehydration of dried meats. Another saving is that dried eggs and meats are not subject to spoilage and are easy to store.

Kaiser Appears Guilty Of Wasting 20 Minutes

The story about Mr. Henry Kaiser, who builds ships in record time—his shipyards are reported to have turned out 100 ships, each of 10,000 tons deadweight, in 422 days—is that he kept a group of Washington correspondents, with whom he had made an appointment, waiting for 20 minutes. When they asked him why he was so late, he replied that he had to wait half an hour for a taxi.

"Half an hour!" exclaimed one of the journalists. "Why on earth didn't you build one?"

The Answers

1. Seven times.

10. The army's new Pentagon building in Washington.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is how you can play Fairy Godmother to a kitchen chair. Pad the back as shown here, using at least three layers of cotton batting for the front of it and one for the back. Next, cut an 18-inch circle of cardboard and use it for a pattern for marking the shape of the round seat on boards or plywood. Cut out the wooden seat and screw it to the chair. Save the cardboard pattern.

Cover the front of the chair back next, tufting it with covered buttons sewn through the back with a long needle. Sew the back of the cover in place with stitches hidden under welting. Tack a strip of muslin around the seat, and sew the ruffles to it. Now, pad the round cardboard; stretch covering fabric over it; then sew it in place on the chair.

Selfish Thought
"What are you thinking of?"
"Oh, nothing much!"
"Don't be so self-conscious."

Was He Surprised?
"If he was that pretty little thing I saw you with last night?"
"If I promise not to tell my wife?"
"Surely, I promise."
"Well, I saw my wife."

No Moss on It
"What's that stone in Ann's engagement ring, Joyce?"
"A rolling stone, my dear. I had it once."

Her Touch
A person had occasion to reproach a small boy for scowling.
"If you feel you must say something just say 'Bother!'" he said. "Your father doesn't scowl, does he?"
"Oh no, sir!"
"Well, then, if he were working in the garden and suddenly stepped backwards on to a rake which flew up and hit him from behind, what would he say?"
"He'd say: 'You're back early, dear!'"

The Real Problem
Hubby—Have you ever wondered what you would do if you had Rockefeller's income?
Wife—No, but I have often wondered what Rockefeller would do if he had mine.

Last Chance
"Well, we have exhausted reason, logic, common sense, and justice; what more can we do?"
"I guess we'll simply have to go to law."

Quarter Down
It happened at an income tax office in Washington. A colored resident, with his form all filled out, approached the "Pay" window and laid a quarter on the ledge.
"What's that for?" asked the clerk, who had read the total amount of the tax.
"Why, that's for my income tax. They told me I could pay a quarter at a time."

Literate Fellow
"I must find another tailor. This one reads too much."
"Reads too much?"
"Yes. Every time he writes to me he begins, 'On going through my books!'"

AROUND THE HOUSE

Keep the tops of your spice tins very secure as the air tends to make spices lose their flavor.

Brooms and other sweeping brushes should be hung up when not in use. For hanging, use ordinary picture wire. It wears indefinitely and being stiff will catch on hooks more easily than string.

When the ironing board is folded up and stood away in the closet or corner of the kitchen until needed again, the end that rests on the floor becomes soiled. To prevent this, make a slip cover for the end.

Next time the steps need painting, try painting every other step; let these dry, then paint the others. It takes a bit longer, 'tis true, but it's a lot handier and the kiddies will love having to take 'em "two at a time."

To remove fresh paint, wash fabric with soap and water. If the stain is old, soften it with lard or sponge with turpentine. Then launder. If material is nonwashable, sponge with turpentine or spot remover.

To keep tacks handy, drill a three-eighth inch hole, two or three inches deep, in the handle of your tack hammer. Fill this with tacks and plug the end with a cork.

A small piece of tin or a thin piece of wood is useful when washing the baseboard of a room. It can be slipped along as the woodwork is scrubbed and save many a nasty smear on the wallpaper.

To remove old wallpaper, wet with a solution of one tablespoon of saltwater in a gallon of water. Works best if the water is hot.

If a little piece is chipped off walnut furniture, touch up the spot with iodine applied with a piece of cotton, then go over the surface with furniture polish.

A clean, well-kept iron gives efficient service. With a damp cloth, wipe off any starch marks. If the iron sticks while pressing, rub it over salt sprinkled on a paper. Once a month rub the warm iron with beeswax or paraffin and then rub over a clean cloth or paper until the excess wax is entirely removed.

When the soldier talks about "the skipper" he means his captain, the head of his company. And that's just what the title "captain" means. It comes from the Latin word "caput" meaning "head." Another leader high in the Army man's favor is Camel cigarettes—they're first choice with men in the Army. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) When you're sending gifts from home, keep in mind that a carton of cigarettes is always most welcome. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Stout chains and pulleys bind each of the four wheels to the bumper of a truck. N. J. woman's car when she parks it in the streets of night.

It was not until 1916 that the U. S. made its first annual appropriation for Federal aid highways. Good roads, good automobiles and good tires are companion necessities in modern motoring.

It is generally believed that at speeds below 35 mph, tire blow-outs, whether front or rear, are not particularly dangerous for alert drivers, other things being equal. Another good reason for keeping to the rubber-saving 35 mph limit!

In return for their stimulated rubber growing and collecting activities the United States has agreed to pay South and Central American countries from 33 to 45 cents a pound for rubber until the end of 1946 at least. Before government price fixing, rubber was selling in the U. S. at 22 1/2 cents a pound.

Another example is that dried eggs and milk can be transported by air and sea in a small space.

Clean and Bright

You can believe in honor till you have achieved it. Better keep yourself clean and bright, you are the window through which you must see the world.—George Bernard Shaw.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is how you can play Fairy Godmother to a kitchen chair. Pad the back as shown here, using at least three layers of cotton batting for the front of it and one for the back. Next, cut an 18-inch circle of cardboard and use it for a pattern for marking the shape of the round seat on boards or plywood. Cut out the wooden seat and screw it to the chair. Save the cardboard pattern.

Smile Awhile

Selfish Thought
"What are you thinking of?"
"Oh, nothing much!"
"Don't be so self-conscious."

Was He Surprised!
"If you was that pretty little thing I saw you with last night?"
"If I promise not to tell my wife?"
"Surely, I promise."
"Well, it suits my wife."

An antique is something no one would be seen with if there were more of them, but which everyone wants when no one has any.

No Moss on It
"What's that stone in Ann's engagement ring, Joyce?"
"A rolling stone, my dear. I had it once."

Her Touch
A person had occasion to reproach a small boy for scowling.
"If you feel you must say something just say 'Bother!'" he said. "Your father doesn't scowl, does he?"
"Oh no, sir!"
"Well, then, if he were working in the garden and suddenly stepped backwards on to a rake which flew up and hit him from behind, what would he say?"
"He'd say: 'You're back early, dear!'"

The Real Problem
Hubby—Have you ever wondered what you would do if you had Rockefeller's income?
Wife—No, but I have often wondered what Rockefeller would do if he had mine.

Last Chance
"Well, we have exhausted reason, logic, common sense, and justice; what more can we do?"
"I guess we'll simply have to go to law."

Quarter Down
It happened at an income tax office in Washington. A colored resident, with his form all filled out, approached the "Pay" window and laid a quarter on the ledge.
"What's that for?" asked the clerk, who had read the total amount of the tax.
"Why, that's for my income tax. They told me I could pay a quarter at a time."

Literate Fellow
"I must find another tailor. This one reads too much."
"Reads too much?"
"Yes. Every time he writes to me he begins, 'On going through my books!'"

AROUND THE HOUSE

Keep the tops of your spice tins very secure as the air tends to make spices lose their flavor.

Brooms and other sweeping brushes should be hung up when not in use. For hanging, use ordinary picture wire. It wears indefinitely and being stiff will catch on hooks more easily than string.

When the ironing board is folded up and stood away in the closet or corner of the kitchen until needed again, the end that rests on the floor becomes soiled. To prevent this, make a slip cover for the end.

Next time the steps need painting, try painting every other step; let these dry, then paint the others. It takes a bit longer, 'tis true, but it's a lot handier and the kiddies will love having to take 'em "two at a time."

To remove fresh paint, wash fabric with soap and water. If the stain is old, soften it with lard or sponge with turpentine. Then launder. If material is nonwashable, sponge with turpentine or spot remover.

To keep tacks handy, drill a three-eighth inch hole, two or three inches deep, in the handle of your tack hammer. Fill this with tacks and plug the end with a cork.

A small piece of tin or a thin piece of wood is useful when washing the baseboard of a room. It can be slipped along as the woodwork is scrubbed and save many a nasty smear on the wallpaper.

When the soldier talks about "the skipper" he means his captain, the head of his company. And that's just what the title "captain" means. It comes from the Latin word "caput" meaning "head." Another leader high in the Army man's favor is Camel cigarettes—they're first choice with men in the Army. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) When you're sending gifts from home, keep in mind that a carton of cigarettes is always most welcome. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Stout chains and pulleys bind each of the four wheels to the bumper of a tractor. N. J. woman's car when she parks it in the streets of night.

It was not until 1916 that the U. S. made its first annual appropriation for Federal aid highways. Good roads, good automobiles and good tires are companion necessities in modern motoring.

It is generally believed that at speeds below 35 mph, tire blow-outs, whether front or rear, are not particularly dangerous for alert drivers, other things being equal. Another good reason for keeping to the rubber-saving 35 mph limit!

In return for their stimulated rubber growing and collecting activities the United States has agreed to pay South and Central American countries from 33 to 45 cents a pound for rubber until the end of 1946 at least. Before government price fixing, rubber was selling in the U. S. at 22 1/2 cents a pound.

SOCIAL DOTS

Chatty Items About People And Events

Conversation with the owners of a lodge at Hot Springs, concerning whether the newspaper people had been granted admittance to the food conference being held there, brought the answer, "no," and revealed the information that newspaper men of national reputation were staying at the lodge to pick up any piece of news that might become available.

Mrs. Frank King, Mrs. Adolph Cooper and Mrs. Jake Hill expect to leave Friday of this week for Morgantown. Mrs. Carlisle Wade will accompany them back to Marlinton.

Mrs. Della Wiseman of Roncoveito is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bear.

Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon of Greenbank was a luncheon guest of Mrs. Aubrey Ferguson last Friday.

A good way to "square" that list of social obligations would be to organize a theatre party and attend the show which is being sponsored next Monday and Tuesday by the A. D. D. Club of the local high school.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sydenstricker, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Jackson, were in Maxwelton Sunday. They returned to that town Tuesday for the funeral of John B. Sydenstricker who died Easter Sunday morning at 7 o'clock. Services were held at the Clifton Presbyterian Church. The deceased was a first cousin of John A. Sydenstricker of Marlinton, and was a former member of the House of Delegates and had served his church as superintendent of the Sunday school for 25 years.

One of the nicest things we have to report is a phone call from George Clark who is stationed in Montana, to his mother, Mrs. Lucy Clark—to wish her a happy Easter, and of course to hear Mother's voice.

Another long distance call was one from George Sharp of the Marines, to wish his mother, Mrs. Summers Sharp, a happy birthday.

Mrs. Jewel Hamilton has missed out on two long distance calls from her husband, E. A. Hamilton, who is stationed at Camp Carson, Colo., because they came when she was not at home. However, Mrs. Hamilton has been suffering with a throat ailment which has forced her to talk in a whisper, which would have made it impossible for her to hold the conversation. (Note to "Ham": Her voice has improved now).

The beautiful flowers which decorated the Presbyterian church in the Easter service were given by Mrs. S. H. Moore of Waynesburg, Va., in memory of her sister, Mrs. J. O. Smith (the former Mary McLaughlin) and mother of Miss Helen Smith.

Music at the Methodist church was arranged and directed by Miss Edith May, and was much appreciated.

See: Mrs. Frank King with an attractive arrangement of flowers for the Green Lang, who is ill — Anna Richardson, who was invited out to a home where a surprise birthday was celebrated for — Mr. and Mrs. John Sydenstricker receiving congratulations and gifts on their wedding anniversary (1914), on recent of last Saturday — Mrs. Walter Jett, who had a message of pink roses, leaving ited with Mrs. Lillian Shiffler Saturday en route to Elkins for Easter.

Mrs. Dana M. Hicks of Webster Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Potter of Clarksburg, visited Miss Anna Lee Ervine and Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Kramer last week-end. Mrs. G. M. Ervine accompanied Mrs. Potter back to Clarksburg for a visit.

Mrs. Rush, efficient telephone operator, had as week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Shanklin and son Charles, and Ray and Eddie Lee Boyd, all of Union.

Paul Overholt, owner of the Men's Shop, and Frank King will leave on Thursday for Charleston to attend the spring Shrine Ceremonial Friday. Mr. Overholt also will attend to business matters.

Mrs. J. I. Lee of Minnehaha Springs visited with her sister at Watoga Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Dempsey Dilley arrived Tuesday morning from Baltimore to spend several days with relatives before leaving for Texas to join her husband, who is stationed there.

Pfc. James H. Walburn of Cumberland, Md., a cousin of little Martha Haddock, is being hailed as the hero of his Tunisian outfit because he devised a distilling apparatus which provides an adequate supply of water for his entire company.

Mrs. Carl Sheets returned Tuesday after spending several days with friends and relatives in Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Thomas and son of Monroe county, Capt. Oren Poage, who has been visiting relatives in West Virginia and Ohio and who returned to foreign service Tuesday after a month's furlough, Miss Sally Poage, student at Marshall College, and Mrs. Jewel Hamilton, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Poage of Edray.

Miss Helen Gay of Franklin visited her parents at Edray last week-end.

Miss Glenna Cole of Franklin visited at her home for Easter.

James McCormick, manager of the Alpine Theatre at Petersburg, and Mrs. McCormick visited relatives in Pocahontas county over the week-end.

Mrs. Barbara Bragg visited her husband in Pittsburgh over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Anderson of Cass, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kelly of Elkins, and Miss Lena Anderson visited at Charlottesville, Va., from Friday until Monday.

Miss Marguerite Weese visited her parents in Petersburg last week-end.

Miss Patty Stemple, student at D.

and E. visited Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Stemple for several days.

Prosecuting Attorney Richard Curran left Monday morning by bus for a visit with his mother at Clarksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrell Phares and children of Cumberland visited Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gay over the week-end.

Sam Lambert and Robert Peters of Bluefield were visiting last week at the home of Miss Edmonia Gibson.

Charles Rickman of the Navy medical corps, spent some time as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elba Callison and relatives in Pocahontas county.

Mrs. Keith Cunningham of Elkins, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yeager and children of Grafton were visiting Mrs. H. D. Marshall last week-end.

E. L. Fenton of Charleston and Mr. and Mrs. James C. Short and daughter visited Mrs. E. L. Fenton and Miss Mary Frances Fenton last week-end.

Calvin Price left Wednesday for Charleston, where he will address the State Institute of West Virginia Librarians Thursday at 11 a. m. He will also look after other business matters while in the capital city.

Miss Thelma Williams and Miss Jean Weber, teachers at Rainelle, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Williams on Saturday and Sunday.

We were glad to see Bill Stewart, now of New Martinsville, who was visiting his parents here last week-end.

Misses Margaret and Martha Hill of Charleston visited in Marlinton recently.

Clark Young of Hamilton Field Addition was another person who had a birthday to celebrate on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. D. M. Faulkner, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and son, Eddie, all of Dunbar, were week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Young and Mrs. Flora Johnson.

Miss Dora McLaughlin of Brown's Mountain has returned to her home after spending some time in Dunbar.

Guests of Dr. Harry Solter last week were his son and daughter-in-

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

FOREWORD

This story was told me largely in the officers' quarters of the Motor Torpedo Boat station at Melville, Rhode Island, by four young officers of MTB Squadron 2, who were all that was left of the squadron which proudly sailed for the Philippines last summer. A fifth officer, Lieutenant Henry J. Brantingham, has since arrived from Australia.

These men had been singled out from the multitude for return to America because General MacArthur believed that the MTB's had proved their worth in warfare, and hoped that these officers could bring back to America their actual battle experience, by which trainees could benefit.

Their Squadron Commander, Lieutenant John Bulkeley (now Lieutenant-Commander) of course needs no introduction, as he is already a national hero for his part in bringing MacArthur out of Bataan. But because the navy was then keeping him so busy fulfilling his obligations as a national hero, Bulkeley had to delegate to Lieutenant Robert Bolling Kelly a major part of the task of rounding out the narrative. I think the reader will agree that the choice was wise, for Lieutenant Kelly, in addition to being a brave and competent naval officer, has a sense of narrative and a keen eye for significant detail, two attributes which may never help him in battle but which were of great value to this book. Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr., also contributed much vivid detail.

As a result, I found when I had finished that I had not just the adventure story of a single squadron, but in the background the whole tragic panorama of the Philippine campaign—America's Little Dunkirk.

We are a democracy, running a war. If our mistakes are concealed from us, they can never be corrected. Facts are frequently and properly withheld in a war, because the enemy would take advantage of our weaknesses if he knew them. But this story now can safely be told because the sad chapter is ended. The Japanese know just how inadequate our equipment was, because they destroyed or captured practically all of it.

I have been wandering in and out of wars since 1939, and many times before have I seen the sad young men come out of battle—come with the whistle of flying steel and the rumble of falling walls still in their ears, come out to the fat, well-fed cities behind the lines, where the complacent citizens always choose from the newspapers those papers whose headlines proclaim every skirmish as a magnificent victory.

And through those plump cities the sad young men back from battle wander as strangers in a strange land, talking a grim language of realism which the smug citizenry doesn't understand, trying to tell of a tragedy which few enjoy hearing.

These four sad young men differ from those I have talked to in Europe only in that they are Americans, and the tragedy they bear witness to is our own failure, and the smugness they struggle against is our own complacency.

CHAPTER I

"You don't understand," said the young naval officer, "we were expendable." He was very earnest as he lolled on the bunk in the officers' quarters of the torpedo station at Newport, along with the other three officers who had also just got out of the Philippines.

"I admitted I didn't understand. Well, it's like this. Suppose you're a sergeant machine-gunner, and your army is retreating and the enemy advancing. The captain takes you to a machine gun covering the road. 'You're to stay here and hold this position,' he tells you. 'For how long?' you ask. 'Never mind,' he answers, 'just hold it.' Then you know you're expendable. In a war, anything can be expendable—money or gasoline or equipment or most usually men. They are expending you and that machine gun to get time. They don't expect to see either one again. They expect you to stay there and spray that road with steel until you're killed or captured, holding up the enemy for a few minutes or even a precious quarter of an hour.

"You know the situation—that those few minutes gained are worth the life of a man to your army. So you don't mind it until you come back here where people waste hours and days and sometimes weeks, when you've seen your friends give their lives to save minutes—"

"Look, never mind about that," said Lieutenant John Bulkeley, the senior officer. "People don't like to hear about that. I've learned that in the week I've been back. Let's start at the beginning. And first a word about us.

"We four are what is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron Three. Last fall there were six little boats—and about a dozen men to a boat. Each one is a plywood speedboat, seventy feet long and twenty feet wide, powered by three Packard motors which can send her tearing over the top of the water about as fast as a Packard automobile ever gets a chance to travel on a highway. So fast, in fact, that those motors have to be changed every few hundred hours. They should be, but what happens to that pretty theory in a war is another story—we lost every spare motor when our boats were bombed, and some of those in the boats had to do questionable things to get them before the boats were lost—before a getting ahead of the story.

"Each boat is armed with four torpedo tubes, and four 50-caliber machine guns—firing in pairs from each side. As for armor, well, there's a story on that. The first time we tangled with the Japs one of our machine-guns kept crouching down behind the shield which rose just under the noses of his guns. When it was over we asked him why he hadn't stood up to fire.

"Hell," he said, "I didn't want to get nicked. I was crouching down behind that armor." Then we had to tell him that shield was 3/4-inch plywood—keeps spray out of your eyes, but it can't stop anything the Japs might send. There isn't an ounce of armor steel on the boat—we're little eggshells, designed to roar in, let fly a Sunday punch, and then get the hell out, zigging to dodge the shells—but again I'm getting ahead.

"We went out to the islands last fall. I was commanding officer of the squadron—I'd picked every officer and man in the outfit from volunteers—told them we were heading for trouble. So they piled us and our six boats on a tanker. In late summer, we snuck through the Panama Canal one night, and were steaming up Manila Bay in the early fall.

"They expect you to stay there until you're killed or captured."

"On my way back here last week, I had a few hours in Honolulu, and the boys were still talking about how they'd been surprised on December 7. I don't know why they should have been, because they got the same warning we did in Manila. That war was maybe days, perhaps even only hours, away. The only thing that surprised us was that it was Pearl Harbor that got the first attack, not us.

"We'd been following the negotiations. We knew we needed sixty more days to put the islands in shape for decent defense. We needed planes and tanks. Most important of all, at least half the Filipino army had never had a uniform on until a few weeks before the fighting started. They needed training, and Washington knew this just as well as we did, and of course didn't want war.

"But now for a little geography. Here's Manila Bay—a big beautiful harbor twenty miles across. At the far end is the city of Manila, and if you were suddenly put down there, you'd think you were in Los Angeles, until you noticed the faces of the people. At the mouth of Manila Bay, the upper lip is Bataan Peninsula and the lower one is Batangas, with the Rock—Corregidor Island—a hard little pill between the two lips. And we are stationed at Cavite, the big American naval base on the lower side of the bay, about halfway between Manila and the harbor's mouth.

"We're under orders of Admiral Hart, who is Commander in Chief of the Far Eastern fleet, based there. Only how long will we stay? Because as war drew close, rumors began to fly. If it came soon, we might be getting out because we didn't have air superiority. The Japs could run down from Formosa and bag our little Asiatic fleet, so maybe we'd be pulling out for the southern islands, waiting for aircraft carriers which would bring fighters to protect us.

"The night of December 8 we were all asleep in the officers' quarters at Cavite," Bulkeley went on, "when my telephone rang about three in the morning and I first learned the Japs had struck at Pearl Harbor."

"When they struck me, I didn't believe it," said Ensign Akers. He's a tall, dark fellow from Texas. "I was sure they were kidding. I just said,

"It's a hell of a time to declare war," and rolled over."

"The message said I was to come 'The message said I was to come' on down to the Commandantia," on down to the Commandantia, and thick-walled Spanish building, when I got there, Admiral Rockwell, who was in command at Cavite, and Captain Ray, his chief of staff, were already dressed. Dawn was just beginning to break over Manila Bay, and the Admiral was watching the sky. They ought to be here any minute," he said. And then he told me to prepare my six boats for war stations. They were going to send us over to Bataan at the naval base in Mariveles Harbor, just opposite Corregidor."

"I was prepared for the war," said Kelly, the squadron's second in command, a tall blond lieutenant with quick blue eyes. "I'd heard about the secret operation orders—what the fleet would do under any of three eventualities, so the night before I'd gone over to the Army and Navy Club at Manila and put aboard the thickest charcoal-broiled file mignon I could buy there, plus French fries and a big tomato with Roquefort dressing, finishing off with brandy and a cigar. I figured I'd at least have them to remember."

"We spent that first day fully manned, anticipating a bombing attack. Five of the boats were dispersed along the shore about a hundred yards apart—the sixth was patrolling. All day we loaded them with food—cans of corned beef, Vienna sausage, vegetables, and canned potatoes—don't laugh at that, it's better than rice—canned fruit, fruit, coffee.

"I saw the first planes about noon flying out over the bay. At first I thought they were ours, but after about a minute our shore batteries opened up. They were coming over at 20,000 and of course immediately we shoved all our boats off and out into the bay. But we heard nothing drop. It was probably just a reconnaissance raid—feeling us out.

"Of course there were all kinds of rumors—that Zamboanga and Davao, down in the southern archipelago, had been taken. Also that our navy patrol planes had gone up to Northern Luzon to intercept Jap transports gathering off Aparri there. We even heard our aircraft tenders had been surprised and taken, but that one proved false. Yet that morning, nothing was sure.

"About three o'clock orders came from Squadron Commander Bulkeley to send three boats, under my command, over to Mariveles on Bataan and report to the submarine tender there for food, water, and torpedoes, and to remain on the ready—available to go out and attack anything he ordered us to. By five o'clock we cast off. We had some passengers to deliver at Corregidor, so it was eight and plenty dark before we were outside the mine fields, feeling our way into Mariveles. We thought we knew those mine fields, but in pitch-darkness, with the mine-field lights turned off and of course no lights on our boats now, it was something else again.

"At this point the army took over. They heard the roar of our motors and thought it was Jap planes. Searchlights began winking on all over Bataan, feeling up into the sky for planes—our motors were echoing against the mountains on Bataan, so they couldn't tell where the noise was coming from. Every artillery post for twenty-six kilometers around went on the alert, and for a few minutes it was a question whether we were going to be blown to hell by a mine or by one of our own shore batteries.

"But finally we snaked through, tied up alongside our sub tender, and then its skipper delivered a piece of nasty news. Told us he had orders to get under way just before daylight, out to sea—didn't know just where they were sending him—maybe south, maybe the Dutch East Indies, anyway, he wouldn't be back.

"So then the fun began. There we were—no base, rations for only ten days, and a big problem in how we were to live ourselves and what in hell we would do with the boats when the planes came over. In addition to which, we were almost flat out of gas, and what would we do for fuel to light this war?

"Pretty soon we began finding some of the answers. For instance just around the coast from Mariveles in Sisinan Cove was a native village—practically abandoned except for a few families—about twenty nipa huts in all. We moved in the contraption—single room with ground four or five feet on bamboo stilts. Under it the natives keep their pigs and chickens. The floor is split bamboo, and never very tight, so the crumbs and small pieces of garbage dropped on it can sift down into the pigs and chickens. In one on this sand they build a fire for cooking. There never is a chimney—the smoke just goes out the windows or through the floor cracks. (TO BE CONTINUED)

CHRIST'S CHARGE TO PETER

LESSON TEXT—John 21:15-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.—John 15:13.

Breakfast for a hungry fisherman—that is what our loving and thoughtful Lord had provided on the shore of Galilee. He wanted to talk to Peter, but He knew this was needful first. There are some folk who think that following Christ is a doleful matter, devoid of every pleasure. Jesus never taught any such thing. He attended weddings and dinners even in the homes of those despised by men. But remember that He always did it for their spiritual good, not merely for His own enjoyment; and that He always brought the gathering up to His own spiritual level, rather than stooping to any worldly or wicked standards.

Here we find Him with a glowing fire upon which fish is broiling, and with bread ready for these hungry men. It was just like Him thus to meet in most delightful and satisfying fellowship those who serve Him. Draw up to the fire, Christian friends who are standing afar off. You may be so timid that, like the disciples, you will not dare to call Him by name (v. 12), but if you will come, you will find that the precious fellowship will soon warm your heart.

With the meal over, Christ turned to Peter and in their conversation we find the latter required to

I. Face Responsibility (vv. 15-17).

With kindly persistence our Lord brought Peter face to face with his responsibility of full-hearted devotion to Him. Before service can be rendered there must be a right relationship to the Lord.

Three times Peter was asked to declare his love for Christ. Such a public confession was quite in place, before the man who had thrice denied his Lord was restored to a place of leadership. The words "more than these" (v. 15) indicate that Jesus was asking of him a high measure of devotion. It is no more than He has a right to expect of us. The conversation after breakfast that morning was a very profitable one. One is reminded, by contrast, that few of our mealtime discussions are very useful. Many (perhaps most) after-dinner speeches and conversations yield little profit. Here is an occasion when such was not the case. One wonders whether we would not be wise to take the suggestion and turn our thoughts and those of our dinner guests to spiritual things. Surely it should be so among Christian friends and in a Christian home.

II. Feeding Christ's Flock (vv. 15-17).

We review the same verses to point out that an expression of love to Christ means nothing except as it manifests itself in service. Like Peter, we are to be diligent about feeding His flock, whether they be the young and inexperienced lambs, or the mature sheep of the fold.

We tend to specialize. Even in soul-winning some give themselves to child evangelism while others reach only adults, and would hardly think of dealing with a child. True it is that we have varying gifts, and one does one type of work better than another. But let us avoid overspecialization. Every needy soul is a challenge to us as we present the gospel.

The word "feed" should be stressed. Here again the church has frequently failed. Men and women are won to a decision for Christ, and then forgotten. Sheep must be fed if they are to grow. A teaching ministry must accompany the evangelistic effort. They belong together, and to neglect either is to fail, at least, in that measure.

III. Follow Him to the End (vv. 18-24).

Endlessly ingenious are the devices of Satan. He who had sifted Peter like wheat (Luke 22:31) and had rejoiced in the weakness of his denial of Christ, now saw him stepping out into victorious living. He heard the prophecy of the martyr's death of Peter. So he put into his heart a question. Why should he suffer? What about John? What was the Lord going to do for him?

When our enemy cannot trip us up with temptation to personal sin, he resorts to the device of jealousy. Many promising Christian workers have become useless because they have taken their eyes off Jesus and put them on the persons and work of other Christians. Doing a work which was difficult and unnoticed but very important to God, they have felt the urge to quit because someone else seemed to have the easier task and receive more recognition. The answer of Jesus in verse 22 plainly states that it is not the place of one disciple to judge the course of life of another, nor to gauge his own devotion to Christ by another's place or service.

The word of Christ to us is the same as to Peter: "Follow me." We have all we can do to live our own lives in a manner well-pleasing to our Lord.

Neat Trick for Stretching Meat-Scrapple (See Recipe Below)

Make Red Points Work!

Making red points fit your menus and still give you plenty of valuable proteins and fats on which to do a man-sized day's work is like working out a jig-saw puzzle. But you remember how they all can come out if you try hard enough? The answer is in budgeting your points before you spend them, getting meats with low point value, and extending flavor of meat as much as possible.

First of all, let's realize that meat is a high quality protein, and that the body needs it for repairing and building tissue—which is a full-time job. We designate proteins as complete and incomplete, the ones which are complete do a complete job of body building and repairing. Complete proteins are meat, cheese, fish, poultry, eggs and milk.

Incomplete proteins are those which can do just part of the job, and in this class we have breads, cereals, beans, peas and nuts. Of course we can use these foods alternately or in combination with meat, when we cannot get enough meat to fill our requirements. But, always, please bear the difference in mind.

Pork is our foremost source of thiamin or vitamin B₁—sometimes called the pep and energy vitamin because of its important contribution to mental health. Here pork sausage is combined with a cereal for a really delicious "stretched" dish:

All-Bran Scrapple.

(Serves 8)

- 1 pound fresh pork sausage
- 2 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered sage
- Few grains cayenne
- 1/2 cup cornmeal
- 1/2 cup bran cereal

Brown sausage in heavy skillet, stirring occasionally; pour off and save fat. Bring water to a boil, add salt, pepper, sage and cayenne. Stir in cornmeal gradually; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add bran cereal and sausage and mix thoroughly. Pour into dampened loaf pan; chill until firm. Unmold. Cut into 1/2-inch slices and brown in sausage fat on hot griddle. Serve with maple syrup or apple butter.

Chicken is a complete protein—and goes a long way, nicely in this delightful fruity salad which you'll enjoy serving company or Sunday night supper guests:

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: With 35 million homemakers carrying ration books to the grocers, new ways for managing limited foods are the order of the day.

Many of these homemakers are accustomed to pulling off cans from their shelves, or taking quick-frozen food from their storage lockers. Now they will have to glean all possible facts from labels of these processed foods, budget their points carefully.

It's smart to buy the size of can most profitable for her own individual family. Keep a table of equivalents handy in your purse until you become proficient. Usually, 16 ounces or one fluid pint will fill two measuring cups. The 12-ounce size will fill four cups.

Remember canned vegetables are already cooked and need be brought only to boiling to be ready to serve.

Buying fresh fruits and vegetables relieves pressure on canned goods.

This Week's Menu

- *Stuffed Veal Hearts
- Buttered Noodles
- Quick-Cooked Green Cabbage
- Grated Carrot—Fresh Grapefruit Salad
- Whole Wheat Rolls Jelly
- Rhubarb Sauce Cookies
- Beverage
- *Recipe Given.

Orange-Chicken Salad.

(Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 cups orange sections
- 2 cups cooked chicken, minced
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup lemon french dressing
- Lettuce and other greens

Toss orange sections, chicken and celery together with the lemon french dressing. Arrange on six individual beds of greens or lettuce.

Kidney beans are a second-class or incomplete protein food, but they are fine to use on that extra day when there are no red points left over for meat. Dried peas and lentils have a low point value which makes them fine for tide-overs on meatless days: Grated cheese adds food value, takes only a few red points:

Kidney Bean Loaf.

(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 cups dry kidney beans
- 2 cups water
- 4 cups stale bread crumbs
- 2 cups grated cheese
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Soak beans overnight in the 2 cups water. In the morning, bring to a boil in the same liquid and then simmer until beans are tender. Mash beans fine and add all other ingredients, mixing well. Pack in to a loaf pan and bake 1 1/2 hours in a 325-degree oven. Baste occasionally with 1 tablespoon melted butter and 1/4 cup water.

You may use fish generously as a real menu aid during these days. Many types of fish are in season all the year round, and a great many other come in season during spring:

Fish Loaf.

(Serves 4)

- 2 cups flaked, steamed fish
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 cup medium white sauce

Combine, fish, salt, beaten egg yolks, white sauce and beaten egg whites. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

*Stuffed Veal Hearts.

(Serves 5)

- 2 veal hearts
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 1/2 cups fine bread crumbs
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup water
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 2 cups stewed tomatoes
- 2 whole cloves
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Clean hearts by cutting through side to center, open with a sharp knife, cut out all veins and arteries. Wash well. Make a dressing by cooking onion and celery in shortening. Add crumbs, salt, pepper and water. Stuff the hearts with dressing and tie together with string. Roll hearts in flour, brown in shortening. Add tomatoes, cloves, bay leaf. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with tight fitting lid and cook on low heat for 1 1/2 hours.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination, sometimes water that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging back-ache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Neat Trick for Stretching Meat-Scrapple (See Recipe Below)

Make Red Points Work!

Making red points fit your menus and still give you plenty of valuable proteins and fats on which to do a man-sized day's work is like working out a jig-saw puzzle. But you remember how they all can come out if you try hard enough? The answer is in budgeting your points before you spend them, getting meats with low point value, and extending flavor of meat as much as possible.

First of all, let's realize that meat is a high quality protein, and that the body needs it for repairing and building tissue—which is a full-time job. We designate proteins as complete and incomplete, the ones which are complete do a complete job of body building and repairing. Complete proteins are meat, cheese, fish, poultry, eggs and milk.

Incomplete proteins are those which can do just part of the job, and in this class we have breads, cereals, beans, peas and nuts. Of course we can use these foods alternately or in combination with meat, when we cannot get enough meat to fill our requirements. But, always, please bear the difference in mind.

Pork is our foremost source of thiamin or vitamin B₁—sometimes called the pep and energy vitamin because of its important contribution to mental health. Here pork sausage is combined with a cereal for a really delicious "stretched" dish:

All-Brin Scrapple.

- (Serves 8)
- 1 pound fresh pork sausage
- 2 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered sage
- Few grains cayenne
- 1/2 cup cornmeal
- 1/2 cup bran cereal

Brown sausage in heavy skillet, stirring occasionally; pour off and save fat. Bring water to a boil, add salt, pepper, sage and cayenne. Stir in cornmeal gradually; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add bran cereal and sausage and mix thoroughly. Pour into dampened loaf pan; chill until firm. Unmold. Cut into 1/2-inch slices and brown in sausage fat on hot griddle. Serve with maple syrup or apple butter.

Chicken is a complete protein—and goes a long way, nicely in this delightful fruity salad which you'll enjoy serving company or Sunday night supper guests:

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: With 35 million homemakers carrying ration books to the grocers, new ways for managing limited foods are the order of the day.

Many of these homemakers are accustomed to pulling off cans from their shelves, or taking quick-frozen food from their storage lockers. Now they will have to glean all possible facts from labels of these processed foods, budget their points carefully.

It's smart to buy the size of can most profitable for her own individual family. Keep a table of equivalents handy in your purse until you become proficient. Usually, 16 ounces or one fluid pint will fill two measuring cups. The 12-ounce size will fill four cups.

Remember canned vegetables are already cooked and need be brought only to boiling to be ready to serve. Buying fresh fruits and vegetables relieves pressure on canned goods.

Orange-Chicken Salad.

- (Serves 6)
- 1 1/2 cups orange sections
- 2 cups cooked chicken, minced
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup lemon french dressing
- Lettuce and other greens

Toss orange sections, chicken and celery together with the lemon french dressing. Arrange on six individual beds of greens or lettuce.

Kidney beans are a second-class or incomplete protein food, but they are fine to use on that extra day when there are no red points left over for meat. Dried peas and lentils have a low point value which makes them fine for tide-overs on meatless days: Grated cheese adds food value, takes only a few red points:

Kidney Bean Loaf.

- (Serves 6 to 8)
- 2 cups dry kidney beans
- 2 cups water
- 4 cups stale bread crumbs
- 2 cups grated cheese
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Soak beans overnight in the 2 cups water. In the morning, bring to a boil in the same liquid and then simmer until beans are tender. Mash beans fine and add all other ingredients, mixing well. Pack into a loaf pan and bake 1 1/2 hours in a 325-degree oven. Baste occasionally with 1 tablespoon melted butter and 1/4 cup water.

You may use fish generously as a real menu aid during these days. Many types of fish are in season all the year round, and a great many other come in season during spring:

Fish Loaf.

- (Serves 4)
- 2 cups flaked, steamed fish
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 cup medium white sauce

Combine, fish, salt, beaten egg yolks, white sauce and beaten egg whites. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

*Stuffed Veal Hearts.

- (Serves 5)
- 2 veal hearts
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 1/2 cups fine bread crumbs
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup water
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 2 cups stewed tomatoes
- 2 whole cloves
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Clean hearts by cutting through side to center, open with a sharp knife, cut out all veins and arteries. Wash well. Make a dressing by cooking onion and celery in shortening. Add crumbs, salt, pepper and water. Stuff the hearts with dressing and tie together with string. Roll hearts in flour, brown in shortening. Add tomatoes, cloves, bay leaf. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with tight fitting lid and cook on low heat for 1 1/2 hours.

Sheepskins for Skymen

His woolen clothes and the sheepskin linings in his helmet, jacket, boots, and gloves keep this hard-hitting Yankee gunner warm in zero weather. The wool from 26 sheep is needed to outfit the average soldier, and, in addition, flyers need shearing sheepskin for linings that keep out crippling cold at high altitudes. With the Army and Navy getting bigger every day, sheep and wool growers are of prime importance in the 1943 Farm Mobilization Campaign, launched January 12. They are being asked to continue the high level of wool production this year, and to market more sheep and lambs when their wool is of the right length to make good sheepskin linings.

GRASSROOTS by WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WITHOUT FARMS, RANCHES, AMERICA WOULD VANISH
HE WAS a prosperous, well-fed looking individual, beside whom I sat in the lounge car of a train crossing Nebraska. He told me he lived in New York.

From the car window, we could see the western Nebraska ranch homes. "People who live in such places must be only half human to endure such a life," he said. "For the sake of the nation, and especially in wartime, it is a good thing we have places like New York to depend upon."

"The man who lives in that house over there," I replied, as I pointed to a not-too-pretentious ranch house,
"is one of the kings of America. He rules over a few hundred or a few thousand acres. People of New York and other cities are but his subjects. Without him and his kind your cities would not exist. He supplies the foundation upon which not only the cities, but the nation is built. He thinks more intelligently than do 75 per cent of the people of the cities. He represents the culture of America. He supplies the food, that first essential of both peace and war. He is intensely patriotic. He works whatever number of hours are required to do the job in order that you, and your kind, may live.
He, and his kind—people of the farms and ranches and those of the rural cities and towns through which we are passing, constitute the most valuable 50 per cent of the population of our nation. They, not the people of the cities, represent the real humans of America. People of the cities, that rancher's subjects, would do well to emulate his many virtues and his patriotism."

Of course I did not convince the New York gentleman that he and his kind living in the cities were not the first and most valuable citizens of the nation, but I told him a few plain truths, which I hope he may think about. Without the farms and ranches, there would be no cities, and no America.

ADVANTAGES OF FARM IN 'RATIONED DAYS'

IN MANY CITIES you go to the market with the hope of getting something for the family table. It is not a question of selections—it is a case of accepting, with thanks, whatever you can get. In limited quantities, you can find canned fruits and vegetables—about half the quantity the family had in pre-rationing days. In the line of fresh vegetables, you may find one or two varieties, but more often there is none. In meats, you may get a sirloin steak at one time and nothing better than neck bones another, but frequently it will be none of any kind. You do not ask for beef or lamb or veal or pork. You ask only for meat, and are pleased at your good fortune if you get any.

How different on the farm in these war days. Mother canned the fruits and vegetables for the family. In the cellar are rows of peas, tomatoes, corn and all the other good things produced in the garden. In the bins are potatoes and apples, and on the fruit shelves are peaches, cherries, plums, berries and other fruits, with jar after jar of mother's preserves and jellies. In the barnyard there is always a fat chicken for the family dinner. There is a hog from which can come roast pork, chops, spareribs, bacon and hams,
as well as the makings of sausage.
There is lamb and veal and beef.
You have eggs when you want them and as many as you want.
You eat butter on your bread, the kind of butter only mother can make, and you do not have to be satisfied with oleomargarine, or perhaps nothing.

That old wood heater and the kitchen cockstove filled with the product of the wood lot provide the degree of heat you enjoy and you need not shiver with the thermometer limited to 60 or 65 degrees.

Under any conditions, there are many compensations for those living on the farms, but hard as the war
rationings are for all of us, the farm families have the best of it in many ways. They do not have to carefully count rationing points in order to determine what they will eat—if they can get it.

YOU CAN HELP

IT IS REMARKABLE what even
a few square feet of ground can do in alleviating the food shortage. Last year four tomato plants in a space
of two by two feet provided practically all the tomatoes the family needed throughout the summer. The space between the curb and sidewalk in front of your home would provide much of the vegetable supply for the summer.

TWO METHODS

ONE WAY EFFORT might have been equally successful had we started with the purpose of maxi-mizing production at the lowest possible cost, instead of maximizing production at the highest possible cost.
That of such a program we would not have had the serious danger of inflation, we would not have made monuments of labor and materials, we would not have added the long lines of "poor and needy," while we paid, during a rationing period, the highest prices for commodities.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

Put Health Into Menus With Vitamins Plus

Crisp greens give you plenty of vitamin A, B and C. Assemble them in your salads and get plenty of health insurance—you don't need points to shop for these.

What's the pep appeal of your meals these days? It should be better than ever before with spring vegetables dotting the markets colorfully in greens, yellows and reds.
Many vitamin
and mineral laden fruits are just coming into season so you homemakers should have no trouble getting your quota of two fruits, two vegetables and a citrus fruit into your family's diets.

In winter it is sometimes extremely difficult to meet that nutrition requirement because of the scarcity of vegetables and fruits and their consequent high prices. Now, though prices are higher than last year at this time, they are abundant, and most of us can afford to spend the extra money required to buy them.

Perhaps, you have a garden this year. You're probably planning to put up most of the produce, but you always have some crops available for immediate consumption such as lettuce, tender green shoots of onions, etc. In some parts of the country it's a bit early for some of these to make their appearance, but when they do, up and at them!

Homemakers are fortunately becoming more and more conscious of the importance of fruits and vegetables in the diet, and the more so they become, the more healthy will become each generation of Americans. Even those of you who have been deficient in these foods during the growing years will get much benefit from including these foods in your diet. A heavy meal calls for the light, crisp, "just right" feeling which fruits and vegetables supply.

Remember vitamins and minerals work hand in hand to give your body health and to keep it in good workable order. Most vegetables have many of both minerals and vitamins. It is interesting to know
that greens (lettuce, parsley, watercress, turnip greens, etc.) are rich not only in iron that makes for good, rich blood,
but also in vitamin A which promotes good health of skin, eyes, and keeps you buoyant and full of energy. The greens get a nice big star for being rich in Vitamin C, necessary for health of teeth and bones, and for quick healing of wounds.

Don't be surprised when the greens come in for a nice share of honors for vitamin B, also. That's the vitamin necessary for normal
nutrition.
Easiest way to keep most of the vitamins intact is to serve the vegetables raw—as you would in a salad.
The same goes for fruits. Don't let either of them soak in water or stand uncovered in the refrigerator
—the vitamins seem to evaporate quickly, especially in the case of vitamin C, so easily lost by cooking or leaving exposed to air.

Lynn Says:

Fresh as a Day in May! So will be your foods if you keep them properly refrigerated. Desserts to cool you off and keep your appetites unjaded, if they're to be fresh, belong right in the freezer.
Meats and fish are safest kept right under the freezer in a meat-keeper if you have one.

Milk, cream and beverages are stored alongside the freezer unit.
Custards, puddings, butter and eggs fit the middle section
nicely, are easy to get at.
Lettucens, foods prepared ahead, meats, some fruits and berries are well refrigerated when kept on one of the lower shelves. The freezer or refrigerator must not be full but it should be filled with fresh fruits and vegetables crisp and well refrigerated.

The average bin at the bottom of the refrigerator is usually unutilized, and gives splendid storage for canned vegetables and other delicacies.

Keeping vegetables well refrigerated insures at least a good degree of vitamin preservation. Keep them covered, too!

Arrange your crisp raw fruits and vegetables attractively. If you'd like to have some fun, really, then take out the old geometry text, and follow some patterns you find therein
—they're fine inspiration for attractive appearing vegetable and fruit
dishes.

Cottage Cheese-Vegetable Salad.

(Serves 6 to 8)
2 cups cottage cheese
1 garlic clove (optional)
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped chives or green onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/4 cup chopped celery
Paprika
2 cucumbers
1 medium sized onion
2 large tomatoes
2 carrots
French dressing
Salad greens

Rub mixing bowl with clove of garlic. Add cottage cheese, salt, and paprika. Fold
in chopped chives,
pimiento, celery.
Turn into a bowl
that has been rinsed with cold water. Chill in refrigerator. Un-
mold on center of large salad plate, surround with watercress, thin cucumber slices, onion rings, carrot flowers, tomato wedges. Serve with french dressing.

A salad bowl that's popping
full of health with its tomato slices (vitamin C) lettuce (vitamins A and C), bananas (A, B, C), green peppers (A and very much C).

Here's a vegetable that makes a main dish when combined with macaroni:

Green Pepper Stuffed With Macaroni.

(Serves 6)
6 green peppers
1 cup cooked, elbow macaroni
1/2 pound grated American cheese
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1/4 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt

Cut a slice from top of green pepper, scoop out, and cook in boiling salted water for 5 minutes. Drain.
Mix remaining ingredients, saving
1/4 of cheese for top. Fill peppers with mixture, stand upright in pan
and sprinkle remaining cheese over top. Bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes.

Jaded appetites will respond quickly if you serve this delectable
cool pudding:

*Orangeade Refrigerator Pudding.

(Serves 9)
14 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups orange juice
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar
4 cups oven popped rice cereal
1/4 cup melted butter
1/4 cup sugar

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat orange juice, sugar and salt to boiling point. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which sugar has been added.

Crush cereal crumbs fine and mix with melted butter and sugar. Distribute evenly in bottom of a square pan and press down firmly. Pour in orange mixture. Chill in refrigerator. Cut in squares when firm, and serve with whole orange slices and whipped cream, if desired.

PETER AND JOHN LEADERS IN THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:37-41; 3:1-8; 4:13;
13-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men,
they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.—
Acts 4:13.

Does the Church have a message for our day? Sometimes one wonders a bit, but a little thought indicates that if it does not, it is not because Christianity has failed, but because Christian people have failed to declare the eternal and powerful truth of God. The primary responsibility for any such failure must rest upon the leaders of the Church.

It is instructive to see the qualities which made the leaders of the early Church effective for the Lord. In our lesson we find Peter and John
doing three things.

I. Declaring God's Word (Acts 2: 37-41).

Peter had just finished the first sermon preached in the Church,
which was delivered at Pentecost.
The declaration of God's truth in the power of the Holy Spirit brought conviction of sin. It always does,
although the outward indication of its working may not be as marked
as it was on that day. Three thousand souls were under conviction
and asking what to do to be saved.

What an opportunity for the preacher and his fellow worker, John. How did they meet it? By faithfully declaring the need of repentance and faith, and then of fellowship with others in the Church.

One mark of a real leader for God will always be that he preaches and teaches the message of God without adulteration, without modification,
and with plainness and simplicity.
The kind of leadership which is often magnified in the Church today
and which is largely made up of personal magnetism, "pep" and fast
talk, is not real leadership at all.
Test your leaders by their faithful and intelligent declaration of God's Word.

II. Conveying God's Power (Acts 3:1-8).

"Channels only"—that is the function of the worker for Christ, the leader in His Church. As Mary
Maxwell well put it:

Channels only, blessed Master,
With all Thy wondrous power
Flowing through us, Thou canst use us
Every day and every hour.

Silver and gold was a scarce commodity with Peter and John, as it has been with many, yes most, of God's servants through the centuries. But they did have the blessed privilege of being channels through which the healing, cleansing, redeeming power of God could flow—
and that was infinitely better.

The lame man had long since
given up hope of anything better than the few coins he could beg at the temple gate. He was like many in our hard and practical age who see only the values that money can give, and thus miss the real blessing
of God.

God has for men today, as He had
for this beggar, that which is far better than gold—deliverance from sin and liberation from the limitations of spirit which make them content with the paltry aims of men.

Peter and John were ready to be used of God because they were men who were not too busy to pray
(v. 1). Knowing the compassion of God they sought out the one in need,
and by faith put the unlimited power
of God to work on his behalf.

God healed this man's body, but what is more important, He healed
his spirit (v. 8). We need that kind of healing for the weak-kneed, lameankled, spirit-darkened individuals
in our communities and our churches. We will have it only as our leaders are men and women who are cleansed—ready to be channels for the conveying of God's power to a needy world.

III. Doing God's Will (Acts 4:13, 18-21).

The way of life of God's leaders is not an easy one, but it is a simple
one. They do God's will—nothing less, nothing more, and nothing else.
What could be more delightful?

Peter and John had spoken the truth and declared salvation to be only in the name of Jesus (v. 12).
Certain easy talkers within the Church who tell us that we must not be narrow but broad enough to see salvation in all religions, had better read that verse again.

Because they had preached Christ,
and for no other reason, they were imprisoned, then released on condition that they would not mention
Him again. What a splendid opportunity for a smooth and comfortable compromise! They could preach but just leave out Christ. Did they do it? No! (vv. 18, 20).

Obedience to God was paramount with them, and it must be with every genuinely Christian leader in the Church. Nothing else will do, nor will it have the blessing and approval of God.

JUST US THINKING

Common Thing
"People should marry their opposites."

"Most people are convinced they did."

Small girl just home from Sunday school: "Mummy, we had a Bible lesson this morning, and teacher told us all about the ten commandos."

Reversed Courting
"Jeff spent four years courting that girl, and now she's thrown him over for another. How come?"
"He spent less time and more money."

SHUT IT UP

"I got a new attachment for the family piano and it's a wonderful improvement."
"What is it?"
"A lock and key."

Prosale

Two married men were discussing their joys and sorrows.
"My wife," said one, "is very poetic.
She gets up at sunrise and says 'Lo, the morn!'"
"Huh!" said the other, sadly, "Mine says 'Mow the lawn!'"

A Turnabout

Judge—One year and $50 fine.
Prisoner's Lawyer—Your honor,
I beg the sentence be reversed.
Judge—Very well. Fifty years and $1 fine.

Her Whereabouts

"Well, I'm all right. I've got the best mother-in-law in the country."
"Yes, it makes a difference having her in the country."

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—in the risk of exposure and infection—these heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter wastes and acid waste impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache,
headache, dizziness, getting up nights,
tingling, pain, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's helps the kidneys to pass off harmful waste body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are necessarily good. Get Doan's at all drug stores.

kitchen cockstove filled with the product of the wood lot provide the degree of heat you enjoy and you need not shiver with the thermometer limited to 60 or 65 degrees.

Under any conditions, there are
many compensations for those living
on the farms, but hard as the war
rationings are for all of us, the farm families have the best of it in many ways. They do not have to carefully count rationing points in order to determine what they will eat—if they can get it.

YOU CAN HELP

IT IS REMARKABLE what even
a few square feet of ground can do
in alleviating the food shortage. Last year four tomato plants in a space
of two by two feet provided practically all the tomatoes the family needed throughout the summer. The space between the curb and sidewalk in front of your home would provide much of the vegetable supply for the summer.

TWO METHODS

ONE WAY EFFORT might have been equally successful had we started with the purpose of maxi-mizing production at the lowest possible cost, instead of maximizing production at the highest possible cost.
That of course is a program we would not have had the chance to carry out.
We would not have had the time to "plant and grow," while we prepare a collection period, the season, and so on.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

Put Health Into Menus With Vitamins Plus

Crisp greens give you plenty
of vitamin A, B and C. Assemble
them in your salads and get plenty of health insurance—you don't need
points to shop for these.

What's the pep appeal of your meals these days? It should be better than ever before with spring
vegetables dotting the markets col-
orfully in greens, yellows and reds.
Many vitamin
and mineral laden fruits are just coming into season so you homemakers should have no trouble getting your quota of two fruits, two vegetables and a citrus fruit into
your family's diets.

In winter it is sometimes extremely difficult to meet that nutrition requirement because of the scarcity
of vegetables and fruits and their consequent high prices. Now, though prices are higher than last year at this time, they are abundant, and most of us can afford to spend the extra money required to buy them.

Perhaps, you have a garden this year. You're probably planning to put up most of the produce, but you always have some crops available for immediate consumption such as lettuce, tender green shoots of onions, etc. In some parts of the country it's a bit early for some of these to make their appearance, but when they do, up and at them!

Homemakers are fortunately becoming more and more conscious of the importance of fruits and vegetables in the diet, and the more so
they become, the more healthy will become each generation of Americans. Even those of you who have been deficient in these foods during the growing years will get much benefit from including these foods in your diet. A heavy meal calls for the light, crisp, "just right" feeling
which fruits and vegetables supply.

Remember vitamins and minerals
work hand in hand to give your body health and to keep it in good workable order. Most vegetables have many of
both minerals and vitamins. It is interesting to know
that greens (lettuce, parsley, watercress, turnip greens, etc.) are rich not only in iron that makes for good, rich blood,
but also in vitamin A which promotes good health of skin, eyes, and
keeps you buoyant and full of energy. The greens get a nice big star for being rich in Vitamin C, necessary for health of teeth and bones, and for quick healing of wounds.

Don't be surprised when the greens come in for a nice share of honors for vitamin B, also. That's the vitamin necessary for normal
nutrition.
Easiest way to keep most of the vitamins intact is to serve the vegetables raw—as you would in a salad.
The same goes for fruits. Don't let either of them soak in water or stand uncovered in the refrigerator
—the vitamins seem to evaporate
quickly, especially in the case of vitamin C, so easily lost by cooking
or leaving exposed to air.

Lynn Says:

Fresh as a Day in May! So will be your foods if you keep them properly refrigerated. Desserts to cool you off and keep your appetites unjaded, if they're to be
fresh, belong right in the freezer.
Meats and fish are safest kept right under the freezer in a meat-keeper if you have one.

Milk, cream and beverages are stored alongside the freezer unit.
Custards, puddings, butter and
eggs fit the middle section
nicely, are easy to get at.

Let us have, foods prepared ahead, which, some fruits and berries are well refrigerated
when kept on one of the lower shelves. The freezer or freezer meat-keeper is just for large meats and fish and vegetables only
and well refrigerated.

The storage bin at the bottom of the refrigerator is usually unrefrigerated, and gives splendid storage to canned vegetables and other vegetables.

Keeping vegetables well refrigerated insures at least a good degree
of vitamin preservation. Keep them
covered, too!

Arrange your crisp raw fruits and vegetables attractively. If you'd like to have some fun, really, then take
out the old geometry text, and follow some patterns you find therein
—they're fine inspiration for attractive appearing vegetable and fruit
dishes.

Cottage Cheese-Vegetable Salad.

(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 cups cottage cheese
- 1 garlic clove (optional)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons chopped chives or green onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- Paprika
- 2 cucumbers
- 1 medium sized onion
- 2 large tomatoes
- 2 carrots
- French dressing
- Salad greens

Rub mixing bowl with clove of garlic. Add cottage cheese, salt,
and paprika. Fold
in chopped chives,
pimiento, celery.
Turn into a bowl
that has been rinsed with cold water. Chill in refrigerator. Un-
mold on center of
large salad plate, surround with watercress, thin cucumber slices, onion rings, carrot flowers, tomato wedges. Serve with french dressing.

A salad bowl that's popping
full of health with its tomato slices
(vitamin C) lettuce (vitamins A and C), bananas (A, B, C), green peppers (A and very much C).

Here's a vegetable that makes a main dish when combined with macaroni:

Green Pepper Stuffed With Macaroni.

(Serves 6)

- 6 green peppers
- 1 cup cooked, elbow macaroni
- 1/2 pound grated American cheese
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1/4 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Cut a slice from top of green pepper, scoop out, and cook in boiling
salted water for 5 minutes. Drain.
Mix remaining ingredients, saving
1/4 of cheese for top. Fill peppers
with mixture, stand upright in pan
and sprinkle remaining cheese over top. Bake in a moderate oven 25
minutes.

Jaded appetites will respond quickly if you serve this delectable
cool pudding:

*Orangeade Refrigerator Pudding.

(Serves 9)

- 14 tablespoon gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1 1/2 cups orange juice
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 egg whites
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 4 cups oven popped rice cereal
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 1/4 cup sugar

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat
orange juice, sugar and salt to boiling point. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice
and cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which sugar has been added.

Crush cereal crumbs fine and mix
with melted butter and sugar. Distribute evenly in bottom of a square
pan and press down firmly. Pour in orange mixture. Chill in refrigerator. Cut in squares when firm, and serve with whole orange slices and
whipped cream, if desired.

PETER AND JOHN LEADERS IN THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 1:37-41; 2:1-5; 4:13;
13-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived
that they were unlearned and ignorant men,
they marvelled; and they took knowledge of
them, that they had been with Jesus—
Acts 4:13.

Does the Church have a message
for our day? Sometimes one wonders a bit, but a little thought indicates that if it does not, it is not because Christianity has failed, but because Christian people have failed to declare the eternal and powerful truth of God. The primary responsibility for any such failure must rest upon the leaders of the Church.

It is instructive to see the qualities
which made the leaders of the early Church effective for the Lord. In our lesson we find Peter and John
doing three things.

I. Declaring God's Word (Acts 2: 37-41).

Peter had just finished the first
sermon preached in the Church,
which was delivered at Pentecost.
The declaration of God's truth in the power of the Holy Spirit brought conviction of sin. It always does,
although the outward indication of
its working may not be as marked
as it was on that day. Three thousand souls were under conviction
and asking what to do to be saved.

What an opportunity for the
preacher and his fellow worker,
John. How did they meet it? By faithfully declaring the need of repentance and faith, and then of fellowship with others in the Church.

One mark of a real leader for God
will always be that he preaches and
teaches the message of God without adulteration, without modification,
and with plainness and simplicity.
The kind of leadership which is often magnified in the Church today
and which is largely made up of personal magnetism, "pep" and fast
talk, is not real leadership at all.
Test your leaders by their faithful
and intelligent declaration of God's Word.

II. Conveying God's Power (Acts 3:1-8).

"Channels only"—that is the function of the worker for Christ, the
leader in His Church. As Mary
Maxwell well put it:

Channels only, blessed Master,
But with all Thy wondrous power
Flowing through us, Thou canst use us
Every day and every hour.

Silver and gold was a scarce commodity with Peter and John, as it has been with many, yes most, of God's servants through the centuries. But they did have the blessed privilege of being channels through which the healing, cleansing, redeeming power of God could flow—
and that was infinitely better.

The lame man had long since
given up hope of anything better than the few coins he could beg at
the temple gate. He was like many
in our hard and practical age who
see only the values that money can give, and thus miss the real blessing
of God.

God has for men today, as He had
for this beggar, that which is far better than gold—deliverance from
sin and liberation from the limitations of spirit which make them content with the paltry aims of men.

Peter and John were ready to be used of God because they were men
who were not too busy to pray
(v. 1). Knowing the compassion of God they sought out the one in need,
and by faith put the unlimited power
of God to work on his behalf.

God healed this man's body, but
what is more important, He healed
his spirit (v. 8). We need that kind of healing for the weak-kneed, lameankled, spirit-darkened individuals
in our communities and our churches. We will have it only as our leaders are men and women who are cleansed—ready to be channels for the conveying of God's power to a needy world.

III. Doing God's Will (Acts 4:13, 18-21).

The way of life of God's leaders
is not an easy one, but it is a simple
one. They do God's will—nothing less, nothing more, and nothing else.
What could be more delightful?

Peter and John had spoken the truth and declared salvation to be only in the name of Jesus (v. 12).
Certain easy talkers within the Church who tell us that we must not be narrow but broad enough to see
salvation in all religions, had better read that verse again.

Because they had preached Christ,
and for no other reason, they were imprisoned, then released on condition that they would not mention
Him again. What a splendid opportunity for a smooth and comfortable compromise! They could preach but just leave out Christ. Did they do it? No! (vv. 18, 20).

Obedience to God was paramount
with them, and it must be with every genuinely Christian leader in the Church. Nothing else will do, nor will it have the blessing and approval of God.

JUST THIS EVENING

Common Thing
"People should marry their opposites."
"Most people are convinced they did."

Small girl just home from Sunday school: "Mummy, we had a Bible lesson this morning, and teacher told us all about the ten commandos."

Reversed Courting
"Jeff spent four years courting
that girl, and now she's thrown him over for another. How come?"
"He spent less time and more money."

"I got a new attachment for the family piano and it's a wonderful improvement."
"What is it?"
"A lock and key."

Prosale
Two married men were discussing
their joys and sorrows.
"My wife," said one, "is very poetic.
She gets up at sunrise and says 'Lo, the
morn!'"
"Huh!" said the other, sadly, "Mine
says 'Mow the lawn!'"

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry,
irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the risk of exposure and infection—these heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache,
headache, dizziness, getting up nights,
tingling, pinching, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all even out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent
urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's helps the kidneys to pass off harmful acids, body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recom-

Old Sweet Still Sour

A lot of West Virginia business people who did work or furnished materials and equipment for Old Sweet Springs on direct order and authorization of the state board of control are reported to have been left holding the bag. They haven't been paid, and the board says there is no money legally available with which to pay them.

They say the 1943 Legislature did not appropriate any money for Old Sweet except the little that was provided for moving the patients into real hospitals. While the statement is true, it is also true that the Legislature never did provide any money for Old Sweet. Governor Neely and his board of control simply took money belonging to Hopewell and used it up in Monroe county.

Court action by these creditors of the state is expected, even if such action means suing the board of control members and the members of the board of public works on their bonds.

Bailey "Surprised"

Cleveland M. Bailey, state budget director, has announced his "surprise" that the Legislature gave the state road commission plenty of money with which to operate.

The only surprising thing about Bailey's surprise is that he was surprised. The Legislature and the public knew long ago that the state road commission was given plenty of money for the next two years. According to Bailey, they'll even have about $3,000,000 in "free balances".

Whiskey Board Acts Wisely

The state liquor control commission has issued an order that purchasers hereafter will have to show their state's registration card before they can buy whiskey or wine. The commission issued the order to prevent out-of-state buyers from draining the state's supply, and to try to prevent bootleggers stocking up at state stores.

Whatever else the order may accomplish, it will—if honestly obeyed—prevent the sale of liquor and wine to minors.

Blames the OPA

The "hanging" of the Office of Price Administration in the Washington and Cleveland and West Virginia offices has imposed "severe hardships" on the people of West Virginia, says a spokesman for the state association of retail grocers.

Retail store shortages have occurred in places like Harrison county, where lots of good beef cattle range the hills, ready for market; and in Logan county, where workers in the mines desperately need their full portion of red meat. Vegetable shortages are also occurring at various places in the state.

The main trouble seems to be in the price ceilings. Larders, for instance, bring $9 cents a pound, whereas at Charleston that of Charleston is $10 cents and their territory isn't got it.

It's Their Privilege!

In 1938, Governor M. M. Bailey, then in the United States Senate, moved to favor of the leftists' economic program, which practically amounted to giving government politicians who were with the government for a third term. Today, Mr. Bailey is visiting Kentucky, but he is still in the position of a third term. He is still in the position of a third term. He is still in the position of a third term.

"AMERICAN CODE"

We're on our way, a call to pay.
As we once did before
It's just and fair, Harry Hitler,
In love or bloody war

We'll soon be there, to hear your prayer
This time you'll not get by,
Your Horde's have trod, forbidden sod,
And watched your victims die.

It won't be long, until the dawn,
When you must stand alone,
A bloody war to answer for,
And reap that which you've sown.

Nations that fell, 'mid shot and shell,
Beneath your murderous might,
Will rise again, to face when,
Your day has turned to night.

They'll strew your path, with thorns of wrath,
From which there'll be no flight,
In vain you'll call for rocks to fall,
And hide you from their sight.

Cheer up oppressed, there'll soon be rest,
America has come
To set you free from Tyranny,
And banish Nazi scum.

We ride the breeze, o'er land and seas,
We sail the ocean blue
To join hands in Foreign Lands,
With men whose hearts are true.

We stand, we fight, for freedoms right,
That all men might be free,
Our code is peace that cannot cease,
Love, Life, and Liberty.

Our Banner waves o'er soldier's graves,
In many Foreign Lands,
We ask no pay, that's just our way—
Loyal Americans.

To God we trust a cause that's just,
Our own Democracy;
Give us, O Lord, as our reward
Unchallenged Victory.

New Deal, Mr. Roosevelt said that he was spending billions of the peoples money for WPA projects instead of for preparation for war. When far-sighted citizens urged that the boys in the CCC camps be given rudimentary military training, without guns, simply to build them up physically, the administration refused.

Today, Mr. Roosevelt suggests that it would be a good thing for all young men to serve, at least one year in the army.

State House Has Candidate

The state house candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor will be Bailey—not Ernest, of the road commission, but Senator Robert D. Bailey, of Wyoming county, former judge of the circuit court there. That's the way things stack up now.

Tale Of A Pig

A strange and complicated story about a stray pig was related by the noted historian, John Plake, in his "Beginnings of New England." This pig was brought in the year 1443 to a certain Captain Keayne, of Boston, a rich man deemed to be hard and overbearing towards the poor. The Captain "gave due public notice through the town order" but no one appeared then to claim the pig.

Later, after the Captain had killed one of his own pigs which he had kept in the same sty with the stray, "a poor woman named Sherman" came to see whether the stray was one she had lost. Since she did not recognize it, she claimed that the Captain had killed her pig instead of his own. She brought the case before the elders of the church who ruled against her. Next she accused Keayne of theft but a jury cleared him. He then sued her for defamation and got what for that time was

Worthy Grand Matron To Visit Pocahontas Eastern Star Chapters

Mrs. Mildred M. Cramblet, Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Jurisdiction of West Virginia, Order of Eastern Star, will make a visit of inspection to the four Eastern Star lodges in Pocahontas county from May 12 to May 15.

MRS. MILDRED M. CRAMBLET, Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Jurisdiction of West Virginia.

Mrs. Cramblet is the wife of Dr. Wilbur Cramblet, president of Bethany College. They are the parents of three children, two sons serving in the United States Army, and a daughter, who is a senior at Bethany. The Worthy Grand Matron is a talented person with a sweet and gracious manner which has endeared her to her associate Grand Officers, as she has progressed regularly through the stations from Grand Warden in 1932, to the office of Worthy Matron in 1942.

On Wednesday evening, May 12, Mrs. Cramblet will visit Huntersville Chapter No. 120, and following the meeting entertainment has been arranged by the Worthy Matron of that lodge, Mrs. Vella McMillon, who will have Mrs. Cramblet as her guest on Wednesday night.

Thursday, May 13, the Worthy Grand Matron will inspect the chapter at Cass, and will be the guest of Mrs. Mable Irvine. Members of the Presbyterian auxiliary will serve a chicken salad course after the meeting there.

Marlinton Chapter No. 37, will give a dinner at the Methodist Church here at 6 o'clock Friday, May 14, in honor of Mrs. Cramblet, with Mrs. E. H. Williams, Worthy Matron, presiding. The meeting and inspection will be held at the lodge hall following the dinner.

The Worthy Grand Matron's final visit in the county will be made at Hillsboro Chapter No. 93, on Saturday evening, May 15. Mrs. Jessie Beckett, Worthy Matron, will be in charge of the meeting, and while in the Hillsboro community, Mrs. Cramblet will be the guest of Mrs. Lucy Sheets. Mrs. Harriet Willhide of Cass visited the Hillsboro chapter last Tuesday for a school of instruction.

Miss Helen Gay of Franklin received painful injuries in a car wreck in that town last Saturday evening, and was brought to the Marlinton Memorial Hospital, where she is receiving treatment.

Kathryn Schwarz, Sgt. Grady F. Herold Married In Texas

Mercedes, Texas.—The soft glow of lighted tapers gave the only illumination for the marriage of Miss Kathryn Schwarz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Schwarz, and Sgt. Grady F. Herold, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Herold, of Marlinton, Va., at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Charles A. Tucker read the impressive double ring ceremony.

Banked with woodwardia fern and flanked by two tall white baskets of calla lilies, the fireplace was transformed into a beautiful altar-like setting. In the central niche a Madonna vase filled with baby calla lilies was accented with burning tapers. On the piano in a crystal bowl was a calla lily arrangement with glowing tapers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in white chiffon fashioned with long full sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Bands of satin on the skirt, sleeves and belt gave a shadow applique effect. A small flower ornamented hat with veil completed her attire. On her prayerbook she carried a bouquet of stephanotis which was arranged around a white orchid.

Miss Ann Schmalzried was the bride's attendant. She wore an Army gray suit, a Roman striped hat, and a corsage of gardenias. The groom's attendant was Sergeant James R. Kornstein of Coldwater, Michigan.

Before the ceremony Miss Alma Epsay accompanied by Mrs. Virginia Shotwell, sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly." During the ceremony, Mrs. Shotwell played MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose." The traditional wedding marches were also played.

The bride's mother was attired in a navy sheer trimmed with white and wore a corsage of white gardenias. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Philip Schwarz, wore a blue beumburg with a corsage of pink carnations. A reception followed the ceremony.

The three-tiered wedding cake with sugar spun rosebuds and birds in pastel shades topped with a miniature soldier groom and bride was encircled by white carnations and maidenhair fern. Mrs. Gene Schwarz cut the cake and Mrs. Robert Van Burkleo and Mrs. F. R. Jones served the punch. White carnations were also used on the buffet and elsewhere in the dining room. Miss Peggy Schwarz sister of the bride, presided at the moire satin bride's book which was designed by the groom.

A member of a pioneer Valley family, the bride is a popular member of the younger social set. She attended Mercedes high school where she was business manager of the Tiger and a member of the band. She graduated from Galena Park high school at Houston, and attended the business college at Harlingen. She is now employed at the First National Bank.

The groom, who is stationed at the Harlingen Army Gunnery School, is a 1939 graduate of Marlinton high school at West Virginia. He was art editor of the school paper and yearbook and was active in sports.—Brownsville (Texas) Herald

The Navy is still in need of experienced construction men for service in the Seabees. Mechanics, carpenters, riggers, stencildores, steel workers, electricians and many other skilled craftsmen between the ages of 17 and 50 can now volunteer for service. Salaries range from $54 to $126 a month plus 20% for overseas duty, and include quarters, food, clothing, transportation, medical and dental care, and other incidentals to which enlisted personnel are entitled. There are also allowances for dependents. Full information may be obtained at any Navy Recruiting Station.

Forest Service Experiments With Russian Dandelion

The Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has undertaken the experimental production of Kok-saghyz or Russian dandelion on 750 acres in the northern part of the United States as an emergency source of rubber. The 1943 acreage will be confined to the northern tier of states where soil and climatic conditions have been found most suitable for the growing of the Russian rubber tree.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

HOW MUCH FOOD SHOULD YOU EAT?

You may think that food requirements were measured in vitamins but before the discovery of vitamins the amount and kinds of food that should be eaten daily were measured in calories. A calorie is a measured amount of heat, that is, the amount of heat required to raise one kilogram of water (a little over two pounds) one degree centigrade (which is about 2 1/4 degrees Fahrenheit). Thus the average diet was made up of one part protein—meat, eggs, fish, two parts fats—butter, cream, fat meats and four parts starches—bread, potatoes, fruits and vegetables. In calories this would mean about 400 of proteins, 800 of fats and 1,600 of vegetables and fruits daily for average man doing some work daily. This method of calorie measurement is still in use.

In an article on nutrition in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Eugene F. DuBois and William H. Chambers, New York city, state:

The amount of heat given off by the resting man of average size (at complete rest and no digestion going on) is about equal to the heat of a 60-watt electric bulb or the flame of an alcohol lamp about one inch high. A man exercising hard equals the heat of 10 such lamps. As most of us are not at complete rest all the time, nor are we working hard all the time, the amount of food needed will depend upon how much we rest and how hard we work. Thus one table of the number of calories needed by various trades is:

Men: Tailor, 2,600; bookbinder, 3,000; shoemaker, 3,100; cabinet-maker, 3,500 to 3,600; stone mason, 4,700 to 5,200; wood sawyer, 5,500 to 6,000. There are other trades such as moulders or foundrymen, stokers, molten metal workers and others where 6,000 calories are needed daily.

Women: Stenographer or office worker, 2,000 calories; seamstress with hand needle, 2,000; seamstress with machine, 2,100 to 2,300; bookbinder, 2,100 to 2,300; household worker, 2,500 to 3,200; washer-women, 2,900 to 3,700.

Although about 90 per cent of the dogs in the United States are too small for war duty, their owners may contribute to the Dog War Fund of Dogs for Defense. A rating based on the contribution is given the animal, says Collier's. For example, $1 makes it a private or seaman, $5 a sergeant or chief petty officer, $25 a colonel or naval captain and $100 a general or admiral.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Butter will spread more smoothly and go further if a little hot milk is creamed with it.

A variety of play materials is essential for a child's all-around development. Toys are needed for vigorous physical activity, for manipulative and creative play, and for dramatic play.

Use a stiff wire brush to remove crumbs and other particles from the burners of a gas or electric stove.

To remove a stain left by adhesive tape, apply kerosene, then wash the spot with warm suds.

A paper plate glued to the bottom of a paint can will catch all drippings from the can and serves as a rest for the paint brush besides.

When washing a coat sweater or cardigan, sew up the buttonholes to prevent stretching.

Mixed with salt, vinegar will clean discolored copper, brass and silver, and remove ink stains from the fingers. Diluted with water, it will clean gilt picture frames.

WHY PUT UP WITH CONSTIPATION?

If you suffer from that common form of constipation due to lack of "bulk" in your diet, dosing yourself with harsh cathartics and laxatives will give you only temporary relief.

However, adding KELLOGG's ALL-BRAN to your regular diet and drinking plenty of water will not only get at the cause of such constipation, but will correct it.

KELLOGG's ALL-BRAN is a delicious breakfast cereal that, unlike medicinal purges, doesn't work chiefly on you—but works principally on the contents of your colon.

Try KELLOGG's ALL-BRAN, eat as directed, see if it doesn't help you, too!

FACTS ABOUT Acne, Pimples

Although the various methods of treatment help many cases of acne (pimples), the actual cause of acne is not fully known. Because it occurs at or near the age of puberty, most physicians believe that acne is in some way connected with the changes in the glands which causes boys and girls to emerge into men and women.

In the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology, Dr. Hamilton, Yale medical school, reports results in cases where he was able to bring on acne in certain individuals. He found that giving the hormone or extract of the male sex gland to boys who had not reached puberty, some of them developed blackheads, pimples, with and without pus formation. When the treatment with the sex hormone was stopped, the pimples became smaller and disappeared. When given again, the pimples returned.

This does not mean that this gland extract is the only factor entering into the cause of acne as diet, heredity, and infection may also be factors. However, despite other factors, the pimples appeared only when the sex hormone was given. "There seems to be something in this male hormone substance that stimulates the sebaceous or oil glands of the skin."

For this reason, Dr. Hamilton suggests that as there is some relation between the thyroid gland—the master gland of the body—and the sex glands, there is logical reason for the use of desiccated thyroid gland extract in cases of acne at the time of puberty. The thyroid extract checks any excess of oil pouring out from the oil glands on the skin and stimulates the skin cells to a more normal activity. The thyroid extract stimulates all the body processes and therefore the skin. Excellent results have been obtained by using viosterol by mouth and also by the use of injections of pituitary extract. As with all extracts, this should be done under supervision of a physician.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Chewing gum and rubber trees have something in common. They both are the products of latex-bearing trees. The chicle latex, from which chewing gum is made, has a high resin and low rubber content. Rubber latex has the reverse characteristics. Chicle and Castillo rubber trees are found in much the same areas in Central America.

Synthetic rubber tractor tires have been under tests by B. F. Goodrich engineers for close to a year. When synthetic rubber becomes available in sufficient quantities, farmers may expect such tires on their tractors.

A Russian rubber-bearing plant is now being successfully grown in the United States. Its value in the American rubber program, however, is still undetermined.

Tire recapping has proved its war-time value. But the recapping should be done before the tread rubber of the tire is completely worn.

You may think that food requirements were measured in vitamins but before the discovery of vitamins the amount and kinds of food that should be eaten daily were measured in calories. A calorie is a measured amount of heat, that is, the amount of heat required to raise one kilogram of water (a little over two pounds) one degree centigrade (which is about 2 1/4 degrees Fahrenheit). Thus the average diet was made up of one part protein—meat, eggs, fish, two parts fats—butter, cream, fat meats and four parts starches—bread, potatoes, fruits and vegetables. In calories this would mean about 400 of proteins, 800 of fats and 1,600 of vegetables and fruits daily for average man doing some work daily. This method of calorie measurement is still in use.

In an article on nutrition in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Eugene F. DuBois and William H. Chambers, New York city, state:

The amount of heat given off by the resting man of average size (at complete rest and no digestion going on) is about equal to the heat of a 60-watt electric bulb or the flame of an alcohol lamp about one inch high. A man exercising hard equals the heat of 10 such lamps. As most of us are not at complete rest all the time, nor are we working hard all the time, the amount of food needed will depend upon how much we rest and how hard we work. Thus one table of the number of calories needed by various trades is:

Men: Tailor, 2,600; bookbinder, 3,000; shoemaker, 3,100; cabinet-maker, 3,500 to 3,600; stone mason, 4,700 to 5,200; wood sawyer, 5,500 to 6,000. There are other trades such as moulders or foundrymen, stokers, molten metal workers and others where 6,000 calories are needed daily.

Women: Stenographer or office worker, 2,000 calories; seamstress with hand needle, 2,000; seamstress with machine, 2,100 to 2,300; bookbinder, 2,100 to 2,300; household worker, 2,500 to 3,200; washer-women, 2,900 to 3,700.

Facts About Acne, Pimples

Although the various methods of treatment help many cases of acne (pimples), the actual cause of acne is not fully known. Because it occurs at or near the age of puberty, most physicians believe that acne is in some way connected with the changes in the glands which causes boys and girls to emerge into men and women.

In the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology, Dr. Hamilton, Yale medical school, reports results in cases where he was able to bring on acne in certain individuals. He found that giving the hormone or extract of the male sex gland to boys who had not reached puberty, some of them developed blackheads, pimples, with and without pus formation. When the treatment with the sex hormone was stopped, the pimples became smaller and disappeared. When given again, the pimples returned.

This does not mean that this gland extract is the only factor entering into the cause of acne as diet, heredity, and infection may also be factors. However, despite other factors, the pimples appeared only when the sex hormone was given. "There seems to be something in this male hormone substance that stimulates the sebaceous or oil glands of the skin."

For this reason, Dr. Hamilton suggests that as there is some relation between the thyroid gland—the master gland of the body—and the sex glands, there is logical reason for the use of desiccated thyroid gland extract in cases of acne at the time of puberty. The thyroid extract checks any excess of oil pouring out from the oil glands on the skin and stimulates the skin cells to a more normal activity. The thyroid extract stimulates all the body processes and therefore the skin. Excellent results have been obtained by using viosterol by mouth and also by the use of injections of pituitary extract. As with all extracts, this should be done under supervision of a physician.

The gaily enameled unit insignia you see on a soldier's lapels and overseas cap are reproductions of his regimental shield displayed in the center of the eagle on his regimental flag. It's a part of U. S. Army tradition. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) It's a gift from the folks back home, that always rates cheers. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. WHY PUT UP WITH CONSTIPATION?

If you suffer from that common form of constipation due to lack of "bulk" in your diet, dosing yourself with harsh cathartics and laxatives will give you only temporary relief.

However, adding KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN to your regular diet and drinking plenty of water will not only get at the cause of such constipation, but will correct it.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a delicious breakfast cereal that, unlike medicinal purges, doesn't work chiefly on you—but works principally on the contents of your colon.

TRY KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, eat as directed, see if it doesn't help you, too!

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Chewing gum and rubber trees have something in common. They both are the products of latex-bearing trees. The chicle latex, from which chewing gum is made, has a high resin and low rubber content. Rubber latex has the reverse characteristics. Chicle and Castillo rubber trees are found in much the same areas in Central America.

Synthetic rubber tractor tires have been under tests by U. S. F. Goodrich engineers for close to a year. When synthetic rubber becomes available in sufficient quantities, farmers may expect such tires on their tractors.

A Russian rubber-bearing plant is now being successfully grown in the United States. Its value in the American rubber program, however, is still undetermined.

Tire recapping has proved its wartime value. But the recapping should be done before the tread rubber of the tire is completely worn.

Make Large Use of Wood To Replace Vital Steel

The War Production Board has published a booklet on "Truck Use" which gives some facts on the use of wood in the war and which points out the importance of wood at this time. Some of the facts are:

Enough steel for 180,000 medium trucks is being saved through the use of wood as a substitute for critical materials.

More than a million and a quarter tons of paperboard will be used in 1943 to package food, supplies, and munitions for overseas shipment. This is the equivalent of 1,400,000 truck loads of paperboard.

Each Liberty cargo ship takes 200,000 board feet of lumber. Use of wood saves 200 tons of steel in each ship.

Wood, most of it American, makes up one-third of the weight of all trucks, and is worth $1.10 per ton.

The use of wood in trucks is a great saving in steel. A truck made of wood would save 200 tons of steel.

NEW METHOD CLEANS SEPARATOR TWICE DAILY IN 4 MINUTES

Washing the separator in the morning and merely rinsing it after the evening separation usually takes about—

15 MINUTES

Thorough washing of separator both morning and evening by the new "wetting agent" method takes just—

One of the least-liked farm chores is all but eliminated as the result of the development by Prof. A. W. Rodnick, of Iowa State College, of a new method which makes it possible for the rural homemaker to wash her separator in only two minutes—four minutes a day. The best separator cleaning method used up to now takes at least six times as long, to say nothing of the drudgery involved.

The new method makes use neither of soap nor washing powder. Instead, it utilizes a "wetting agent" compound of the variety that have become so popular recently with housewives for many kitchen and bathroom chores. The wetting agent compound—and there are any number on the market—not only radically cuts down the time required to clean the separator but also does a much better job of cleaning than has been achieved heretofore. The new washing procedure calls for no special equipment, and requires only one pail of warm water solution which is also used to wash the pails, cans and other dairy equipment.

The full importance of this method can be appreciated when it is realized that a dirty separator is the principal source of cream, because separator is slow and bothersome, and, if improperly done, in all cases the separator becomes a breeding place for bacteria. A likely result is grade cream for which receives a low price, a loss for the creamery which produces it, and butter which will be particularly anxious. There is going to be little for any of this now that an effective washing method has been devised which requires a time to wash the separator daily than is required to do a day by the usual method.

Full information concerning new method and complete details for using it may be had from National Cream Quality Program, 110 North Franklin Street, Chicago, Illinois.

INCUMBENT OFFICIALS NOMINATED FOR JUNE 1 MUNICIPAL ELECTION

A public meeting was held in the county court room at Marlinton on Tuesday night, and a ticket was nominated for the municipal election to be held on June 1, 1943.

Temporary officer chosen for the business of the convention were Aubrey E. Ferguson, chairman, and Mrs. Pearl Yeager, secretary.

The meeting resulted in the nomination of only one ticket, to be known as the Citizens Ticket, and comprising the incumbent municipal officers, as follows:

For Mayor—Carl L. Sheets.
For Recorder—J. W. Hill.
For Council—W. L. Davis, W. H. Arbogast, J. W. Mason, Dice Grimes, and J. M. Bear.

One of the motions passed at the session empowered the chairman of the convention to appoint a committee to fill any vacancies which may occur.

Scant interest has been evidenced in the coming election, and only a bare handful of citizens were present for the meeting.

Geological Survey Issues Ohio River Basin Report

The United States Geological Survey in cooperation with West Virginia and other eastern states, has released its report on the Ohio River Basin. This report is one of a series of fourteen on the "Surface Water of the United States," and should prove helpful to industries seeking suitable locations for plants requiring abundant water supply.

Made in cooperation with the West Virginia Geological Survey and Public Service Commission; and agencies of other States, the report consists of records of stage, and measurements of discharge of the Monongahela, Allegheny, Big Sandy and other tributaries of the Ohio. It also includes general information used to supplement the records of stage and discharge measurements in daily flow of these rivers.

The data have been collected and recorded at various gaging stations established at strategic places along the banks of the Ohio, its tributaries, and their tributaries. The kind of gage used at each station, the latitude and longitude of its location, and other information concerning conditions which cause the river to rise or fall, or flow swiftly or slowly are described.

This report coupled with the W. Va. Geological Survey's publication of H. M. Erskine's report on the "Surface Water Supply of West Virginia," should be valuable references for anyone faced with water supply and other hydraulic problems.

Uncle "Pud" Tucker — Says —

By HOY MCUSKEY

THE BIGGER THEY COME THE HARDER THEY FALL

A few weeks ago one of our town boys arrived home after lambasting the Japs in the Pacific. He wore the decorations given by his Government to heroes of the first water. We looked this chap over from top to bottom and from stem to stern. He exploded in old rags: "You here always should be a giant." He proved to us that gameness knows no size. For instance, a pumpkin is far bigger than a cucumber, yet while the busy sticks until the last harvest, the pumpkin is a jelly. The American soldier has demonstrated to the world that boys covered under Old Glory know little or nothing about warfare, still they can go into the jungle, mountains, deserts or air and whip the tax out of their enemies and brought up on the cruel traditions of War.

Cooperative Asks Key Distributors Be Reclassified

A resolution, passed by the board of directors of Southern States Cooperative, requesting the classification of irreplaceable key men engaged in the distribution of farm production supplies into a deferred draft class "in order to avoid a complete breakdown in the furnishing of essential production supplies to farmers" has just been sent to War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt.

This resolution has also gone to Major-General Lewis E. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, and Chester C. Davis, Food Administrator, according to a statement made today by W. G. Wyss, Richmond, Va. general manager of the cooperative, an organization of 141,225 farmers in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and North Carolina.

"The production of food and fibre is recognized as an essential element in the prosecution of the war, and the manufacture, processing, and distribution of farm production supplies is a vital prerequisite to such production," the resolution points out. "The key men involved in such distribution are not merely purveyors, but are in fact agricultural specialists and technical advisers to farmers, and must be possessed of special training, skill, and technical ability, to a degree which is not generally available, and which in fact makes such men irreplaceable under present circumstances."

The resolution takes cognizance to the fact that to some extent key men engaged in the manufacture and processing of food have been granted deferment, but the same consideration has not been extended to men in the field of the distribution of supplies.

Groups of key men engaged in the distribution of farm production supplies who are listed in the resolution as irreplaceable include those embracing district supervision, local managers in charge, and proprietors. The manufacture and processing of essential production supplies for farmers are "futile aids to production, unless supplemented by efficient distribution," the resolution declares. "A breakdown in any link of the chain of service in farm production supplies will seriously impede farm production."

C. & O. Railway Co. Announces Promotion For Many Employees

Promotion of Leonard B. Allen to Assistant Vice-President - Assistant to the President of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company has been announced by Carl E. Newton, President of the road. Prior to this appointment, and since May 1, 1940, Mr. Allen served the C. & O., Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette railroads in the capacity of Assistant to the President.

Appointment of John B. Parrish, of Richmond, Va., as Vice President of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company was announced following the organization meeting of the Board of Directors, held in Cleveland. Mr. Parrish had been Assistant Vice President of the road since 1926. In that capacity, he had jurisdiction over the safety activities of the company and had charge of personnel relations.

Clyde Bertram Hitch, Superintendent Motive Power of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., has been appointed Chief Mechanical Officer, with headquarters at Richmond, Va. Carl E. Newton, President of the road, announced today.

In his new position, which became effective May 1, Mr. Hitch will have general charge of the mechanical forces engaged in the design and the maintenance of equipment.

Simultaneously with the promotion of Mr. Hitch, the Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette, two other component roads of the C & O Lines, announced appointments of Chief Mechanical Officers for their respective properties. They are, respectively, Thomas C. Shortt, formerly Superintendent Motive Power of the Nickel Plate, at Cleveland, O., and Richard J. Williams, formerly Superintendent Motive Power of the Pere Marquette, at Detroit, Mich.

J. Fred Andrews, Assistant Comptroller of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette railroads, was today appointed Comptroller of the three lines, succeeding, in that post, E. M. Thomas who was elected Vice President of the C & O Lines last month.

Harry L. Leukhrie, General Auditor of the Nickel Plate, was advanced to the office of Assistant Comptroller of the three roads.

Your Scrap Needed For Nation's Scrap

At a meeting of the County Salvage Committee last Friday evening, in charge of Z. S. Smith, Jr., chairman, plans were formulated to renew efforts in Pocahontas county to gather in the scrap which is so desperately needed in the nation's war program.

Guy R. Faulkner was asked to secure funds through donations to underwrite the project; Mrs. Grady Moore and Miss Margaret Irvine were appointed to compile a list of persons who will consent to donate their scrap; prospects are that Oley Jackson will be in charge of gathering, weighing and shipping the junk; and state road commission trucks are to be made available for hauling the donated material without cost.

Thus the way is pretty generally opened for every person in the county to respond in some way—by gift of money or scrap material—to the most vital need of our country today. Copper, brass, tin, heavy iron and other junk will be put into the guns and ammunition which the soldiers need. Boy Scouts, in charge of Jack Richardson, will gather clean tin cans if they are notified of their existence.

Apparently the only thing lacking to make this 1943 scrap drive a huge success is the part which all citizens will be expected to take—and that is to take the program seriously, to donate scrap—and do it now!

Large Group Leaves For U. S. Forces

Recent examinations resulted in the acceptance for the armed services of the following Pocahontas county men:

For the Army, to report to the Local Board at 10 a. m., Thursday, May 13, for transportation to the designated Reception Centers: Alfred B. Dilley, Leroy Burner, Wayne E. Hickman, Robert G. Wilfong, William R. Townsend, Norman C. Wilfong, Jr., Clyde Pugh, Franklin T. Starcher, Clarence E. Carpenter, Jr., Guy F. VanReenan, Everett W. Dilley, Jimmie R. Nelson, Amos R. Mace, Norman S. McClure, Beryl K. Sharp, Roy Lee Grubbs, Romie V. Underwood, Charles B. McLaughlin, Edmond H. Cromer, Ralph W. Stone, Oliver R. McPeters, Troy M. Helmick, Kenneth C. Beverage, Boyd H. Beverage, Gerald T. Vandevander, Richard A. Hedrick, George W. Ray, Eugene R. Hamrick, Norman R. Gaylor, Guy N. Dalton, Jr., and Elvorn R. Totten—a total of 31 men.

For the U. S. Marine Corps, to report for transportation Friday, May 21: Ralph R. Boggs, George W. Tallman and Roy P. Simmons—3.

For the Navy, to report direct to Navy training stations—Jack McCauley, Cody B. Alderman, Harold M. McMillon, Uriah E. Woodell, Earl F. Price, Stanley D. Mullenax, Oris U. Jackson, Roy G. Arbogast, Earl S. Moore, William S. Gibson, Leonard D. Galford, Cecil E. Mullenax, Crede T. Dunbrack, Clarence R. Davis, Eugene W. Townsend and William C. Sage—16.

FUNDS COMING IN FOR SERVICE HONOR ROLL

The funds for the erection of an Honor Roll board and to provide attractive certificates to mark the noble service of the men and women at arms in defense of the nation, are beginning to come in, it was reported this week by Edward W. Rexrode, secretary of the County Organizations Committee. He reported the following donations:

Business and Professional Women's Club $5; Pine Grove school $8; Dunmore school $2; Mrs. Patay Anastasio $50; Catherine Anastasio $50; Aubrey and Alma Ferguson $4; employees of International Shoe Company $72.55; Ernest McClung $1; Clawson school and community $2.10.

Others desiring to make contributions should mail their gifts to Mr. Rexrode at Marlinton.

INCUMBENT OFFICIALS NOMINATED FOR JUNE 1 MUNICIPAL ELECTION

A public meeting was held in the county court room at Marlinton on Tuesday night, and a ticket was nominated for the municipal election to be held on June 1, 1943.

Temporary officer chosen for the business of the convention were Audrey E. Ferguson, chairman, and Mrs. Pearl Yeager, secretary.

The meeting resulted in the nomination of only one ticket, to be known as the Citizens Ticket, and comprising the incumbent municipal officers, as follows:

For Mayor—Carl L. Sheets.
For Recorder—J. W. Hill.
For Council—W. L. Davis, W. H. Arbogast, J. W. Mason, Dice Grimes, and J. M. Bear.

One of the motions passed at the session empowered the chairman of the convention to appoint a committee to fill any vacancies which may occur.

Scant interest has been evidenced in the coming election, and only a bare handful of citizens were present for the meeting.

Martha Schofield Completes Basic Training

Cedar Falls, Ia., May 13—Martha Elizabeth Schofield, 32, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henson Schofield, Marlinton, West Virginia, has completed her basic training in the U. S. Navy WAVES on the campus of Iowa State Teachers College here.

With this class the school here completes its transition from a general school to an institution for yeoman training. Consequently, trainees will remain in Iowa for further study before actually taking over office jobs, thus releasing men for sea duty.

Upon graduation from a specialist school WAVES are eligible for promotion to petty officer ratings.

Gage, Oley Hosen, Ward Clark, W. H. Hosen, Lester Hosen.

Failure to report on or before the day and hour specified is an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment or both.

RATION BOARD NO. CHANGED

Due to a state-wide change in the numbering system of local rationing boards, the Pocahontas County War Price and Rationing Board will be Board No. 35-24.1 instead of Board No. 224.

Charleston High Student Captures City and State Essay Contests

Regulated from Charleston Gazette.

South Charleston, W. Va., May 13—The city and state-wide essay contests sponsored by the ladies of the National Association of Teachers of English and the National Association of Teachers of Mathematics, respectively, were held here today. The contests were held at the same time and place, and the results were announced at a public meeting held at the city hall.

The winners of the contests were announced by Essay Chairman Mabel Kraft, South Charleston. Prizes in the state contest will be awarded on June 25 at a state convention of the auxiliary.

State judges were: W. H. S. White, president of Shepherd State Teachers' college; Anthony Ferguson, editor of the Marlinton Journal; Rev. O. H. Gage, South Charleston; and C. B. Caldwell, official of Ford, Bacon and Smith.

Judges in the Charleston city contest included: Dr. Robert Lewis, Marion Harvey college; and Mrs. L. W. White, Kentucky county judge.

Judges of the South Charleston contest were: Frank Thompson, Captain and South Charleston High School; and Joseph A. Smith, secretary of the National Association of Teachers of English.

Geological Survey Issues Ohio River Basin Report

The United States Geological Survey in cooperation with West Virginia and other eastern states, has released its report on the Ohio River Basin. This report is one of a series of fourteen on the "Surface Water of the United States," and should prove helpful to industries seeking suitable locations for plants requiring abundant water supply.

Made in cooperation with the West Virginia Geological Survey and Public Service Commission; and agencies of other States, the report consists of records of stage, and measurements of discharge of the Monongahela, Allegheny, Big Sandy and other tributaries of the Ohio. It also includes general information used to supplement the records of stage and discharge measurements in daily flow of these rivers.

The data have been collected and recorded at various gaging stations established at strategic places along the banks of the Ohio, its tributaries, and their tributaries. The kind of gage used at each station, the latitude and longitude of its location, and other information concerning conditions which cause the river to rise or fall, or flow swiftly or slowly are described.

This report coupled with the W. Va. Geological Survey's publication of H. M. Erskine's report on the "Surface Water Supply of West Virginia," should be valuable references for anyone faced with water supply and other hydraulic problems.

THE BIGGER THEY COME THE HARDER THEY FALL

A few weeks ago one of our town boys arrived home after lambasting the Japs in the Pacific. He wore the decorations given by his Government to heroes of the first war. We looked this chap over from top to bottom and from stem to stern. He exploded in old rags: "You here always should be a giant." He proved to us that gameness knows no size. For instance, a pumpkin is far bigger than a cucumber, yet while the busy sticks until the last harvest, the pumpkin is a jelly. The American soldier has demonstrated to the world that boys covered under Old Glory know little or nothing about warfare, still they can go into the jungle, mountains, deserts or air and whip the foe out of their senses and brought up to the cruel conditions of War.

Cooperative Asks Key Distributors Be Reclassified

A resolution, passed by the board of directors of Southern States Cooperative, requesting the classification of irreplaceable key men engaged in the distribution of farm production supplies into a deferred draft class "in order to avoid a complete breakdown in the furnishing of essential production supplies to farmers" has just been sent to War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt.

This resolution has also gone to Major-General Lewis E. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, and Chester C. Davis, Food Administrator, according to a statement made today by W. G. Wyser, Richmond, Va. general manager of the cooperative, an organization of 141,225 farmers in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and North Carolina.

"The production of food and fibre is recognized as an essential element in the prosecution of the war, and the manufacture, processing, and distribution of farm production supplies is a vital prerequisite to such production," the resolution points out. "The key men involved in such distribution are not merely purveyors, but are in fact agricultural specialists and technical advisers to farmers, and must be possessed of special training, skill, and technical ability, to a degree which is not generally available, and which in fact makes such men irreplaceable under present circumstances."

The resolution takes cognizance to the fact that to some extent key men engaged in the manufacture and processing of food have been granted deferment, but the same consideration has not been extended to men in the field of the distribution of supplies.

Groups of key men engaged in the distribution of farm production supplies who are listed in the resolution as irreplaceable include those embracing district supervision, local managers in charge, and proprietors. The manufacture and processing of essential production supplies for farmers are "futile aids to production, unless supplemented by efficient distribution," the resolution declares. "A breakdown in any link of the chain of service in farm production supplies will seriously impede farm production."

Allies Tighten Tunisia Trap on Axis; Russ Offensive in Caucasus Menaces Germans' Bridgehead at Novorossisk; FDR Envisions Postwar Youth Service

Adm. William F. Halsey, commander of the U. S. naval forces in the South Pacific (right) is shown as he conferred with Hon. Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the U. S., following Nash's arrival at Allied headquarters recently. Nash visited Halsey during an inspection tour of Pacific islands in which New Zealand troops are active.

TUNISIA:

Smooth Teamwork

Irresistibly the Allied offensive in North Africa had rolled on toward Tunis and Bizerte. Like well-co-ordinated teams the various commands performed their tasks. Principal objective of the British First Army had been the Axis last mountain barrier before the plain of Tunis in the Medjez-El-Bab sector. Chief assignment of Lieutenant General Patton's American troops had been the overwhelming of three enemy hill positions on the road to Bizerte. And although the American forces ran into heavy counterblows in their enveloping tactics around Mateur and Tebourba, they had continued to drive ahead.

While these two strategic movements were being carried out as a prelude to a combined Allied assault, French troops in the south executed a maneuver that had cut the Pont-du-Fahs-Enfadaïville road and exposed the flank of the Axis troops facing General Montgomery's Eighth army.

While the Germans faced the inevitable decision of final surrender or annihilation their commanders were using every possible device to slow down the Allied advance. Resistance against the British First Army had stiffened sharply at the crest of Bou Aoukaz mountain, overlooking the valley to Tunis.

RUSSIA:

Battles in the Air

While Berlin reports announced that a large-scale Russian offensive had been undertaken against the Nazis' Kuban bridgehead in the Caucasus, Moscow communiques said that aerial fighting was the principal activity along the far-flung front.

This aerial activity had various significances on various sectors. In the Caucasus, the Russian strategy was to wear down Nazi air power and thus enhance the Red army's efforts at bridging the Germans from their bridgehead around Novorossisk.

REFUGEES:

U. S.-Britain to Aid

Plans to ease the plight of war refugees in areas outside of occupied Europe and to reject any measure that might involve bargaining with Germany were believed by observers to have been embodied in a set of recommendations agreed on by delegates to the Anglo-American conference on refugee problems, held in Washington, Maryland.

Observers indicated that the conference's recommendations include the temporary relocation in Africa of 50,000 refugees now in neutral countries until the end of the war, as well as provisions for the feeding and care of refugees unable to leave neutral countries.

Miss Lennox urged local communities to protect the health of who are combining school with part-time work, working through vacation, or entering full-time jobs.

WITHHOLDING TAX:

Painless Extraction

Soothing words to taxpayers faced with rising federal levies were spoken by Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee who declared that the 20 per cent withholding provision of the pending pay-as-you-go tax bills "will not result in a single extra dollar being taken from the taxpayers' pocket-book."

"The proposed 20 per cent withholding is only a method of collecting currently all or part of the taxes imposed by the existing tax laws," he said.

Mr. Doughton said that from some persons will be withheld more than is needed to pay their taxes and from others, less. Refunds will be made later if too much has been withheld.

"All salary and wage earners will be called upon to file a regular income tax return on March 15," he said. "The amount which has been withheld from their wages will be credited against the actual tax owed."

RUSS-POLES:

Issue Is Territory

Territorial differences came to the fore as the principal issue at stake in the Polish-Soviet controversy, although the break in diplomatic relations had been caused by a demand of the Polish government-in-exile for an investigation of the alleged massacre by Russians of 10,000 Polish troops in the Smolensk region.

In a statement which neither opened nor closed the door to reconciliation, Premier Sikorski affirmed the Polish government's policy of aiming at friendly relations with Russia, but challenged the Soviet's right to claim the western Ukraine and western Belo-Russia.

The Poles demand a return of the eastern part of the territory they ruled before their 1939 collapse. The Russians who took this land over, and were in turn routed by the 1941 German invasion, say that the land is historically theirs.

Whether the controversy could be breached remained a problem for United Nations' chancelleries to worry about.

ALEUTIANS:

RCAF Joins Raids

American airmen keeping up their marathon bombing tactics in the Aleutians were joined by Canadian pilots flying U. S. Warhawk fighters in attacks on Jap-held positions on Kiska.

Whether the bombings were a softening-up prelude to American land and naval action against the Aleutians or a diversion to hamper enemy activity observers did not know. But they were unanimous in their opinion that any assault on the Jap-held Aleutian positions would be considerably more difficult than had the American offensive against South Pacific Guadalcanal.

A naval communique said that the continuing raids, made by Liberator and Mitchell bombers and Warhawk and Lightning fighters scored damaging results on the main camp area and runway on Kiska.

MASSACRE:

Japs Ape Nazis

Employing the same terroristic technique that their Nazi partners had used in massacring the inhabitants of Lidice, Czechoslovakia, Jap troops slaughtered every man, woman and child in the coastal areas of China where many of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's fliers had landed after the bombing of Tokyo.

This latest sequel to the Japs' execution of some of the American fliers captured after the raid was related by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, in an address in San Francisco.

Reports covering the Chinese "Lidice" were received from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who declared that the Japs had reproduced on a wholesale scale the horrors which the Nazis had inflicted in Czechoslovakia.

BOOM:

Postwar View Bright

A potential era of "unparalleled prosperity" faces the United States as soon as the war ends, the department of commerce reported.

"The major potentials," the report said, "will be present the day after victory is won—employment at an unprecedented high level, the greatest productive plant of all time, national income at a peak hardly dreamed of in pre-war years, and an unmeasured demand for goods denied to the consumer by the war's exactions."

One "big problem," the department asserted, is to prepare now to manage these factors as to adding that this is "primarily the job of private enterprise, aided and supported by government."

HEAD INJURIES

For a number of years I treated all the injured athletic students of a large university. Fortunately, most of the injuries were cuts, bruises, dislocations and occasional fractures, with not infrequent head injuries causing unconsciousness. For many years also I treated all the injured amateur and professional boxers and wrestlers in which head injuries were not uncommon. While most cases of head concussion recovered consciousness in minutes and often seconds, I often wondered if I made them take sufficient rest before resuming athletic activities.

This whole question of how soon after a blow that has caused unconsciousness, the patient should resume his regular occupation, has been studied by Dr. H. Cairns: some of his findings are recorded in the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine.

In deciding when a patient should be fit to return to work, it is necessary to bear in mind the severity of his injury, and the best yardstick at present available is the length of time he was unconscious after the injury. The shortest time in which ability to carry out full work may be expected to return is as follows:

"If unconscious for five minutes to one hour—four to six weeks.

"If unconscious one to 24 hours—six to eight weeks.

"If unconscious one to seven days—two to four months.

"If unconscious over seven days—four to eight months.

"If patient was very tired when injured, more time should be given. The type of work must also be considered as a simple task may be resumed earlier than one which calls for much brain effort.

"Almost every patient who makes a full recovery from concussion suffers at a certain stage of his recovery from headaches. In mild cases headaches usually occur early and disappear, whereas in more severe cases headaches appear much later, in fact after patient is well enough to return home though not to work."

America Becoming Near-Sighted Nation

There was a time when a man or woman wearing glasses was thought to be a student or one who did a great deal of reading. Glasses were almost a badge of scholarship. It was a rare thing to see a child with glasses and many wearing glasses were doing so to correct a squint or crossed eye.

Within the last 20 years there has been a great increase in the number of men and women wearing glasses and glasses on school children no longer attract attention.

Most of us will likely attribute this increase in the number wearing glasses to the examination of the eyes of school children and to the education by departments of health of the importance of having the vision corrected in those afflicted with shortsightedness, longsightedness and astigmatism (objects not seen distinctly). The last war also taught the value of acquiring proper glasses as many men were rejected for poor eyesight.

However, we learn from the Better Vision institute in one of their monthly releases that America is becoming a nearsighted nation. Every 10 years the figures show that vision is becoming narrower and human eyes, which from the beginning of history had been adapted to far vision, have now their sharpest vision when fixed on near objects not very far from the end of the nose.

What is causing the population to become nearsighted?

Some research workers on the eye state that (a) living conditions today finds man looking at "near" objects instead of "far" or distant objects, and (b) nearsightedness seems to be handed down from parents to their children.

Today, education has become almost universal and children start to read at an early age. Occupations are indoors for the most part and modern living conditions require almost continuous close vision.

We should, therefore, be kind to our eyes, and if our eyes need help make sure that they get help, and the right kind of help.

U. S. Army Is 'On Alert' For Chemical Warfare

Many Developments in Gas Warfare Date From World War I; America Thought to Have Greatest Potential Gas Offensive.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Some days ago the British short wave radio, beamed on Germany, was telling the German people, who dared to listen to the forbidden words, that if their armies used gas against the Russians, the British would retaliate and paralyze the German cities with gas bombs from the air. Just about that same hour, I was entering the Army and Navy club in Washington with a short, vigorous, bright-eyed general, whose mental agility makes up for his lack of length. It was no coincidence. I was there to learn something more about chemical warfare and I knew of no better way than to pump Brig. Gen. Alden H. Waitt of the chemical warfare service and whose book "Gas Warfare" has sold out twice in Washington book stores.

There was, however, a coincidence connected with that visit, for as we walked into the great, crowded dining room of the club, Waitt paused to speak to a gray-haired man in civilian clothes with a ribbon in his buttonhole. I recognized a once-familiar figure—Amos Fries, first general of the chemical warfare service. He, of course, is retired now.

I recalled that shortly after the First World War, the activities of General Fries got under some people's skins. He was a hyper-enthusiast over his specialty, and in the reaction against all things military which comes after a war, the cynics used to joke about the stenographer who transcribed her symbols so that a letter was sent addressed to the "comical" warfare service.

New Emphasis

But Fries persisted and managed to preserve his unit in a tight little independent group instead of having its activities scattered all over the other services. As far as the public goes, very little attention has been paid to this arm of our military offense and defense. It may, however, become very prominent before the war is over and some people say that day is "imminent."

If gas comes, the United States will be prepared for it. From an organization with 94 officers in the thirties, the chemical warfare service has grown until its officer personnel numbers "many thousands" (I can't reveal the figure) and many of them are with combat troops today where they are responsible for the use of smoke screens and for incendiaries—the fire bombs and the flame throwers.

I have witnessed demonstrations at the Edgewood arsenal near Baltimore, and although I cannot report the details, I can say that some of the effects were remarkable. You ought to see a steel tank or a concrete pillbox go up in flames when it is "lighted" by a flame thrower. It is unbelievable to watch.

There have been, of course, many developments in this little-discussed weapon of warfare since gas was first used in World War I by the Germans and used so successfully and yet so stupidly. The attack took the British and French colonial troops utterly by surprise and caused what amounted to a rout. If the Germans had had the sense to follow it up, they could have broken through the lines and reached Calais.

That was not the first time in warfare—the first time in 2,445 years earlier—at the Plataea, when the Spartans phur under the walls, and cause a rain came up. It was a complete success at Delium where the fugitive defenders from the city's panic.

Recent Developments

The most recent developments in gas warfare have just been made known to the public. The Allies have known for some time that the Germans had a gas to detect by smell. It was mustard, a relative of the burning mustard gas, but far more volatile and more effective, for it was also now being used in gas cans are able to maintain gas rapidly and in quantity. Our experts are familiar with its characteristics.

The other development greatly increases the efficiency of use of gas, if it is used in new method of spraying it in flying planes. This makes it possible to contaminate an area of troops almost without warning.

However, it is believed that the United States is not only with the best protection, but has the most effective gas offensive weapons in the armies.

What are the arguments of the use of this weapon so far, has not been used. quote Brigadier General "Every sensible man that war should be waged when all peaceful methods failed. When, in order to use force to gain his end, should do this with as little loss to the victor as possible. Not only would unnecessary loss to the victor be avoided. Victory would be amount of loss. The loss to both sides, the victory to the victor, but a strange doctrine but it is a doctrine.

Unusual Outlook

"War," Waitt believes, tried on to kill or destroy to enforce a policy, and the enforcement should be accomplished without loss of life.

We can work toward the use of gas. He points facts for his argument: 275,000 American casualties in the First World War. More than one-fourth by gas. Of the gas casualties, about 2 per cent died, about 12 times the number as those wounded by other means.

To urge the use of gas, I said, indeed, I said, I was when a captain, who had fought most of the campaign in Japan, said to me: "Gas weapon." Of course, I met it myself but he had of men blown apart by high explosive and he was alive in his statement.

What about civilians used? In the first place, of course, is in less Britain because of its out of danger. There is a contradictory opinion on the possibility of gas. One view is that it is ineffective, the other is that populations could be wronged. Both are wrong. That there is ground, that gas can be industrial and political importance for its demoralizing effect on targets will be strategic as railway stations, power plants and the like, wipe out populations, but will not entirely suppress them. But it will be an effective. The most important means from material means of education and discipline.

Allies Tighten Tunisia Trap on Axis; Russ Offensive in Caucasus Menaces Germans' Bridgehead at Novorossisk; FDR Envisions Postwar Youth Service

Adm. William F. Halsey, commander of the U. S. naval forces in the South Pacific (right) is shown as he conferred with Hon. Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the U. S., following Nash's arrival at Allied headquarters recently. Nash visited Halsey during an inspection tour of Pacific islands in which New Zealand troops are active.

TUNISIA:

Smooth Teamwork

Irresistibly the Allied offensive in North Africa had rolled on toward Tunis and Bizerte.

Like well-co-ordinated teams the various commands performed their tasks. Principal objective of the British First Army had been the plain of Tunis in the Medjez-El-Bab sector. Chief assignment of Lieutenant General Patton's American troops had been the overwhelming of three enemy hill positions on the road to Bizerte. And although the American forces ran into heavy counterblows in their enveloping tactics around Mateur and Tebourba, they had continued to drive ahead.

While these two strategic movements were being carried out as a prelude to a combined Allied assault, French troops in the south executed a maneuver that had cut the Pont-du-Fahs-Enfardville road and exposed the flank of the Axis troops facing General Montgomery's Eighth army.

While the Germans faced the inevitable decision of final surrender or annihilation their commanders were using every possible device to slow down the Allied advance. Resistance against the British First Army had stiffened sharply at the crest of Bou Aoukaz mountain, overlooking the valley to Tunis.

RUSSIA:

Battles in the Air

While Berlin reports announced that a large-scale Russian offensive had been undertaken against the Nazis' Kuban bridgehead in the Caucasus, Moscow communiques said that aerial fighting was the principal activity along the far-flung front.

This aerial activity had various significances on various sectors. In the Caucasus, the Russian strategy was to wear down Nazi air power and thus enhance the Red army's efforts at bridging the Germans from their bridgehead around Novorossisk.

REFUGEES:

U. S.-Britain to Aid

Plans to ease the plight of war refugees in areas outside of occupied Europe and to reject any measures that might involve bargaining with Germany were believed by observers to have been embodied in a set of recommendations agreed on by delegates to the Anglo-American conference on refugee problems, held in Washington, Maryland.

Observers indicated that the conference's recommendations include the temporary relocation in Africa of 50,000 refugees now in neutral countries until the end of the war, as well as provisions for the feeding and care of refugees unable to leave neutral countries.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

CHURCHES: Church college students will be asked to give one hour's service time, without compensation, to the college in the hope of encouraging the community of an education for the world during war.

RESEARCH: A team of scientists working on the development of a new type of atomic bomb, which would be used to destroy the enemy's war effort.

MEMBERS: Paul Raymond, former French premier, now lodged in a small dark cell in a prison in the Pyrenees in spending his time with his mother.

MARKETPLACE: Allied medium bombers scored a direct hit on a large oil storage tank in the Azores, one of the main oil depots of the German fleet.

WITHHOLDING TAX: Painless Extraction

Soothing words to taxpayers faced with rising federal levies were spoken by Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means committee who declared that the 20 per cent withholding provision of the pending pay-as-you-go tax bills "will not result in a single extra dollar being taken from the taxpayers' pocket-book."

"The proposed 20 per cent withholding is only a method of collecting currently all or part of the taxes imposed by the existing tax laws," he said.

Mr. Doughton said that from some persons will be withheld more than is needed to pay their taxes and from others, less. Refunds will be made later if too much has been withheld.

"All salary and wage earners will be called upon to file a regular income tax return on March 15," he said. "The amount which has been withheld from their wages will be credited against the actual tax owed."

RUSS-POLES:

Issue Is Territory

Territorial differences came to the fore as the principal issue at stake in the Polish-Soviet controversy, although the break in diplomatic relations had been caused by a demand of the Polish government-in-exile for an investigation of the alleged massacre by Russians of 10,000 Polish troops in the Smolensk region.

In a statement which neither opened nor closed the door to reconciliation, Premier Sikorski affirmed the Polish government's policy of aiming at friendly relations with Russia, but challenged the Soviet's right to claim the western Ukraine and western Belo-Russia.

The Poles demand a return of the eastern part of the territory they ruled before their 1939 collapse. The Russians who took this land over, and were in turn routed by the 1941 German invasion, say that the land is historically theirs.

Whether the controversy could be breached remained a problem for United Nations' chancelleries to worry about.

ALEUTIANS:

RCAF Joins Raids

American airmen keeping up their marathon bombing tactics in the Aleutians were joined by Canadian pilots flying U. S. Warhawk fighters in attacks on Jap-held positions on Kiska.

Whether the bombings were a softening-up prelude to American land and naval action against the Aleutians or a diversion to hamper enemy activity observers did not know. But they were unanimous in their opinion that any assault on the Jap-held Aleutian positions would be considerably more difficult than had the American offensive against South Pacific Guadalcanal.

A naval communique said that the continuing raids, made by Liberator and Mitchell bombers and Warhawk and Lightning fighters scored damaging results on the main camp area and runway on Kiska.

MASSACRE:

Japs Ape Nazis

Employing the same terroristic technique that their Nazi partners had used in massacring the inhabitants of Lidice, Czechoslovakia, Jap troops slaughtered every man, woman and child in the coastal areas of China where many of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's fliers had landed after the bombing of Tokyo.

This latest sequel to the Japs' execution of some of the American fliers captured after the raid was related by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, in an address in San Francisco.

Reports covering the Chinese "Lidice" were received from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who declared that the Japs had reproduced on a wholesale scale the horrors which the Nazis had inflicted in Czechoslovakia.

BOOM:

Postwar View Bright

A potential era of "unparalleled prosperity" faces the United States as soon as the war ends, the department of commerce reported.

"The major potentials," the report said, "will be present the day after victory is won—employment at an unprecedented high level, the greatest productive plant of all time, national income at a peak hardly dreamed of in pre-war years, and an unmeasured demand for goods denied to the consumer by the war's exactions."

One "big problem," the department asserted, is to prepare now to manage these factors as to adding that this is "primarily the job of private enterprise, aided and supported by government."

TEEN-AGE:

Workers Aid War

More than 2,000 boys and girls between 14 and 18 years of age will hold full or part-time jobs this summer, Katherine Lennox, chief of the Children's Bureau of the department of labor, said.

Miss Lennox urged local communities to protect the health of who are combining school with part-time jobs, working through vacation, or entering full-time jobs.

HEAD INJURIES

For a number of years I treated all the injured athletic students of a large university. Fortunately, most of the injuries were cuts, bruises, dislocations and occasional fractures, with not infrequent head injuries causing unconsciousness. For many years also I treated all the injured amateur and professional boxers and wrestlers in which head injuries were not uncommon. While most cases of head concussion recovered consciousness in minutes and often seconds, I often wondered if I made them take sufficient rest before resuming athletic activities.

This whole question of how soon after a blow that has caused unconsciousness, the patient should resume his regular occupation, has been studied by Dr. H. Cairns: some of his findings are recorded in the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine.

In deciding when a patient should be fit to return to work, it is necessary to bear in mind the severity of his injury, and the best yardstick at present available is the length of time he was unconscious after the injury. The shortest time in which ability to carry out full work may be expected to return is as follows:

"If unconscious for five minutes to one hour—four to six weeks.

"If unconscious one to 24 hours—six to eight weeks.

"If unconscious one to seven days—two to four months.

"If unconscious over seven days—four to eight months.

"If patient was very tired when injured, more time should be given. The type of work must also be considered as a simple task may be resumed earlier than one which calls for much brain effort.

"Almost every patient who makes a full recovery from concussion suffers at a certain stage of his recovery from headaches. In mild cases headaches usually occur early and disappear, whereas in more severe cases headaches appear much later, in fact after patient is well enough to return home though not to work."

America Becoming Near-Sighted Nation

There was a time when a man or woman wearing glasses was thought to be a student or one who did a great deal of reading. Glasses were almost a badge of scholarship. It was a rare thing to see a child with glasses and many wearing glasses were doing so to correct a squint or crossed eye.

Within the last 20 years there has been a great increase in the number of men and women wearing glasses and glasses on school children no longer attract attention.

Most of us will likely attribute this increase in the number wearing glasses to the examination of the eyes of school children and to the education by departments of health of the importance of having the vision corrected in those afflicted with shortsightedness, longsightedness and astigmatism (objects not seen distinctly). The last war also taught the value of acquiring proper glasses as many men were rejected for poor eyesight.

However, we learn from the Better Vision institute in one of their monthly releases that America is becoming a nearsighted nation. Every 10 years the figures show that vision is becoming narrower and human eyes, which from the beginning of history had been adapted to far vision, have now their sharpest vision when fixed on near objects not very far from the end of the nose.

What is causing the population to become nearsighted?

Some research workers on the eye state that (a) living conditions today finds man looking at "near" objects instead of "far" or distant objects, and (b) nearsightedness seems to be handed down from parents to their children.

Today, education has become almost universal and children start to read at an early age. Occupations are indoors for the most part and modern living conditions require almost continuous close vision.

We should, therefore, be kind to our eyes, and if our eyes need help make sure that they get help, and the right kind of help.

U. S. Army Is 'On Alert' For Chemical Warfare

Many Developments in Gas Warfare Date From World War I; America Thought to Have Greatest Potential Gas Offensive.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Some days ago the British short wave radio, beamed on Germany, was telling the German people, who dared to listen to the forbidden words, that if their armies used gas against the Russians, the British would retaliate and paralyze the German cities with gas bombs from the air. Just about that same hour, I was entering the Army and Navy club in Washington with a short, vigorous, bright-eyed general, whose mental agility makes up for his lack of length. It was no coincidence. I was there to learn something more about chemical warfare and I knew of no better way than to pump Brig. Gen. Alden H. Waitt of the chemical warfare service and whose book "Gas Warfare" has sold out twice in Washington book stores.

There was, however, a coincidence connected with that visit, for as we walked into the great, crowded dining room of the club, Waitt paused to speak to a gray-haired man in civilian clothes with a ribbon in his buttonhole. I recognized a once-familiar figure—Amos Fries, first general of the chemical warfare service. He, of course, is retired now.

I recalled that shortly after the First World War, the activities of General Fries got under some people's skins. He was a hyper-enthusiast over his specialty, and in the reaction against all things military which comes after a war, the cynics used to joke about the stenographer who transcribed her symbols so that a letter was sent addressed to the "comical" warfare service.

New Emphasis

But Fries persisted and managed to preserve his unit in a tight little independent group instead of having its activities scattered all over the other services. As far as the public goes, very little attention has been paid to this arm of our military offense and defense. It may, however, become very prominent before the war is over and some people say that day is "imminent."

If gas comes, the United States will be prepared for it. From an organization with 94 officers in the thirties, the chemical warfare service has grown until its officer personnel numbers "many thousands" (I can't reveal the figure) and many of them are with combat troops today where they are responsible for the use of smoke screens and for incendiaries—the fire bombs and the flame throwers.

I have witnessed demonstrations at the Edgewood arsenal near Baltimore, and although I cannot report the details, I can say that some of the effects were remarkable. You ought to see a steel tank or a concrete pillbox go up in flames when it is "lighted" by a flame thrower. It is unbelievable to watch.

There have been, of course, many developments in this little-discussed weapon of warfare since gas was first used in World War I by the Germans and used so successfully and yet so stupidly. Her Own Bolero

IT'S true, not every little girl can boast a bolero dress of her own! This one is something very special with its heart-shaped neck, huge pockets and bow-tied belt. The bolero itself might be worn with other dresses.

Pattern No. 8207-C is in sizes 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 years. Size 4 bolero and dress take 2 1/4 yards 35-inch material; 4 yards rick-rack.

Stirring air into hot food during cooking or sieving increases vitamin destruction by oxidation.

Since crisp cookies and crackers soften if kept with bread and cake, keep them in airtight tins or boxes of their own.

The best coat linings are made of slippery material which will help to get the coat on and off easily.

Do not wash eggs before putting them on ice as washing destroys the protective film that keeps out odors and air.

A common clothespin, split in half makes two ideal and economical pan scrapers which do not rust or scratch enamelware or precious aluminum.

If your time is limited cut the vegetables into smaller pieces than usual; they will cook more quickly.

Children are more apt to like helping with the family work if they are also permitted to help with the planning of the work.

It's handy to have someone hold the skein of yarn on outstretched arms while you wind it into a ball. But if no one is present to perform this service for you, simply slip the skein over the lamp shade, loosen the top screw, and wind away. The shade will turn as you wind.

When armored knights met, it was customary for each knight to raise the visor of his helmet as a means of identification. This gesture has come down through all armies in the form of the salute. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. With men in the Army, Navy, Marine, and Coast Guard, actual sales records in their service areas show that Camel is the favorite. It's one of the favorite gifts with service men. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marine, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

HERE is a real irresistible—a beautifully cut princess that whittles your width down to the minimum. It has such charm, too, with its neck-to-hem parade of bright rick-rack. Many a girl won't be able to put it down once she starts sewing on it! Sew and Save.

Pattern No. 8368 is in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 12 takes, with short sleeves, 3 1/4 yards 35-inch material; 12 yards rick-rack trimming.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

Fight the Forgery Racket!

By FRANK J. WILSON
Chief, United States Secret Service

DO YOU receive checks from the United States government? If you do, then look out for the pen-and-paper pirate—the check forger!

Millions of government checks are sent to dependents of men in the army and navy of the United States. Millions of checks are sent to people who receive social security benefits. Whenever one of these checks is dropped in your mail box by your mail carrier, it presents an opportunity for a check thief to steal it. When that happens, it may be months before the government can send you another check to replace the one which was stolen.

The United States secret service, a branch of the treasury department, wants to put the check thief and the forger out of business. If you will help yourself, you will keep the crook from helping himself to your check.

Put a good lock on your mail box, if it does not already have one. A lock may prevent a loss. Have your name printed clearly on the box.

HERE is a real irresistible—a beautifully cut princess that whittles your width down to the minimum. It has such charm, too, with its neck-to-hem parade of bright rick-rack. Many a girl won't be able to put it down once she starts sewing on it! Sew and Save.

Pattern No. 8368 is in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 12 takes, with short sleeves, 3 1/4 yards 35-inch material; 12 yards rick-rack trimming.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

Fight the Forgery Racket!

By FRANK J. WILSON
Chief, United States Secret Service

DO YOU receive checks from the United States government? If you do, then look out for the pen-and-paper pirate—the check forger!

Millions of government checks are sent to dependents of men in the army and navy of the United States. Millions of checks are sent to people who receive social security benefits. Whenever one of these checks is dropped in your mail box by your mail carrier, it presents an opportunity for a check thief to steal it. When that happens, it may be months before the government can send you another check to replace the one which was stolen.

The United States secret service, a branch of the treasury department, wants to put the check thief and the forger out of business. If you will help yourself, you will keep the crook from helping himself to your check.

Put a good lock on your mail box, if it does not already have one. A lock may prevent a loss. Have your name printed clearly on the box.

"Charles," said the sharp-voiced woman to her husband on the train, "don't you remember it was a pair of slippers I presented to you the Christmas before we were married that led to our marriage? You remember how nicely they fitted, don't you? Well, Charles, one day when we were going to a picnic, you had your feet on a seat, and when you weren't looking I took your measure. But for that pair of slippers I don't believe we'd ever been married."

A young man sitting opposite with a girl, immediately removed his feet from the seat.

MILDRED M. CRAMBLET VISITS HUNTERSVILLE EASTERN STAR LODGE

On Wednesday evening, May 12, Huntersville Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was honored with a visit from the Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Jurisdiction of West Virginia.

Following the inspection of the work of the Chapter by Mrs. Cramblet, a well planned program was enjoyed by the members and visitors from nearby Chapters.

Two presentation ceremonies were used. These had been worked out in poetry by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. C. A. McMillion, and were appropriate in every way for the special occasion of their use.

Mrs. Aubrey Ferguson of Marlinton, sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Gordon Mark. Mrs. McMillion gave a reading "Roofs", by Joyce Kilmer. She then invited a number of her officers to assist her in a ceremony in which she presented a gift of money to her Chapter. The check was housed in a miniature temple. This gift enabled the Huntersville Chapter to become 100 per cent paid up in its Temple Fund. The gift was not exposed until it reached the treasurer's desk. S. I. Barlow, Worthy Patron, made the remarks of appreciation for the Chapter and Mrs. McMillion responded with a short poetic composition.

The members and visitors then joined together in singing "Old Kentucky Home", following which Miss Helen Barlow approached the Grand Officer, and read a poem which was composed especially for Mrs. Cramblet. She also presented the guest a miniature log cabin which was symbolic of the picture of Abraham Lincoln on the five-dollar bill inside the cabin. This was a gift to the Grand Visitor from the Chapter.

Immediately following the closing ceremony, bridge tables were set up and a period of recreation was enjoyed. Pencil-paper contests were indulged in and prizes were awarded to the winners.

A delicious salad course was served.

Dr. John Davis was visiting friends and staying at the home of M. S. Wilson, Monday on his way to Clarksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward R. Barlow and sons Richard and Robert, spent the week-end at Hinton with Mrs. Barlow's mother and family. Corp. Leonard Foster of Camp Sutton, N. C. and Lawrence Foster of Portsmouth, Va., were also home.

Bob Grubbs, employed in defense work at Savannah, Georgia, has been spending several days in Marlinton and will return to his work next Monday.

To Our Savings Depositors:

Due to a great reduction in our loans and the decrease in demand for sound loans and the very low yield in Government and other high grade bonds of reasonable maturity, which make desirable bank investments, we have found it necessary to reduce the interest rate on savings deposits to one and one-half (1 1/2%) per cent per annum, effective on JUNE 1, 1943. Our action is in conformity with sound banking practice.

We regret that conditions over which we have no control make necessary this change. The business which you have entrusted to us through the past forty-four years is appreciated, and we invite you to continue to make use of our facilities for all your banking requirements.

"What's happened?" they asked in surprise.

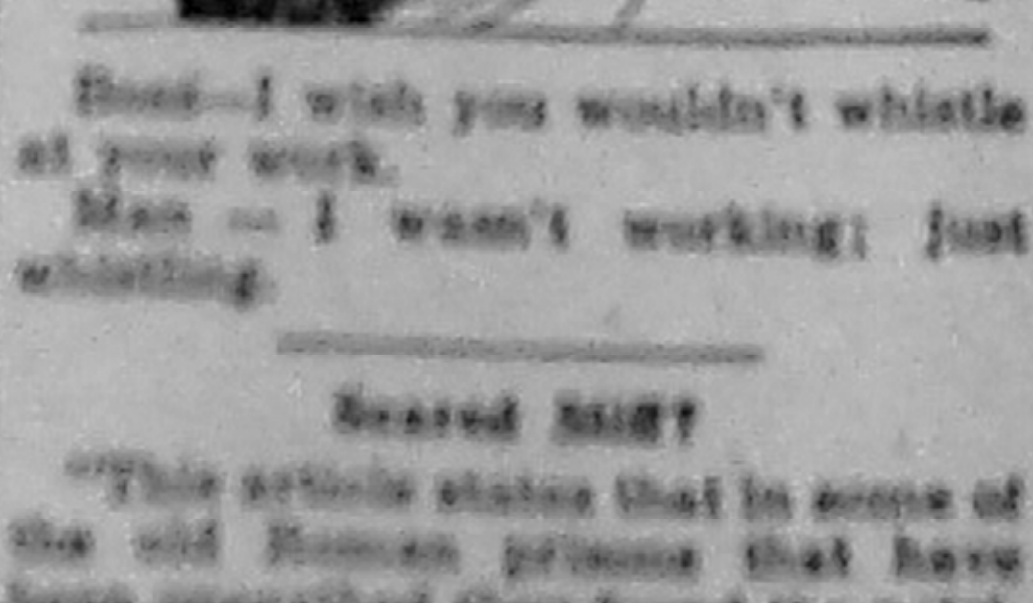

"Well, it's like this," he replied, with a chuckle. "That boy who checked me out has just come in with his new girlfriend of those little movies—and I've put her in separate seats."

Tulip-Shaped Tomatoes Are Welcome for Luncheon (See Recipes Below)

Spring Luncheon

Rationing doesn't mean that you have to give up entertaining entirely. True, you may be serving dishes you've never served before, but if you've tucked your thinking cap at the right angle, you'll find many things with company manners which won't take too many ration points.

Be clever with your knives in shaping fruits and vegetables into attractive shapes and sizes for your guests, and use bright colors for garnishes and table accessories. Add a good portion of your own charm to make your guests feel at ease, and Madame, your entertaining will be a success!

Tulip-like tomatoes are a picture on any spring luncheon table.

*Tulip Tomatoes Filled With Shrimp. (Serves 6)

- 6 tomatoes
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 2 cups canned shrimp
- 1/4 cup french dressing
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Dash of cayenne pepper

Cut tomatoes in sixths with sharp knife, cutting through outside of tomatoes, and just enough so that each section can be pulled back to form a petal. Marinate shrimp in french dressing for 1/2 hour. Drain, then combine with celery, mayonnaise, lemon juice and cayenne pepper. Chill. Sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt, then fill with shrimp mixture. Garnish with whole shrimp.

Smart idea for salad plates is to include a small scoop of two or three different kinds of salad to make a picture plate. Here are two splendid ideas:

Lemon Sunshine Salad. (Serves 6)

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice or diluted vinegar
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 cup finely shredded cabbage
- 1/2 cup finely grated raw carrot
- 1 tablespoon minced onion

Dissolve lemon-flavored gelatin in boiling water. Add salt and lemon juice or diluted vinegar and cold water. Chill until mixture begins to thicken, then add remaining ingredients. Do not shred vegetables until just before using or a large loss of vitamins will result.

Pineapple-Cottage Cheese Salad. (Serves 6)

- 1/2 cup cottage cheese
- 1/4 cup nuts, chopped
- 1 tablespoon pineapple juice
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 6 slices pineapple, fresh or canned
- Green or red pepper
- Lettuce
- 1/4 cup salad dressing

Use grapefruit shells for serving fruit or seafood cocktail if you don't have enough dishes. Iron rust may be quickly removed from white clothes if you squeeze lemon juice on the spot, sprinkle salt over it and place it in the sun. Repeat if the first application does not work.

Use warm water instead of cold for mixing flour for gravy. The use of a rotary egg beater helps smooth out lumps if they should occur.

You'll save time if you have an extra set of measuring spoons in the coffee container, and to keep a measuring cup in each container of flour, oatmeal and sugar. It saves time and encourages accuracy in measurements.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Luncheon Menu

- *Tulip-Tomato Salad
- Brown Bread-Cream Cheese Sandwiches
- Lemon Sherbet
- Tea
- *Recipe Given

Combine cottage cheese, pineapple juice and sugar. Add salt to taste. Place a mound of cheese on top of each slice of pineapple, then garnish with diamond shapes from green and red pepper. Serve on crisp lettuce with dressing.

A dark brown bread, fruity and tasty is excellent to serve with salad luncheons. If your salad does not include cheese, serve its fragrant slices spread thinly with cream cheese and jam or make dainty little sandwiches with butter spread thinly, add a bit of lettuce for crispness.

Baked Brown Bread. (Makes 1 14x9x2-inch loaf)

- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 1/4 teaspoons soda
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups graham or whole wheat flour
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 cups sour milk
- 1/2 cup molasses

Sift flour, salt, soda and sugar together. Add graham or whole wheat flour, mix well. Cut in shortening until mixture is like meal. Add raisins and mix. Beat eggs, add sour milk and molasses. Add dry ingredients and blend together thoroughly. Pour batter into a well-greased pan. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

A lot of good quality protein, vitamins and minerals come in that neat little package, the egg! Right now you'll be finding they're plentiful, so make good use of them:

Eggs Creole. (Serves 4)

- 2 1/2 cups tomatoes
- 1 small onion, chopped fine
- 1/2 green pepper, chopped
- 1 teaspoon green pepper
- 1/4 cup fine bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup celery
- 4 eggs
- 1/4 cup grated American cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 bay leaf

Cook tomatoes, pepper, onion, celery and seasonings together with bay leaf for 10 minutes. Strain, add bread crumbs. Place sauce in individual casserole dishes. Break eggs on top and sprinkle with salt, pepper and grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until eggs have set and cheese is melted.

Oatmeal puts plenty of vitamin B into diets and keeps you stepping with pep and energy the day long. Try these delicious cookies:

Honey Oatmeal Hermits.

- 1 1/2 cups honey
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup lard or other fat
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 2 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup raisins or chopped dates

Cream honey and fat until smooth and creamy. Add well beaten eggs and oatmeal. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with warm water, saving only a small amount of flour to dredge raisins or dates. Blend in fruit and mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls, 3 inches apart on a greased baking sheet. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Tulip-Shaped Tomatoes Are Welcome for Luncheon (See Recipes Below)

Spring Luncheon

Rationing doesn't mean that you have to give up entertaining entirely. True, you may be serving dishes you've never served before, but if you've tucked your thinking cap at the right angle, you'll find many things with company manners which won't take too many ration points.

Be clever with your knives in shaping fruits and vegetables into attractive shapes and sizes for your guests, and use bright colors for garnishes and table accessories. Add a good portion of your own charm to make your guests feel at ease, and Madame, your entertaining will be a success!

Tulip-like tomatoes are a picture on any spring luncheon table.

*Tulip Tomatoes Filled With Shrimp. (Serves 6)

- 6 tomatoes
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 2 cups canned shrimp
- 1/4 cup french dressing
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Dash of cayenne pepper

Cut tomatoes in sixths with sharp knife, cutting through outside of tomatoes, and just enough so that each section can be pulled back to form a petal. Marinate shrimp in french dressing for 1/2 hour. Drain, then combine with celery, mayonnaise, lemon juice and cayenne pepper. Chill. Sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt, then fill with shrimp mixture. Garnish with whole shrimp.

Smart idea for salad plates is to include a small scoop of two or three different kinds of salad to make a picture plate. Here are two splendid ideas:

Lemon Sunshine Salad. (Serves 6)

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice or diluted vinegar
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 cup finely shredded cabbage
- 1/2 cup finely grated raw carrot
- 1 tablespoon minced onion

Dissolve lemon-flavored gelatin in boiling water. Add salt and lemon juice or diluted vinegar and cold water. Chill until mixture begins to thicken, then add remaining ingredients. Do not shred vegetables until just before using or a large loss of vitamins will result.

Pineapple-Cottage Cheese Salad. (Serves 6)

- 3/4 cup cottage cheese
- 1/4 cup nuts, chopped
- 1 tablespoon pineapple juice
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 6 slices pineapple, fresh or canned
- Green or red pepper
- Lettuce
- 1/4 cup salad dressing

Dissolve lemon-flavored gelatin in boiling water. Add salt and lemon juice or diluted vinegar and cold water. Chill until mixture begins to thicken, then add remaining ingredients. Do not shred vegetables until just before using or a large loss of vitamins will result.

Brown Bread-Cream Cheese Sandwiches
Lemon Sherbet
Tea
*Recipe Given

Combine cottage cheese, pineapple juice and sugar. Add salt to taste. Place a mound of cheese on top of each slice of pineapple, then garnish with diamond shapes from green and red pepper. Serve on crisp lettuce with dressing.

A dark brown bread, fruity and tasty is excellent to serve with salad luncheons. If your salad does not include cheese, serve its fragrant slices spread thinly with cream cheese and jam or make dainty little sandwiches with butter spread thinly, add a bit of lettuce for crispness.

Baked Brown Bread. (Makes 1 14x9x2-inch loaf)

- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 1/4 teaspoons soda
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups graham or whole wheat flour
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 2 cups sour milk
- 1/2 cup molasses

Sift flour, salt, soda and sugar together. Add graham or whole wheat flour, mix well. Cut in shortening until mixture is like meal. Add raisins and mix. Beat eggs, add sour milk and molasses. Add dry ingredients and blend together thoroughly. Pour batter into a well-greased pan. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

A lot of good quality protein, vitamins and minerals come in that neat little package, the egg! Right now you'll be finding they're plentiful, so make good use of them:

Eggs Creole. (Serves 4)

- 2 1/2 cups tomatoes
- 1 small onion, chopped fine
- 1/2 green pepper, chopped
- 1 teaspoon green pepper
- 1/4 cup fine bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup celery
- 4 eggs
- 1/4 cup grated American cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 bay leaf

Cook tomatoes, pepper, onion, celery and seasonings together with bay leaf for 10 minutes. Strain, add bread crumbs. Place sauce in individual casserole dishes. Break eggs on top and sprinkle with salt, pepper and grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until eggs have set and cheese is melted.

Oatmeal puts plenty of vitamin B₁ into diets and keeps you stepping with pep and energy the day long. Try these delicious cookies:

Honey Oatmeal Hermits.

- 1 1/2 cups honey
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup lard or other fat
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 2 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup raisins or chopped dates

Cream honey and fat until smooth and creamy. Add well beaten eggs and oatmeal. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with warm water, saving only a small amount of flour to dredge raisins or dates. Blend in fruit and mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls, 3 inches apart on a greased baking sheet. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Rationing

HERE'S HOW TO GET YOUR CANNING SUGAR

Persons desiring sugar for home canning and freezing of fruit for home consumption may obtain not more than 15 pounds per person on a basis of one pound of sugar for each quart (or eight pounds) of finished product.

Not more than 5 pounds of this 15-pound per person limit may be used to put up jams, jellies, preserves and butters.

Applications for sugar for canning shall be made to the local War Price and Rationing Board, in the form of a letter signed by one adult member of a family unit for all members of the unit (or if there is no adult member, by the oldest member or responsible person) or by a consumer not a member of a family unit for himself. The applicant shall either appear in person or by mail present to the board a sealed envelope containing the letter and the War Ration Book No. 1 issued to the persons on whose behalf the applicant is made.

The unopened letter shall show the following information:

1. Name of each applicant with serial number of War Ration Book No. 1.
2. Street address or RFD number, city and county for the residence of the family unit.
3. The total number of quarts or pounds of finished fruit to be produced.
4. The amount of sugar to be used in making jams, jellies, preserves and butters (not more than 5 pounds per person within the 15-pound overall maximum).

Applications whether presented to the local Board in person or by mail shall be received by the Board for processing at a future time. To prevent confusion in the local Board no duplicate applications shall be received from the Board office at time of filing the application but shall be mailed direct to the applicant in unopened envelopes as soon as possible after the application has been received. These coupons are valid from the time they are issued until February 29, 1944.

A forthcoming amendment will delete the amount from War Ration Book No. 1 and for 10 pounds or less, at applicant's option, of sugar for home canning. This stamp, the number of which is yet undetermined, will be presented to the retailer during the validity period which will be announced.

Applications received by mail with postage due cannot be accepted by the local Board.

The Board will record the number of pounds of sugar granted each person in the cover of his War Ration Book No. 1 and issue Sugar Allowance coupons in denominations of 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

In an atmosphere of general excitement, this was written to a nine-day chapter in the lives of three young Navy aviators who were forced down at the Marlinton airport Sunday a week ago.

Becoming lost, and encumbered by "weatherheads," the Navy fliers landed here, and were then prevented from leaving by heavy rains which left the field in a boggy condition. With recent nice weather putting the field in fair shape, the job of preparing for their departure was completed Monday when the airport was rolled with equipment belonging to the State Road Commission.

As word was passed around Tuesday that the fliers pilots were expected to put their huge Curtiss Wright dive bombers back into the air, a small group went to the local landing field about 10:30 a. m. Still apprehensive about the possibility of a take-off, the fliers debated about the condition and length of the airport. Finally deciding upon 2 o'clock for the venture, preparations were made to that effect. In the meantime the crowd of watchers grew to more than 150 persons. Business places in Marlinton locked their doors and owners and workers went to the field to see the departure of the unexpected visitors.

At 2 o'clock, the pilots began to warm up the huge engines, and some delay was met when one of them failed to start, and required cranking. Taxing to the far end of the field, one of the pilots got off the rolled part of the runway and became mired in a swampy place. Nearly two hours were spent in bringing the bomber out of the mire, necessitating use of the roller, and a school bus as towing power. Then came another period of cranking the stubborn engine which wore out the energy of a number of volunteers before the blade began to turn under its own power. Many persons left in disappointment, certain that the pilots were doomed to a more extended stay in Marlinton.

Shortly after 4 p. m. however, all planes were on solid ground and the giant propellers were making a terrific din. The crowd became tense as the three pilots ascended to their control seats and adjusted parachutes and other paraphernalia.

The pilots, too, had expressed their feeling of nervousness concerning the possibility of forcing the planes up to the required speed of 90 knots which was necessary for a take off for the 7-to-20 planes, on the grass-covered 2,000-foot runway of the strange field.

First to make the attempt was Flight Leader Lane, and cries of "He's going to make it!" arose as his plane sped down the runway. Lane used all the ground available, rising at the end of the field and veering down into the valley toward the town. His flight was followed immediately by Pilot Welfelt, who thrilled the bystanders to a high pitch when, taking advantage of a favorable gust of wind, he "gave her the gun" and raced into the air, using only about half the available ground space. He attained a high altitude quickly. In a cloud of dust the third aviator, Pilot Pete Wilson, began his dash down the field. It was evident that his plane was not showing the speed of the preceding ones, and onlookers had that "heart-in-your-throat" feeling as they watched him take the air and dash down the runway. The bomber did not leave the ground until just before the end of the field had been traversed, and missed the low brush at the end of the take-off by a narrow margin.

Those who gathered to watch the departure felt that their sigh of relief could be dated by the airman as the unopened "headaches" for him and his plane "sawed" into the night blue sky.

That they appreciated the enthusiasm of the townspeople was evidenced by the Navy men, as each returned after wide circling maneuvers to some place across the heads of the crowd—and as a result of the excitement of the crowd, Flight Leader Lane announced the plane as an aerial formation and the big plane's engine sparks against the clouds, and finally disappeared in the general confusion of the field.

U. College of Engineering Accelerates Program

The West Virginia University College of Engineering has just announced an accelerated program in which the beginning date of September 13, 1943, has been advanced to May 31, 1943. For the duration of the war three semesters of work will be given during each calendar year instead of two as hitherto given.

Under the new plan students entering the first of June will complete the regular four-year course of eight semesters by February, 1946, thus saving nearly a year and a half of time. This saving is made possible by utilizing three summers that ordinarily are vacation periods. A full semester of work will be given in a summer period.

The work under the new set-up will be practically the same as hitherto given except that the shop and field courses usually given for five weeks in the summer following the freshman or sophomore year will be omitted.

Dean R. P. Davis of the College of Engineering urges all high school graduates who are planning to enter the College of Engineering this fall to enroll on May 31 to start their freshman first semester's work. However freshman students will be admitted in the fall, but some difficulties may be encountered in arranging schedules, due to the fact that some first semester courses may not be repeated the second semester.

Zed Smith In Action In New Guinea Area

(From Charleston Daily Mail)

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia (UP)—The New Guinea campaign broadened today into a land-air battle with both the Allies and the Japanese throwing strong aerial punches in the fight for the Mubo Calamau area.

In an effort to cripple Japanese air strength, three flights of Allied planes attacked the enemy airdrome at Lae, key base on Huon gulf above Samaua, a communique reported.

The attacks occurred Saturday, coincident with heavy raids by almost 100 enemy planes on Allied positions at Wau and Bobdubi.

Heavy planes, meanwhile, blasted at Rabaul, New Britain, airdrome and Cape Gloucester, both on New Britain, and Kavieng, New Ireland, all of which have airbases from which New Guinea can be reached.

The communique did not mention the ground fighting. Last reports indicated the battle-involving small units of both sides in the toughest kind of jungle country—was bitter.

Zed Smith, of Marlinton, W. Va., has made five missions since he got here a week ago—in one of which his gunner, Tech. Sgt. William Marshall, of Los Angeles, shot down a Zero.

Navy Needs 11 Specialists

The Navy has openings for 11 specialists for recruiting duty as shore patrolman, it was announced by Lt. E. L. Rumbaugh, officer in charge of Naval recruiting activities in West Virginia, with headquarters at Huntington.

Three of these specialists will be given the rating of second class petty officer with the accompanying base pay of $96 per month, plus an additional allowance of $2.75 per day for subsistence and quarters if government facilities are not available. These men also are given the allowance and privileges of Navy personnel.

The remaining eight men of this quota will be assigned the rating of third class petty officer with the base pay of $78 per month and the same allowances.

Lt. Rumbaugh stated that these men will be sent to the District Shore Patrol Headquarters at the United States Naval Armory in Chicago for outfitting and assignment to duty.

Chief Quartermaster N. W. Grimes who is recruiter in charge of the Elkins Navy Recruiting Station stated that the age limits for the above ratings are between the age of 38 and 50. He further stated that this is an exceptional opportunity for qualified men who apply now.

THAT a good start for this week's Impressions would be an account of the journey of this editor, in company with my friends Cal Price and Harper Smith, to the beautiful environs of Watoga State Park, to hobnob for an evening with visiting celebrities to our inviting county.

On the generous invitation of "Si" Wills, member of the Conservation Commission staff, we were privileged to meet the renowned Grantland Rice, the nation's ace sports writer and film-master of the "Sportlight," viewed on screens throughout the country; Bobby Cruikshank, famous Scottish golf professional, who shepherds the flock of beginners and others at the Country Club of Virginia, down at Richmond, between matches with other top-notchers for national honors; and Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker Magazine, who with Mrs. Ross and the others were guests of L. A. Cohen, head of a squad of Merchant Police in Charleston.

That the group had imbibed of the spirit of freedom which is an attribute of our mountain territory, there could be no doubt. No one was standing on ceremony of any sort, and the members of our little group were greeted as though we were all friends of long standing. Cal Price and "Grantie" spent most of the evening with arms around each other's shoulders in the true spirit of communion which probably exists when one dignitary meets another.

... and the long reel of colored motion picture film which Host Cohen was shooting on the trip will, (if it isn't cut), show the outstanding reporter in company with a couple of country editors and a member of the banking profession, which is probably questionable company to have foisted upon one when there's no place to take to except the hills, and when one is a bit too tired to climb. Unfortunately, most of the big trout in our streams seemed to elude the wiles of these outsiders, although there was a report current that they had caught a few, and that Rice had a 26-inch which he was going to present to Governor Neely the next day.

... but I must be truthful enough to say that I didn't see it. Ross' run of luck is said to have been such that he stomped into a state of unfitness a new rod with which he was casting when others around him drew in their catches, and none of the lowly fish responded to his willing advances. Cruikshank was an amazing example of ceaseless energy and vitality; he came in from the day's trek with all the activity of a speck of dust in a windstorm, giving action readings of amorous Scottish shepherds, singing about a "Bonnie Lassie," and quoting Bobby Burns' untranslatable poetry in a Scotch brogue which was also un-understandable. All in all, I think that our party was extremely glad of the invitation to visit with the notables and the several likable representatives of the Commission. We shall undoubtedly remember it for a long time to come. And I feel safe in predicting that, even if the notables do not remember us, they too will remember their visit to beautiful Watoga in the mountains of Pocahontas.

Rice, because it was here that he suffered the affliction of getting a gnar in his eye. Cruikshank, because of a certain "difficult situation" which was imposed upon him. Ross, because he had to wait so long for his supper. Cohen, because it gave him another opportunity to bring big-name people into the state. And the Commission men, because they found this sort of "pleasure" trip much harder than working.

★

THAT the small-world item in connection with the above incident was the discovery that this editor, in his varied past, had once worked for the same "boss" for whom Grantland Rice and Harold Ross had once worked (though Ross says the "boss" fired Rice). A rather excitable and pugnacious individual named Guy T. Visniski. Who, when we knew him, certainly kept things in a hum, and who, when he couldn't go himself would send a dynamic note signed "G. T. V." And another thing, is that the dinner which was served to the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tucker was the kind which comes under the headings of both "delicious" and "refreshing" and we think they handled the whole affair in a rather grand style.

Allied Generalship, Planes and Guns Decisive Factor in Tunisia Windup; Farm Situation Improves, Davis Says; Red Drive Perils Nazi Caucasus Hold

How blood plasma contributed by donations of Americans to the Red Cross is used to save lives on battlefields is illustrated by the above photo of doctors treating a wounded U. S. soldier at a portable field hospital in New Guinea. Clayton Mitchell (left) of Wyandotte, Mich., and Maj. William Garlick of Baltimore, Md., are administering the plasma.

TUNISIA:

Master Generalship

Axis resistance in Tunisia had steadily crumbled as the Allied armies moved inexorably toward their goals. As American artillery pounded the Bizerte harbor area setting fire to wharves and docking facilities, the British First Army had swept over the Tunisian plains leading to the capital city of Tunis.

The moves on Bizerte had been expedited by the capture by American and French forces of hilly strongholds protecting Lake Achkel and Lake Bizerte. In mopping up operations in the Mediterranean coastal region the Allies had continued to capture numerous prisoners.

In analyzing the results of the successful offensive, observers credited master Allied generalship with outmaneuvering the Axis. The Allied high command had led the enemy to believe that the principal blows would be struck by General Montgomery's British Eighth Army from the south. After the Axis had thrown heavy strength to repel Montgomery, American forces in the Bizerte area and British First Army forces before Tunis had struck crushing blows simultaneously.

Europe Drive 'Sure'

As the North African climax had approached, Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, had declared there is "no question but that there will be Allied operations on continental Europe this summer." Expressing his confidence that the Allies would clean up Tunisia in time to permit invasion of the continent this year, Davis added that it might possibly be necessary to leave a pocket of Axis resistance at Bizerte to be reduced by sustained pounding even while continental operations were under way. Following the death of Lt. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers was named U. S. European commander.

STRIKE BAN:

More Power for WLB

Congress moved swiftly to strengthen the government's hand in dealing with strikes.

First step was the senate's overwhelming enactment of legislation empowering the government to take over plants in which war production is stopped by labor disputes and making it a crime to instigate a strike in war plants or mines which have been taken over by the government.

The senate measure was a much-amended version of a bill by Senator Connally of Texas to give congressional sanction for government seizure of war plants and mines. It had been introduced months before, but had been dormant until John L. Lewis refused to submit the soft coal wage demands to the War Labor Board and the miners' work stoppage followed. The final version contained a clause giving the WLB legal power to enter and seize labor disputes.

As the bill went to the house, it provided compensation for one year's imprisonment of $5,000 fine upon anyone guilty of inducing a strike or strike threat in a government-operated plant.

CONTROVERSY: Russ Add New Fuel

More fuel was added to the flaming Russ-Polish controversy when the Soviet foreign office charged that cabinet officers of the Polish government-in-exile had engaged in espionage activities against Russia. To this charge the Reds added the further allegation that the Polish government had refused to permit use of Russian-trained Polish troops on the Soviet front.

United Nations' chancelleries had previously been heartened over the prospects of a resumption in Russ-Polish relations when Premier Josef Stalin had advocated the establishment of a strong and independent Polish state after the war and suggested a Polish-Russian pact directed against Germany. Observers viewed the Soviet foreign office's supplementary charges as an indication that while Russia desired good relations with Poland, it was bitterly at odds with members of the present government-in-exile.

Stalin's statement appearing in a letter to Ralph Parker, Moscow correspondent of the New York Times, had unequivocally endorsed the idea of a strong and independent post-war Poland and declared that future Russ-Polish relations should be on the basis of "good neighborly relations, or an alliance against Germany should the Polish people desire it."

DRAFT: Fathers by August

Nation-wide induction of fathers into the armed forces will be started by August "if not sooner," Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey announced. In a subsequent move Selective Service headquarters issued instructions under which fathers in 35 listed essential industries may be given essential deferment. Observers believed that the new order indicated that the ban against the induction of fathers soon would be lifted.

Under the new instructions to local draft boards, care will be taken to keep fathers in essential occupations out of the armed forces until fathers working in less essential jobs have been inducted.

General Hershey ordered all essential war production employers to file with draft boards evidence of their employment of men who maintain bona fide homes with children under 18 years of age and born before September 14, 1942.

PACIFIC: U. S. Air Upsurge

Surging American air strength took its toll of the Japs in widely separated actions on the far-flung Pacific front.

In the foggy Aleutians off the North American mainland American bombers kept up their incessant aerial pounding that has prevented the enemy from completing the airfield that has been under construction for several months on Kiska island.

Reporting an action of tremendous implications because it showed that heavy reinforcements had reached the U. S. air forces in China and that enemy bases near to Japan were now being laid open to our attacks, Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters in China reported that newly arrived four-engine Liberator bombers had "pretty nearly wiped out" a Jap airport on the southern end of Hainan island.

From American army headquarters in New Delhi, India, came the announcement that U. S. heavy bombers had dropped more than 30 tons of bombs on Japanese installations in Toungoo, Burma, in the Mandalay area, blasting the enemy headquarters there and causing severe damage to other buildings.

ALIEN BUSINESS: Now in U. S. Hands

The United States has thrown back the economic invasion launched nearly a quarter of a century ago by the aggressor nations with whom we are now at war, the Office of War Information announced in making public figures showing that $7,000,000,000 in assets of enemy and enemy-occupied countries are now under control of the alien property custodian.

"Every company in which Nazi influence was known to exist has been Americanized," the OWI said. "These companies are now giving valuable support to the war and are playing an important part in helping the nation meet its production goals."

More than 2,000 such business firms are operating under licenses from the treasury department. A total of 41,077 patents and pending patent applications owned by enemy nationals are now under control of the alien property custodian.

FEDERAL PAY:

Up for Workers

The house completed action on legislation previously adopted by the senate, raising the pay of federal employees who make less than $10,000 a year.

The bill provides a flat $300 increase for workers in the lowest salary brackets in the executive departments, whose pay had not been brought to this level by a previous 11.2 per cent raise based on increasing the regular work week from 37 to 40 hours.

BUYING BONDS THE 'EASY' WAY

THIRTEEN BILLION DOLLARS worth of bonds, which Uncle Sam asked us to buy during the Second War Loan drive, and which we did buy, is a lot of money. To provide that amount would take practically all the coins and folding money in the United States if we were to put up the cash. But that is not the way it works.

John is working in a war industry plant. His wages amount to $50 a week. Each Saturday night, at his request, a $5 bill is withheld from his pay envelope to apply on his war bond purchase. That $5 bill is deposited in a bank to the credit of the United States. John spends much of the remaining $45 for things he needs, or deposits a portion of it in the bank. Out of what he spends, other Johns and Marys are paid, and they, too, buy war bonds. Out of what John deposits, the bank buys war bonds.

John's weekly pay is but a portion of an ever-revolving fund. Week by week it is paid to the government and again paid out to those producing what we must have to win the war. Week by week the ghost continues to walk because the Johns and Marys are financing their jobs by buying government securities. What they pay comes back to them, and in addition they have their government's IOU and will in time get it all back, plus interest.

CAPITAL NECESSARY TO KEEP LABOR AT WORK

BILL JONES has a job. That job provides food, clothing, shelter, car, tickets for the movies, and other luxuries, as well as essentials for Bill and his family. To enable Bill to have a job means an investment of $8,000 in tools, including factory building and other essentials of production. Bill did not have $8,000, and others had to provide the tools which made Bill's job possible. It was the American capitalistic system that provided the tools.

For each man who has a job in an American factory, there is an average of $8,000 invested in the tools and buildings which make a job possible. It means a total investment of something like 480 billion dollars. That is America's working capital which provides jobs for our 60 million workers. If we make it impossible for capital to provide the tools, we take away the jobs that support workers and their families.

That is what we are doing right now. The war will be over some day and then new tools must be provided to replace those used in war production. With government taking out of industry all industry can earn, leaving nothing with which to provide new tools, Bill Jones, and his co-workers, will be without jobs. We will have won a war and lost a peace. We will have destroyed the American system of free enterprise.

LABOR MONOPOLY AND GOVERNMENT

A BILL that would curb some of the more atrocious activities of the labor racketeers was introduced in the Colorado legislature. The bill, if enacted into law, will give union members control of their own organization by forcing regular elections of union officers by secret ballot, as well as forcing union officials to account for union receipts and expenditures, and calling for a secret ballot of members before a strike can be called. The self-appointed, self-perpetuating union officials notified the state government that if the legislature passed the bill, the law would not be obeyed. The labor racketeer has been cajoled and appeased until he considers himself above the law. He will permit no interference with his self-given right of extortion from those whom the government forces into union membership if they are to have a job.

TOP-HEAVY BUREAUS IN GOVERNMENT

SAMUEL INSULL created a great public utility structure by building corporations on top of corporations, until the top-heavy organization toppled over, and in the crash the public lost millions of dollars. To prevent a recurrence of such a catastrophe, congress created the SEC. But the government is not taking its own medicine. Bureaus and departments are being built on top of other bureaus and departments, until government has become as top-heavy as was Insull's public utility structure. There is a limit, and should a top-heavy government topple over, the Insull failure would be but a drop as compared to an ocean of disaster.

DEBT LIMIT AND THE FAMILY

CONGRESS RAISED the federal debt limit to 210 billion dollars and it will reach that point by the end of this year. That means each man, woman and child has been mortgaged for $1,812, and over each family of five there is a mortgage of $9,060, on which there is an annual interest charge of not less than $181 for each family to pay. Our indebtedness at the close of 1943 will be eight times what it was at the close of the First World War.

Washington Digest Air Corps Cuts Red Tape With Absorption of CAP

Student Pilots of Civil Air Patrol Are Vital Link
In Nation's Defense Chain; Valued Services Now Recognized.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building,
Washington, D. C.

As the tempo of American activity on the foreign fronts moves with an accelerated beat, it is pleasing to note that a lot of red tape in Washington is being rolled up and chucked into official wastebaskets. One example is what the air corps is trying to do to utilize every ounce of human and material resource that is available.

When war comes, there is always a sharp cross current of human emotions—the good old one of self-preservation, and the equally old and much better one, from the standpoint of the nation, of patriotism. And, for opposite reasons but with the same result, both meet with obstacles. Many injustices occur in the selection of men for military service. Many ardent and valuable men are stopped from rendering the service of which they are capable and which they are anxious to furnish.

Red tape is the answer. But red tape is bound to tangle any Herculean effort when a peaceful nation turns into a belligerent.

Drab Duties

The latest step in removing the red tape that was holding back a lot of valuable human power was the absorption of the Civil Air Patrol by the air corps. As this is written, the decision is being made as to which administrative group will take over this body of patriotic fliers who have been furnishing their own planes and their own services, unsung and unhonored. Most of their duties have been drab, and in many cases, stultifying because of their indefinite, quasi-military status. They are not a part of the air corps.

Another important step forward is also under way which will bring that group of unselfish young men into active service after months of morale-breaking waiting—I refer to the Civilian Pilot trainees, most of whom are now sure of active duty as instructors or flying cadets. They, too, have worked without compensation other than subsistence, and have sacrificed time, earning capacity and opportunity to continue their normal civilian careers. They are now being gradually absorbed into the air corps, too.

Few people in the country outside of the families of the members are familiar with either the Civil Air Patrol, the student pilots of the War Training program or even that other group of a million and a half volunteers who make up the aircraft warning service.

The Civil Air Patrol received some publicity for its important part in offshore duty in the campaign which stopped the submarine activities off the eastern coast of the United States. These men were pilots who owned their own planes, took their special training and received only gasoline and a small fee for depreciation while on active duty.

Spotters for 'Tough Guys'

They are a vital link in that chain of air and surface guardians who watched our waters from Maine to Florida. They could spot a sub, immediately report it to the nearest bomber or a fast coast guard or naval vessel. Some of the civilian planes were equipped with light bombs but they were not able to make much use of them because their planes were slow and a sub on the surface could spot them as quickly as they could spot the sub and crash dive. That can be done in seven or eight minutes and since visibility may extend 15 miles, the sub could hit bottom before the pilot could get over his target. Their chief function was to play bird-dog for the "tough guys" carrying heavier depth bombs.

Civil Air Patrol did invaluable but less romantic service in carrying vital machine parts between factories. It is now possible that some of these men and women in the interior of the country who have been making uninteresting overland flights from here to there may get a whiff of sea air, too. In any case, the red tape between them and the air command has been severed.

If not technically, at least practically, "they're in the army now." As to the boys in the CPT war training program, who have been warming benches and waiting at nothing per diem, a bill in congress

Status Unchanged

The last named group, the spotters, operate under the air command, and their status was unchanged, they are a part of the Civilian Defense.

This group is made up of volunteer workers working with force experts, in connection with a vast network of telephone connections which lace the coastline, east, south and west. They total a million and a half people and the OCD calls them "volunteers," and their status as civilians. It consists in reporting and recording. Not a plane appears in the sky is not checked and accounted for until it is.

Most of the volunteers are men and many more are needed. The job is described as being "citing and tough." The centers where these people are guarded by soldiers and men in who doesn't work there official business.

Here dozens of girls wear gigantic table maps of the war wear telephone headsets and pieces like a regular telephone, listening to the radio and moving little markers "pips," representing planes on the map with long wands.

Method of Operation

After the third report, a watching the board from above, reports it to the room, which may be in another part of the building. This point is the nerve center here again, the planes are Army men and Civil Air Patrol administration officials who continuously receiving information every plane leaving the check this information with below them. Every plane accounted for. If not, I, if we live in that vicinity about it—the air raid was flashed. If the flier has a ground without clearance, some mistake hasn't been self, he is likely to see a light after him or he might even duck anti-aircraft fire. The careful our anti-aircraft to be.

About Nutrition

I received the following from a listener in Miami, Fla.: "Those who know will tell the introduction of synthetic vitamins are as effective as natural vitamins, been shown by extensive experimentation."

Before the order was placed, white flour with vitamins, lengthy testimony by leading nutritionists, men with no axes to grind. My listener was a doctor. He was sincerely of his misinformation. I wonder who started it.
